Nancy Wynne Talks of the Out-of-Doors Fetes-Country Fair and Horse Show Next Week-Day Nurseries' Rummage Sale at 809 Chestnut Street

EVERYTHING is pretty much in readiness for the Horse Show next week and for the Country Fair on the side, which will be as big as the show, it seems, though I hear there are more than one thousand entries for the show.

I am more than anxious to see the whole thing, aren't you? Out-of-doors affairs are great, there is no mistaking that! And ren't the babies loves? I saw Eleanor Hopkins Jones's baby—that is, her oldest baby—at the Flower Market on Wednesday. She was in a white enamel go coach and had on a lovely ruffly white cap, and looked just too cute for anything, sitting up as straight as a die.

She was not in with the crowd in the center of the square, but her mother was pushing her about the outside pavement, and I assure you many an admiring friend has-tened out of the square to pay homage to small Miss Jones.

Mrs. Jones is staying with her half-sister, Miss Letitia McKim, for some little time and has her two babies with her.

TALKING of children, it was certainly a pleasure to see Mrs. Richard Berridge and her children at the Pony Show last week. You know it's the first time she has been able to come over since the war. In fact. it's about five or six years. I think, since she has been here, and she has five perfectly sweet children.

Every one was delighted to welcome her and it was such fun to see all the children of her friends with her little boys and girls. Mrs. Berridge was Eulalie Lesley, a daughter Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Lesley, Haverford. She is better known to her intimates as Lalite. Her little daughter has a quaint rendition of the name with a little Irish twist to it. She is called Laleen. They spent the afternoon that day with the little Baugh girls and the Rowland children and various others whose mothers had been friends of Mrs. Berridge.

THE Delta Kappa Psi Fraternity dance is on tonight, you know, at the Merion Cricket Club, for the benefit of the outling fund of St. Martha's House. There are to be many dinners before the dance. Mrs. Stacy Lloyd is going to entertain in honor of her daughter Ellen at Wye House, Ardmore, and Mrs. Henry Jeanes will have ten guests at dinner in honor of Margaretta, who will take part in all of next year's deb affairs. you know. Eleanor Robb, who is also to be the guest of honor at a dinner tonight, is to be a debutante. I believe her date is No-vember 26. The fraternity is a very big affair now and of course some of the nicest girls are in it. The committee in tharge of the dance tonight includes Eleanor Peppers Newbold, Maria Frazer Dougherty, Gainer Baird, Peggy Thayer, Juliana Baker, Margarette Jeanes, Catherine Coxe, Ellen Glendinning. Pauline Bell, Edith Carpenter, Kitty Knight, Anne Ashton, Ellen Lloyd, Christine Cadwalader, Mary Geary, Ger-trude Dougherty, Ruth Packard, Virginia Carter, Sophic Yarnall and Jessie Da Costa. who is chairman.

THE day nurseries are certainly getting what's coming to them this week. You know the Association of Day 'Nurseries is benefiting by the welfare dances at the Ritz this week, and then the rummage sale going on at 809-11 Chestnut street is for the Joy Day Nursery and the Willing Day Nursery. hear they have wonderful things, and a Salvation Army lassic is frying doughnuts in the front window—an' everything. I don't know much about the Joy Day Nursery, except that it's at Sixth and Brown streets; but the Willing Day Nursery was established in 1879 by Mrs. George Willing, president, in the old Willing house at 427 Pine street, and this is only the second time in its history that it has had to appeal for funds. Which is some record, you'll doubt agree. Mrs. Thomas E. Coale, Mrs. James Large, Mrs. Joseph M. Dohan, Mrs. Walter S. McInnes and Miss Marguerite L. Weston are in charge of the sale in the interests of the Joy Day Nursery, and the committee in charge of the Willing Day Nursery sale includes Mrs. George Willing, Jr., Mrs. George Stuart Patterson, Mrs. Arthur W. Sewall and Mrs. A. J. Dallas Dixon. NANCY WYNNE.

