

BEER TEST DEFENDED. PREACHERS ASSAILED

"Ridiculous," Says Dr. Hare, to Charge That 2.75 Per Cent Beverage Is Harmful

NOT INJURIOUS, HE AVERS

"Perfectly ridiculous," is Dr. Hare's rejoinder to the assertion made by the Rev. R. E. Johnson, pastor of the Twenty-ninth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, that imbibing quantities of 2 3/4 per cent beer over a series of days would result in physical injury.

Dr. John Marshall, of the University of Pennsylvania, conducted a beverage test with three Penn students for the purpose of demonstrating the intoxicating or non-intoxicating power of beer containing 2 3/4 per cent alcohol.

The students filled themselves as full as they would hold with beer, then walked the chalk line. Doctor Marshall found no ill effects, even in an examination of the students' blood.
