Nancy Wynne Talks of Two Debutante Affairs for This Afternoon and Evening—She Tells of the Boys' New Gun Club

THE second debutante tea of the season will be held today when Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Wilson will introduce their daughter, Miss Helen Hope Wilson, at their country home in Villanova.

The reception will be held from 4 until half after 6 o'clock and a number of the debutantes of this coming year and some of the would-be-beans of last year will receive with Miss Wilson. Among the older girls of the receiving party, that is, not older debutante stage are Elizabeth Packard, Mrs. Arthur Billings (she was Mary Packard, you know), Rachel Fittler, Frances Tyson, Helen Harte, Peggy Thayer and Rachel Price. The debs are Pauline Bell, Lorraine Disston, Lucy Grey, Esther Rhoads, Eleanor Robb, Mary Page, Anne Townsend, Julian Baker and Martha Baker.

ANOTHER debutante affair today or rather tonight is the informal dance that the Tom Dolans will give at Chestnutwood, their home in Devon, which, you remember, the late Dolans have rented it for several years, and will probably buy it. The dance tonight is given for Sarah, who is also a debutante of the coming year. The guests will be of the debutante set almost entirely.

SPEAKING of the Dolans, you know Colonel and Mrs. Francis Duffus and their son have been staying with them. They left yesterday for York Harbor. But incidentally wasn't it nice to see Mrs. Duffus on this side once more? She was Agnes Whelen, you know, a cousin of Mrs. Dolan, who was of the Hoffman family. The Whelens and Duffus used to live out around Torrensdale and Agnes Whelen was a great belle. Her father was the late William X. Whelen and her mother was Miss Kate Enos.

Agnes Whelen was one of the very prettiest girls of her season and when she married an Englishman some fifteen or so years ago, and went to England to live, she was greatly missed here. She and her husband and son will stay in Bar Harbor as the guests of Mrs. Samuel Seabury Allen, of Boston, for several weeks. They expect to sail for England the first week in August.

HAVE you heard about the Sunnybrook Gun Club which the boys of the school set have gotten up? They are holding their first meet today at the Isaac H. Clothier, Jr. place at Radner. Isaac H. Clothier, 34, is the president of the club and Wharton Sinkler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wharton Sinkler, is treasurer, while Lloyd Renshaw is secretary.

Mrs. Clough gives a buffet luncheon for the club at half after 12 today and after that the shooting will commence. They will use shotguns and rifles and clay pigeons and targets. After this month most of the boys in the club will go to camp for the summer, but when they return at the end of August they will continue the club and have one, and if possible, two meets before returning to school for the winter.

Isaac Clothier, 34, has just returned from St. Paul's, and Albert Rosenzweig, another member, is a pupil of St. Paul's, as are several of the others. The members besides the officers mentioned are Kent Karkov, Nathan Filler, William Warden, Jimmie Altshuler, Howard Butcher, Barkley Henry, Jr., William Roberts, Gordon Milne, Teddy Wood, Albert or Pete Rosegarten, as he is called and William Clark, of California, who is the only member not a Philadelphian.

It will be great fun I do not doubt and the boys just love it.

I KNOW you'll find it hard to believe, I could not have believed it myself if I had not been sitting sewing with her mother when she came home from a week picnic in the woods with nurse and little cousins, George and Sarah. "Well, darling," said mother, "did you have a good time?" "Darling, he it knows, is about half past four in age." "Yeth maver," sighed daughter, brimful of reminiscence and cake, "awful good! We had eakth and candy and we waded in the dew, and I said, 'We waded in the dew.' " "Surely dearie you don't mean that, and that's a very naughty word." "But maver, we did wade, oh! I know, it was ever naughty word, we waded in the dew." NANCY WYNNE.

known to know what's peculiar and winter is beginning. Simple isn't it today? Sure, everybody knows that by this time. It's the longest day of the year and the official start of summer. Know what the cause is? Not likely. Only those of astronomical bent know that and they can't seem to explain it logically and clearly to those who don't. If it is any satisfaction, here's more or less what happens:

of course, first of all, the earth goes around the sun once a year in an elliptical orbit. The sun's rays do not fall perpendicularly on the same part of the earth's surface any two days in succession. In the spring, the rays are all perpendicular at the equator, and nights are of equal length all over the earth. This is on March 21, commonly called the Vernal Equinox.

FRUIT AND GREEN GOODS ABUNDANT

Bureau of Markets Issues Statement to Guide Housewives.

The Bureau of Markets of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture sends out the following forecast regarding the supplies of nearby fruits and vegetables for the present week:

"Keep the cost of living down by taking advantage of the bargains that are to be found among the southern goods now becoming plentiful on the markets virtually all over the state. Green beans, peas, beets, lettuce, radishes, bunch onions, cabbage and rhubarb furnish housewives a wide choice for daily use and for canning. A small quantity of nearby small-flavor iceberg lettuce is available. Asparagus is reported in good supply in the western and central sections but the season is about over in this vicinity.