79TH PARADE IMPRACTICABLE

Could Not Hold Men Until All Are Discharged, Says Officer

"Military reasons" make it impossible for men of the Seventy-ninth Division, after their arrival at Camp Dix, to be discharged first and then brought to the city for a parade before disbanding, according to Lieutenant John A. Bradway, member of the welcome home committee.

The suggestion that the troops be mustered out before the proposed parade was made by "A Mother." It was her idea that if the suggestion could be adopted the men after the reception would be free to receive "an old-time welcome" at their respective homes, and would be relieved of the irksome necessity of returning to camp after a public demonstration. "The issuance of discharges in such manner, and keeping the men in camp after paying them off, would be too great a strain on the accommodations at the cantonment and the mustering office, which is capable of handling only 2000 men a day," said Lieutenant Bradway.

"OH UNCLE" LIKELY TO GIVE CONCERT AND DANCE TO SUMMER HERE

Warm Reception Accorded Warm Weather Show at Shubert

No moss is noticeable on the old oaken bucket which hangs in the newly and nicely painted well that disputes the honors of the stage center with the principals in "Oh Uncle," and wins the honors, for the matter of that, since it is static and they are iucessantly dynamic. The only moss noticeable about the show is on a few of the the jokes, for otherwise the show is brandnew, spick-and-span, up-to-the-musicalcomedy minute, or whatever other term best conveys the sense of novelty and freshness. Of writing musical comedy books there is no end for forestist Edgar Smith, and doubtless he thinks too much originality is a weariness of the flesh. At that, the old stuff went great, as it always does, and the packed bouse enjoyed the corporal's guard of hale, hearty old jests as gleefully as it did a very sizable mobilization of up-to-date jokes and epigrams. Should auld acquaintance, like Joe Miller, he forgot? Not while musical comedy holds the boards:

"Oh Uncle," is likely to hold the Shubert boards far into the "heated term," even unto the sinister influence of Sirius if the enthusiastic attitude of the first night audience is reliably prophetic. Certainly its warm reception ran the mercury high upon the thermometer of popular approval. What will happen when the aforesaid dogstar begins to flirt officially with the forestar begins to flirt officially with the foreconveys the sense of novelty and freshness.

star begins to flirt officially with the forecaster's Fahrenheit on the top of the post-office is another matter? What matters just now is that "Oh Uncle" very auspiciously opened the Shubert's summer season at

It has everything or at least a little of popular prices. everything-even plot-just a little of that. It's really not worth mentioning, really, so nobody need be deterred from seeing the show by the prospect of having to concentrate on consecutive and careful thinking. This plot doesn't call for thinking or even demand following. It never for a moment is so ill-mannered as to obtrude itself or to interrupt the constant succession of songs, dances, specialties and comedy (tuneful, graceful, clever and amusing, as the case may be) and the kaleidoscopic procession of principals and chorus, the one numerous and clever, the other numerous and good looking.

The nature of it may be surmised from the two locales, of a farm garden at Cemetery Corners, which is in New Jersey, and a roof garden in Cabarctville, which is on a long, narrow island, off York state. Both the Corners and Cabaretville are notable poultry centers. It might be mentioned, in the casual manner of the plot, that the leading deacon of the Corners is diagonal in several directions rather than diaconal along a straight and narrow path when he treats Broadway to his presence. At dome he never looks upon the dandelion wine when it is yellow and in the city he does not look on the wine when it is red-he doesn't think it was made to look at and July 1 so near. Being an uncle, it follows, even without heavy thinking, that he sustains this avuncular function by having a nephew. Nephew wants to marry an actress despite uncle's opposition; uncle wants to "angel" show for an actress. It happens to be the same actress-and thus we have the plot! It is worked out with plenty of comedy and no coarseness, except one very offensive bit of "business," which should be censored before tonight's performance. The incongruity of Harry Kelly's soleme mien and hick manners to his frolicsome proclivities off his rural reservation furnishes one of the laughing hits of the show. It's been a good many years since he was the life of "His Honor the Mayor," but the years have not stiffened his joints nor reduced his capacity to win laughs. Frank Fay scored another of the outstanding hits, though there was just a bit too much of him and not quite enough of Bessie Wynne. Sam Ash's ringing voice-which should make him opulent with record royalties, as an interpreter of the high notes of 'Di Quella Pira" and suchlike airs-Lew Cooper's aljoisonesque talents, Hazel Kirke' gracious ways and sweet voice, Nancy Fair's clever work, and Sam Curtis's amusing yokel impersonation are only a few of the many entertainment assets of the show. It is very handsomely staged and lavishly and frequently—costumed. The tasteful staging is credited to Edward Clark, who also collaborated with Mr. Smith in the book and lyrics, and the music is ascribed to Jacques Presburg and Charles Jules.

