

FINEGAN TO CONFER ON SCHOOLS' BUDGET

New State Superintendent in Harrisburg to See Governor

ACCOMPLISHMENT RECORD

Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, deputy state commissioner of education, of New York, is in Harrisburg for a conference with Governor Sproul in reference to his appointment as superintendent of public instruction of Pennsylvania. He is to confer on the budget proposition. Doctor Finegan has accepted the appointment which had been tendered him by Governor Sproul and will take up his duties September 1 next. Meanwhile he is to be in Harrisburg more or less and will look over his new field of activity. His resignation from the position of deputy state commissioner of education of New York is effective today.

Not until ten days ago did Doctor Finegan know he was looked upon as a successor of Nathan C. Schaefer, deceased, and who was a warm personal friend of Doctor Finegan. Outside of Dr. John H. Finley, the present commissioner of education, few men are better known in educational circles than Doctor Finegan.

Among the leading progressive educational movements which have been inaugurated largely through the efforts of Doctor Finegan are:

A compulsory continuation school measure.

A state-wide minimum salary bill, according to all teachers and appropriating $5,300,000 to aid the localities in paying the increased salaries.

Inauguration of the plan of licensing teachers by the state, raising the minimum age of teachers from sixteen to eighteen years.

Rebuilding the seven normal schools of the state and the state college for teachers.

The adoption of a state-wide teachers' retirement law. The addition of the old political office of school commissioner and the substitution of the rural district superintendent therefor.

The institution of a program of health instruction and medical inspection in the schools.

Making the city superintendent of schools a professional officer and conferring upon him full power in relation to the professional affairs of a city school system.

Doctor Finegan has spoken and written extensively on educational subjects and was the advisory editor on education for the new American Encyclopedia. In 1918 he was honored by being elected president of the National Educational Association. He is a Democrat, a Presbyterian and is fifty-two years old.

Eye Talks
By Joseph C. Ferguson, Jr., our next talk Wed. June 19th
BY keeping a strict watch over the vision of the pupils school teachers can put the children in a position to see clearly, and consequently to think clearly and quickly grasp the subject taught, a distinct service will be done for the children, while the teachers' own duties will be made easier.
Special attention should be paid to complaints of headache, nervousness, stomach trouble and eye discomforts and inattention to work. Glasses from any source—such as from blackboards, windows, books and paper—should be reduced as far as possible.
When eye troubles are noted the sufferer should go to an Oculist at the very first opportunity.
If glasses are necessary, the prescription should be filed by a Prescription Oculist.

COLONEL HACKETT'S SHINBONE REPLACES SHATTERED JAW

Army Officer, Son of Former Register of Wills, Had So Many Injections He "Feels Like a Sieve"

Colonel Horatio B. Hackett, a son of the former Register of Wills Hackett, has been subjected to an unusual operation in an army base hospital in St. Louis where he was inserted in place of the silver plate.

"I am all cut up and I'm stuck so full of holes from injections of various kinds that I feel like a sieve," he wrote to his brother. "Some day I suppose I'll be well again and then give me a clear track for I am going to be on my way. After I am able to leave this house of mirth I think I will take a long rest. I hope to spend some time at Atlantic City and visit all my friends in Philadelphia."

Colonel Hackett, who directs the affairs of the Mayor's employment agency for soldiers and sailors, "I don't know when they'll let me walk. It's funny to have a bum jaw and be laid up with a game leg on account of it."

Colonel Hackett commanded the Twenty-fourth Field Artillery of the Third Army Division in France before he was wounded. The men of his unit are scheduled to arrive in New York from France next Tuesday.

Jaw Is Broken Again

When Colonel Hackett was brought over here from Base Hospital No. 1 at Neuilly, he was removed to Base No. 49 in St. Louis. Here the surgeons found that the flesh and skin were growing between the silver plate in his jaw and the bone, and that the wound was not healing. Last Thursday the jaw was broken again and the pieces of bone taken from his leg inserted in place of the silver plate.

"I won't be much good in a fight now. If a fellow kicked me on the shin—Oh, boy! And if he hit me on the jaw—Oh, Boy! I won't even be able to hit first and run because of this game leg."

Colonel Hackett devoted a full page in the letter in praising the work of the Salvation Army in France.

"You didn't find them loafing around Paris," he wrote. "They were too busy in the front."

Colonel Hackett is thirty-eight years old, and a graduate of West Point, where he was a noted football star.

