

WOMEN LEADERS OF LABOR ARRIVE

Trade Union League Opens Biennial Convention at First Baptist Church

MASS-MEETING TONIGHT

Leaders of woman labor of world-wide prominence arrived here today and various parts of the United States and England to attend the biennial convention of the National Women's Trade Union League.

Miss Katherine Collins, president of the Philadelphia Women's Trade Union League, formally opened the meeting this morning in the First Baptist Church, Seventeenth and Sansom streets.

More than 100 delegates are present. At the initial session today, the Chicago delegation greeted the hostess league in song. Mrs. Laura Elliott, of New York, led the convention in singing.

British Leader to Speak Miss Mary McArthur, secretary of the British Women's Trade Union League, will be one of the speakers this afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the First Baptist Church, Miss Margaret Bondfield, the only woman member of the parliamentary committee of the British Trade Union Congress, and the first woman delegate from the British Federation of Labor to the American Federation of Labor, will be a speaker with Miss Anderson.

Questions of National Import Another English woman of prominence in the labor movement who is expected to attend the convention is Miss Eleanor Barton, of Sheffield, England, representing the British Women's Co-operative Guild.

Questions of national importance to women in these days of reconstruction will be discussed at the convention. Delegates have come to Philadelphia to attend them from various central labor bodies, state federations and union organizations in all parts of the country.

Meetings will be held at the First Baptist Church every day this week, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. One of the most important events in connection with the convention will be the meeting this evening.

Official headquarters of the convention will be at the Lincoln, Thirteenth and Locust streets, where the delegates will stay during their visit.

War Problems Are Great One of the questions of popular interest which is to be threshed out at the convention is that of the reorganization of the American household to put domestic service on a footing tolerable to the working woman. A resolution to this effect will be introduced by Mrs. Raymond Robins, national president of the organization.

In speaking of the proposed resolution Mrs. Robins said: "Under present conditions the working woman resists the suggestion that she seek domestic service as a means of livelihood, and resents the efforts to draw or force her into it. She is tired having this ill-paid, trying form of manual labor urged upon her as pre-eminently woman's field and proper choice, when she knows that in almost any other calling a woman receives not only better pay but more consideration as a human being, and has perhaps a chance of advancement."

Resents "Squeezing Out" Above all, the working woman bitterly resents what she sees as a tendency to squeeze her out of the better-paid jobs where she is competing fairly with men in order to force her to resort to the kitchen for a livelihood. When despairing, householders cry, "What is to become of the American home if we can get no servants?" the working woman demands to know, "Whose home—yours or mine?" For, after all, the working woman are more numerous than their well-to-do sisters and their complaints are heard in clubs and in the newspapers. And domestic service means no home at all for the domestic worker."

Allied Demands Given to Austria

Rumania: Rumania agrees to a similar treaty for protection of minorities and freedom of transit.

Russia: Austria is to recognize and respect the full independence of all the territories which formed part of the former Russian empire. She is to accept definitely the annulment of the Brest-Litovsk treaty and of all treaties or agreements of all kinds concluded since the revolution of November, 1917, with all governments or political groups on territory of the former Russian empire. The Allies reserve all rights on the part of Russia for restitution and satisfaction to be obtained from Austria on the principles of the present treaty.

General Arrangements Austria is to consent to the abrogation of the treaties of 1839 by which Belgium was established as a neutral state and her frontiers fixed and to accept in advance any convention with which the Allies may determine to replace them. Austria adheres to the abrogation of the neutrality of the grand duchy of Luxembourg and accepts in advance all international agreements as to it reached by the allied and associated powers. Austria accepts all arrangements which the allied and associated powers make with Turkey and Bulgaria with reference to any rights, privileges or interests claimed in these countries by Austria or her nationals and not dealt with elsewhere. Austria accepts all arrangements with the allied and associated powers made with Germany concerning the territories whose abandonment was imposed upon Denmark by the treaty of 1864.

Protection of Minorities In a series of special clauses, Austria undertakes to bring her institutions into conformity with the principles of liberty and justice and acknowledges that the obligations for the protection of minorities are over the league of nations has jurisdiction. She assures complete protection of life and liberty to all inhabitants of Austria without distinction of birth, nationality, language, race or religion, together with the right to the free exercise of any creed. All Austrian nationals without distinction of race, language or religion are to be treated alike. No restrictions are to be imposed on the free use of any language in private or public and reasonable facilities are to be given to Austrian nationals of non-German speech for the use of their language before the courts. Austrian nationals belonging to racial, religious or linguistic minorities are to enjoy the same protection as Austrian citizens. Austrian her own or her allies' territories to schools and other educational establishments, and in districts where a considerable proportion of Austrian nationals of other than German speech are resident facilities are to be given in schools for the instruction of children in their own language and an equitable share of public funds is to be provided for the purposes. These provisions do not preclude the Austrian Government from making the teaching of German obligatory. They are to be embodied in Austria in her fundamental law as a bill of rights, and provisions regarding them are to be under the protection of the league of nations.