PHI BETA KAPPA DINNER

Spring Meeting of Philadelphia Association Held at Haverford College

The spring meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Association of Philadelphia was held at Haverford College last night. After a dia ner in Founders' Hall, at which Dr. Felix E. Schelling, president of the association, presided, Dr. Samuel McCord Crothers, of Cambridge, Mass., delivered a whimsically humorous and wise address, describing a visit to the school conducted by "Dame Experience," in the course of which he exhibited a philosophy of life. Brief addresses followed by Dr. Richard Mott Gummere, headmaster of the Penn Charter School and Dr. William Wistar Comfort, president of Haverford.

LAUNCH SHARON SATURDAY

Wife of Gloucester Superintendent Will Christen New Tanker

Mrs. Badye Kelly, wife of Thomas F. Kelly, superintendent of the Puscy & Jones Gloucester shipyards, will christen the 7000ton tanker Sharon when it is launched at the Pennsylvania shipyard, Gloucester, tomorrow morning at 9:30.

The honor conferred upon Mrs. Kelly is pleasing to the men who have worked on the construction of the ship because her hus band has looked after its supervision from the time the keel was laid. The tanker is the last of the series of six built at the plant. There will be no more launchings before the first of July. The launching will be private.

HAHNEMANN DINNER TUESDAY President of College Will Be Host to Graduating-Class Men

Charles D. Barney, president of Hahne-mann College and Hospital, will give a din-ner to the members of the graduating class of the college Tuesday evening, May 27, at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club. This is Huntingdon Valley Country Club. This is the first of a number of functions which will be held prior to the college commencement in June. Trustees of the college will be among the guests. Future plans of the institution will be announced at the dinner. In no single twelve months has the progress in the college and hospital been as great as since the last commencement. This, it is reported, has brought up many new problems on which the trustees and officers lave been working.

Lack of Respect for "the Colors"

For the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger Sir-The writer was one of the man thousands who enjoyed the parade of your fine Twenty-eighth Division last Thursday but would like to know why there is ap-parently so little respect shown for the olors on such an occasion by the spectators.

Is it that the people of a city so replete with our history are really ignorant of what the Stars and Stripes symbolize or is i willful carelessness on the part of the ma-jority? I believe it is the latter reason. and therefore all the more inexcusable. least five times when the colors passed I had to tell several men to remove their hats Some of these same men were wearing Lib-erty Bond buttons, but were most reluctant in paying this simple bomage to our flag.

In pre-war days these slights were more less overlooked, but today and on an occasion like that such flagrant disrespect to the men in France, who have added their boil. Why can't the 1919 model American be aroused from this lukewarm attitude? If if means that only those that figlit for their country ena nequire that 100 per cent spiri of Americanism I shall deeply regret the landable effects that are being made to abolish war.

Reception for Seventy-ninth

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger Sir-I see in your afternoon edition that we have a welcome home committee for the Seventy-ninth Division.

Now, if that is true, is it necessary to take a poll and have our sons vote that they should be entertained by the citizens of Philadelphia?

It doesn't seem to me, as a father of our of the boys, that this is the proper way to handle the question if it is up to the committee in charge to decide that the citizens of Philadelphia will have the oppor tunity of seeing their sons in parade. But if it is put up to the members of