TRUCK CARRIED A BLOCK

Stalled Delivery Motor Hit by Express Train in Manayunk. The Harrisburg express, going north early today, picked up half of a baker's truck near Peadar street, Manayunk, carried it a block and dumped it at Roxborough street.

The auto, driven by the owner, Theodore Wojciechowitz, Jr., of 4217 Main street, Manayunk, was delivering bread to the families in the neighborhood. It stalled on the tracks of the Norristown branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway just about the time a train was due to pass. The train passed and smashed into the car, carrying part of the car along with it.

Wojciechowitz jumped aside in time to escape injury.

State Suffragists Score Victory

Harrisburg, May 21.—Suffragists won another victory today when the House constitutional amendment was made a special order in the Senate for its second reading Monday night. Senator Vane made the motion for the special order after the resolution had been read a second time. It has already passed the House.

DAY OF TALK IN FORD SUIT

Arguments on Admissibility of Evidence Occupy Court. Mount Clemens, Mich., May 21.—(By A. P.)—Arguments on the admissibility of evidence prepared for the Ford Tribunal trial continued before Judge Tucker in circuit court here today. It was predicted that they would last all day. The jury was excluded. Alfred Ducking, of counsel for Ford, resumed his remarks where they were interrupted by adjournment yesterday afternoon.

He expanded his theme designed to exclude a mass of testimony prepared by the defendant which includes the testimony of former officers who have had commands on the Mexican border; numerous reports of army and navy officers and officials, presidential proclamations and speeches, depositions in large number, and the testimony of citizens who have suffered from Mexican depredations.

SHIPYARD STILL TIED UP

Bristol Plant Strikers Confident as to Outcome. Leader Says. The situation at the Merchant Shipbuilding Corporation, where striking union men tied up the entire plant yesterday, remains unchanged, it was announced at the corporation office this morning.

None of the strikers returned to work. The walkout of more than 5000 union men has effectively tied up the work of the 3000 nonunion men at the plant. John A. Mellon, union organizer, said, and the men have no doubt as to the outcome of the strike.

The walkout was caused by dissatisfaction with general conditions at the plant, he said, and the inability of the unions to find some person, either at the Merchants' plant or at the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who could speak to them with authority.

OPEN-AIR PROGRAMS IN MISSION SESSION

Delegates to Convention Here Will Deliver Addresses in City Hall Plaza

ATTACK AGENCY METHODS

Mission workers from all parts of the United States and Canada are attending today's sessions of the International Union of the Gospel Mission Conference at the Chambers-Wylie Presbyterian Church, Broad street near Spruce. The convention opened yesterday and will continue until Sunday.

Open air meetings will be held every night of the conference at 7 o'clock in the City Hall court and plaza, where the delegates will deliver addresses.

"Social service tags the poor family as they give a number to the criminal in the penitentiary," declared the Rev. H. H. Kratzig, of Norfolk, Va., in an address at the opening session yesterday.

Mr. Kratzig attacked the methods employed by scientifically conducted charitable agencies, and delivered a challenge to the social service agencies in Philadelphia.

"I'll wager the Inasmuch Mission, the Whosoever Mission, Galilee Mission and Brotherhood Mission are doing more work, and greater work, in proportion to the money invested, than all the humanitarian and welfare agencies," he declared. "Jerry McAuley was not lifted up by social service and 'Billy Sunday' was converted in a mission. These men were the product of the old-fashioned Christian service."

Mr. Kratzig said the greatest problem confronting the country today is "the young man who has been spoiled by high wages."

"We have hundreds of these boys in our jails," he told the mission leaders. "They are only fifteen to sixteen years old. They made big money during the war. Many of them were given industrial work in the cantonments. They were too young for army service. Today many of them are out of work, or if they have employment they cannot obtain big wages. A large number of these young fellows have drifted into crime. Others have become bums. They are a menace to society."

J. R. McIntyre, of the Whosoever Gospel Mission, Germantown, presided at the opening session; Joseph S. MacLaughlin, director of supplies, representing Mayor Smith; Charles Z. Teyon, of the Chamber of Commerce, and others spoke.

The Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins and the Rev. Dr. George F. Pentecost welcomed the delegates in behalf of the clergy, and Harry E. Paisley and William H. Scott spoke for the laity. Mrs. E. M. Whittemore and Thomas J. Noonan responded.
