

500 DECORATIONS FOR PHARMACY STUDENTS

War Awards Will Be Made Tonight at Commencement of Philadelphia College

AT ACADEMY OF MUSIC

War services of the students and graduates of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy will be given recognition tonight, when 500 honor medals will be awarded at the commencement exercises to be held at the Academy of Music.

Judge John M. Patterson will make the principal address. Seventy students will be graduated. This is the smallest class that the college has presented for graduation in many years and is only half the size of last year's class. Many of its members are in the service.

At the annual meeting of the Alumni Association ten medals and prize certificates were awarded to the graduating students. The alumni gold medal was given to John Roscoe Randolph; the silver medal to Matthew Kramer.

Prize certificates for work in special fields were awarded as follows: Analytical chemistry to William Leonard Friedman; chemistry and operative pharmacy to John R. Randolph; materia medica and general pharmacy to Harry Oscar Mayer; commercial pharmacy to Rosell T. Blackwood, Jr.; pharmaceutical chemistry to Harry O. Mayer and bacteriology to Marcus Samuel Smith.

At the annual election of officers R. P. Fischels was president of the associations; William D. Robinson, first vice president; R. T. Blackwood, second vice president; J. W. England, recording secretary; M. M. Smith, corresponding secretary; and C. Carroll Meyer, treasurer.

The board of directors are E. H. Hessler, Iver Griffith, J. W. Elman, Louis Gershenfeld and E. W. Youngken.

FATHER PROSECUTES SON

Lansdale Man Then Forgives Boy Who Took Automobile

Eluding the state police by sprinting all the way from Lansdale to North Wales, Pa., Stanford Nace, twenty years old, made his way to Philadelphia only to be arrested here at a hotel at which he registered.

The young man was wanted on a warrant sworn out by his father, Harvey Nace, a Lansdale contractor. The charge grew out of the fact that young Nace took his father's automobile without the latter's permission. At a hearing in Lansdale Nace was held in $250 bail for court. Two hours later, however, the father relented and withdrew the charge.

GENTLE COW SOBS AND SIGHS "3:30 IS NO TIME TO RISE"

Bucks County Bossie Seeks Solution of Bovine Woes—Or Alternative—Oh, How She Hates to Get Up

"I'm a conservative and I don't believe in this daylight saving stuff!" And Bossie, the indignant cow, settled down in the cool grass under the apple tree, somewhere in lower Bucks county.

"Come here, I got to unbosom myself to somebody. Lend me a handkerchief, will you?" And she went.

"Maybe you think I'm foolish. But I ain't. When the country wasn't being ruined by Bolsheviki and other theorists, us cows had some comfort. We got up in the morning with the sun, the way we've been doing since the day when milk was first mixed with water, and we went to sleep with the sun. Me and the sun has always worked well together. And we give good service. And now, why can't they leave us alone?"

"Some wild professor didn't approve of the way the sun did its job, and he passed a law to gyp an hour from our day and save the gas bill. Oh, fine! Fine for everybody, exceptin' us cows. And nobody gave us a thought."

"Look at us now. In the morning my boss comes around at 3:30 by the clock and wakes me up. Well, that's an hour before I'm ready to get up. The clock says it's all right, of course. But the clock perjures itself—and with the law's sanction, too. After milkin' the boss drives me out in the fields. I ain't fit to be out, hein' as my rest was disturbed. But that don't bother the boss; what the clock says goes."

"In the afternoon, just when I'm about ready to lie under a tree and do some real chewing, along comes the boss again for more milk. An hour before I'm ready! And before sundown and an hour before the cool of the evening he makes me walk through the hot, sunny fields to the barn, without even being polite enough to offer a lady a parasol."

"Now, you tell me what kind of work I can do under such conditions. And

English Approve Idea to Prevent Recurrence of War, Says London Daily Mail Editor

The people of England approve of the league of nations idea chiefly because they are willing to try anything to prevent a recurrence of war, but have no intention of disarming and putting all their trust in the hands of such a league.

This is the message brought to this country by Frederick William Wile, editorial writer of the London Daily Mail, here on a lecture tour. He spoke at a luncheon given in his honor at the Union League yesterday.

Speaking of President Wilson, he said:

The FINDERNE Herd of Holstein Friesian Cattle

will be represented at the National Sale by the following members: One of the greatest young bulls of the breed, born September 26, 1918, out of FINDERNE HOLLINGEN FAYNE. The heifer known by every Holstein breeder as the Champion in the Junior three-year-old class from 7 to 365 days and finishing up the yearly record by producing more butter than any cow in the world, regardless of breed or age. He is by King Valdessa, who is out of the first 40-lb. cow and by a son of the first 44-lb. cow. All were world's records when made. Here you have the short-time test and the long-distance test all represented in this young sire. There are of his half-sisters in the sale, whose dams have Junior 3-year-old records from 35 lbs. down. Here is a chance to get some of the very best of the breed.

