PENNSYLVANIA 'GRADS' HOLD DINNER IN PARIS

18 Alumni. Teaching in A. E. F. University Since Armistice, Have Celebration

Eighteen University of Pennsylvania men three thousand miles from home held their annual alumni dinner at Blight sur-Ouche in southern France the latter part of Mas.

Word comes from Winthrop Williams, formerly of the EVENING PUBLIC LUDGER staff, and now an instructor in the College of Journalism of the Ameri can Expeditionary Forces University Paris, that enthusiasm was "rompaul and the dinner itself was well worth going three thousand miles to get. The abunni were instructors, student and members of the staff of the A. E

University representing Univ of Pennsylvania classes from 1887 to 1921. They had their celebration at the Hotel des Trois Faisans, an obl inn which was probably built long before the U of P, was thought of Follow ing the dinner were yells, songs and toasts in which majors, captains, lieutenants and privates alike gave vent to Pennsylvania spirit.

Dr. G. F. Stradling, '87 class, of the College of Science in the A. E. F. University, and Major J. F. Gaskill. S7. Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery, were at the dinner.