Austrian Rights Outside Europe, Austria renounces all rights, titles and privileges as to her own or her allies' territories to all the allied and associated powers and undertakes to accept whatever measures are taken by the principal allied powers in relation thereto. The clauses as to Egypt, Morocco, China and Siam are identical after the necessary modifications with those of the German treaty except that especially in the case of China there is no need for so great detail.

Military, naval and air clauses: The military clauses are preserved. Naval: All Austro-Hungarian warships, submarines and vessels of the Danube flotilla are declared to be finally surrendered to the principal allied and associate powers. Twenty-one specified auxiliary cruisers are to be dismantled and treated as merchantmen. All warships and submarines under construction in ports which belong or have belonged to Austria-Hungary shall be broken up, the salvage not to be used except for industrial purposes and not to be sold to foreign countries. The construction or acquisition of any submarine vessel for commercial purposes is forbidden. All naval armaments and other war material belonging to Austria-Hungary at the date of the armistice shall be surrendered to the Allies. The Austrian wireless station at Vienna is not to be used for naval military or political messages relating to Austria or her allies and associated governments during three months, but only for commercial purposes under supervision. During the same period Austria is not to build any more high power wireless stations.

Air clauses: The air clauses are virtually the same as in the German treaty, except for the 100 airplanes and their personnel, which Germany is allowed to retain until October to search for mines.

General: Austria agrees not to accept or send any military, naval or air mission to any foreign country. The section on penalties is identical with the German treaty, except for the omission of any provision similar to that calling for the trial of the ex-kaiser of Germany.

The section on reparation is reserved.

COUNCILS PREPARE FOR LONG VACATION

Two More Sessions Will Bring Recess Until Fall With Much Work Undone

WAIT ON CHARTER BILLS

Nearly three full months' vacation is the summer schedule of City Council. The desks will be cleared at two regular and one or two special sessions this month. An adjournment will then be taken until the last week in September.

Only an unexpected emergency will bring the members back to their seats at any time later than June 26, as it is expected that loan legislation will be well out of the way before that date. No matter how much of the proposed $14,750,000 loan is finally authorized, it will not be floated until early fall.

Chairman Gaffney, of Councils' finance committee, will ask the municipal department heads to make up their 1919 budgets in time for presentation to councilmen on their return from the long "rest." Changes occasioned by the passage of any charter legislation at Harrisburg will cause confusion, as bills now pending provide for expenditures that have never before been considered in budgets.

May Change Budgets The steadily increasing budget demands are each fall made the subject of inquiry by Councils' finance committee, and the enactment of new laws may lead to many changes in the departmental allowances. Especially will this be the case with Councils, the Department of Health and Charities, and the Department of Supplies, if planned legislation becomes law.

Last year several councilmanic committees did a little work in the hot weather, the hot weather inquiries including rent profiteering, water improvements and trolley fares. The only one held over this year is that of water, and very little has been done in recent months to hasten any provision for either universal metering or extensive improvements.

No Action on Water As head of the special committee entrusted with the task of devising methods by which the entire city can be placed on a meter basis, Chairman Gaffney has marked time for many months and there is no indication that the water shortage will be taken any more seriously this summer than in years past.

During the long summer recess of Councils, Mayor Smith plans having his departmental heads put under contract all possible municipal work, including street improvements demanded by the Operative Builders and other organizations. Many of these contracts will depend upon the success or failure of the loan legislation this month.

The loan program is expected to come up in Common Council Thursday, and it will probably overshadow all other legislation during the closing sessions before recess. Many bills if not quickly acted upon will be over in committee, and may die a natural death in the closing months of the administration. These provide for various classes of improvements in many parts of the city.

SAYS MINISTERS HELPED Preacher Asserts Clergymen Are Responsible for Sunday Sports in City

Ministers who made public statements in favor of Sunday sports have finally seen the light for public sports in the parks on Sunday, according to the Rev. Charles B. Alsbach, who spoke at the meeting of the Reformed Ministers' Association, Fifteenth and Race streets, today.

"I am afraid that we have lost the fight because ministers who were thought to express the sentiment of large denominations have gone on record as favoring sports on Sunday. I fear that Sunday sports will be an assured thing within a year," he said.

The ministers also discussed various ways to spend their vacations.