The Holstein-Friesian Cow Has Grown Steadily in Favor With the Farmer and Dairyman—and Her Milk With the Physician and Mother

FOR this, much credit is due the dissemination of facts and figures pertaining to Holsteins and Holstein products, through paid space in newspapers, magazines, farm and trade papers. Beginning in 1908, this work, involving the expenditure annually of thousands of dollars, has gone steadily on, and millions of people have become better informed upon the supremacy of the Holstein cow and her products.

The Two Ads. Shown Here Are Typical of Hundreds That Have Appeared During the Past 11 years.

They are really "seeds of thought" sown in the public mind, from which this growth in favor of pure-bred Holsteins has sprung. Through them, farmers and dairymen have learned that there is no cow so profitable as the Holstein. She is healthy and hardy, rears strong, vigorous calves and holds all world's records for milk and butter yield. They have learned, too, how to grade up their herds through the introduction of a pure-bred Holstein bull. Physicians have learned that because of its vitality and smaller, more easily digested fat globules, Holstein milk is best for infants, invalids and convalescents, while mothers have learned to look upon it rightly as the only safe substitute for human milk in raising their little ones.

Is Your Baby Showing a Steady Gain? If Not, Try Holstein Cows' Milk

If you cannot nurse your baby, see to it, nevertheless, that it has an equal chance for health and strength with that enjoyed by the breast-fed baby. You can do this by feeding it Holstein Cows' Milk. The milk of the Holstein Cow is most nearly like human milk, in structure, in quality and quantity of fats, and in the nature of the curd formed. Unlike other cows' milk, Holstein Milk contains its fat in the form of small, even globules which produce silky, tender curds—easily taken care of by the digestive juices. In other cows' milk, the curds formed are coarse, heavy and stringy, and present a serious obstacle to the delicate baby stomach. The use of these heavier, fatter milks usually results in indigestion, which renders baby fretful and prevents it from gaining in strength or health. Physicians everywhere are endorsing the use of Holstein Milk, not only for infant feeding, but for growing children, invalids, convalescents, and for the entire family.

54,800 Lbs. Milk in Two Years

A California Holstein cow made a yearly record of 784 lbs. of fat from 22,311 lbs. of milk.

After an interval of two months, she began another yearly test, which closed with a record of 84 lbs. of butterfat from 22,828 lbs. of milk.

These two successive yearly tests, during which 54,800 lbs. of milk were made, are more evidence that great records are not meaningless, spasmodic efforts, but represent capacity permanently developed.

Woodrow Wilson is not popular in England. During the first four weeks he was abroad I traveled with him as a member of his party and noted the wild acclaim with which he was met everywhere. I doubt, though, whether he would receive a hearty reception in London today.

"The people of England and of Europe are rather disgusted with his insistence that the league-of-nations proposition shall be settled before Germany and the peace is settled. They feel that he has been and is delaying peace, and that he is constantly 'butting in' in affairs that are none of his concern."

Asked of the possibility of revolution in England, Mr. Wile said: "England will be the last country in the world to harbor either revolution or bolshevism. The common people have a sense of conservatism and common sense that would make such a thing a virtual impossibility. Judging from the headlines in this morning's papers, I should say that

Seven-Day Butter Records Are Good Yearly Butter Records Are Better The Combination of Both Are Best

King Mutual Korndyke, No. 136,329, Senior Sire

A son of FINDERNE Mutual Fayne, world's yearly record two-year-old. Her sister, FINDERNE Hollingen Fayne, is the world's yearly record three-year-old. His first two daughters to freshen have made seven-day records above 22 lbs.

King Pietertje Ormsby Piebe, No. 165,947, Junior Sire

Highest yearly record bull in the world. His dam and sire's dam, both daughters of Sir Pietertje Ormsby Mercedes, average for a year 29,841.7 lbs. milk and 1812.39 lbs. butter. His dam is the world's yearly record four-year-old for both milk and butter.

OUR HERD

Our herd of cows has largest short and long time records of any herd in the world. We own and have developed two of the three cows in the world that have each produced above 41 lbs. of butter in seven days and above 1280 lbs. for a year. No herd in the world has two herd sires which for size, type and combinations of records equal our two bulls.