The later varieties of strawberries from Pennsylvania still are found in moderate quantities on the markets in the Philadelphia district, while the berry season is about at its height in the western section. Dry weather in some sections has materially reduced the crop.

The warm days are causing cherries and small fruits to ripen rapidly throughout the State. Can your cherries now for the yield is light and the season short. The first New Jersey raspberries are ready. Currants and gooseberries are reported from southeastern Pennsylvania.

WILL COMMEMORATE WORLD WAR DEAD

Veterans at West Hope Church to Hear Biddle and Hinkle

A meeting of the World War Veterans will be held tonight in West Hope Presbyterian Church, Preston and Asson streets, beginning with a memorial service by members of the six members of the congregation who died on the field of battle.

Those who are represented by name in the center of a large gold service star, which is the feature of the decorations, are William E. Ferguson, Joseph E. Hoopes, Raymond E. Greedy, Frederick E. Ehrhardt, John W. Litschert and John Mintz. The star will be illuminated by electric lights and a wreath of American Beauty roses will be placed at its base.

Major A. J. Trevellick, U. S. M. C., and Colonel Howard H. Greedy, Salvation Army, the man who brought back the German battle flag of Metz, will be the principal speakers.

Among the invited guests will be 100 marines from the navy yard; C. E. Saunders, Post No. 21, G. A. R.; Spanish American War Veterans; Red Cross Chapter Services; Boy and Girl Scouts; West Hope, and West Hope Red Cross Auxiliaries.

READER'S VIEWPOINT

Letters to the Editor on Topics of General Interest

Claims Credit for Woman's Party

To the Editor of Evening Public Ledger: Sir—I beg to call your attention to some inaccuracies in the special article on suffrage by George Fox McCain in the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER of June 19.

Colonel McCain states that the members of the National Woman's party arrived on the scene after the work for ratification of the federal amendment had been carried on for some time by the workers of the Woman Suffrage Association.

The files of the Patriot and the register of the Penn-Harris Hotel show that Miss Mary Ingham, chairman for Pennsylvania of the N. W. P., arrived first on May 15, when she interviewed a number of officials. Mrs. Lawrence Lewis came on June 2, closely followed by Miss Caroline Katzenstein, executive secretary. These women, with others from this city and different parts of the state, have been continuously at work for the ratification. Mrs. J. O. Miller and other workers of the W. S. A., arrived on June 9.

It is the consensus of opinion that the ratification in the Senate was undoubtedly due to the efforts of the N. W. P., who numbered many more than the small group mentioned in your paper. The W. S. A. had exerted a number of its energy on the referendum measure, that they seemed to be looked upon as sponsors of that rather than for the federal amendment.

The deplorable fact about the article was the exaggeration of the antagonism between the two factions of suffrage workers. And here, the day has long since passed for the kind of patronizing ridicule shown by Colonel McCain for the work of serious-minded women who are striving for their rights.

A Verse Pirate Exposed

To the Editor of Evening Public Ledger: Sir—I am very much interested in the communication of Mr. Albert Fitzgerald in your "Reader's Viewpoint" column on page nine of your issue of Saturday, June 14. The gentleman states that he has written a few lines on "Shiloh" for the benefit of this greatly depressed world at this particular moment.

While the lines he has written are subject to some criticism, still I must say that he has copied them fairly well. I wrote them long in 1901 or 1902 when I was working on the Baltimore American. Since then they have been published as a postcard and as a small gift book by the P. F. Voland Company of Chicago.

Not that this makes so very much difference in these days of turmoil and strife, but it may be well to set Albert right or he will be copying something worth while and sending it to you. WILBUR D. NESBITT, Chicago, June 19.

COMPOSER TO WED

Louis von Gaertner to Marry Mrs. William Allen at St. Bartholomew's, in New York

Louis von Gaertner, composer and music critic of Philadelphia, and Mrs. William Allen, a wealthy New York widow, are to be married this month at St. Bartholomew's, New York, according to announcement made today.

Von Gaertner's name became prominent here when he was acquitted in 1904 of forging his wife's name to her will. The charge was made by Captain Louis Weiner, the critic's stepson, then in the British army. Mrs. von Gaertner, who died at Bar Harbor in 1907, was a widow when the critic married her several years before.

Captain Weiner charged that $40,000 belonging to the estate had been misappropriated by the musician, but it was made clear in the trial that von Gaertner refused to accept anything from the estate.

The bridegroom-elect is a son of the late Carl Gaertner, who came to America in 1818 and became an influential composer and writer of music in New York.

Mrs. Allen is a daughter of the late General Robert Houston Anderson, who received his rank as an officer in the Confederate army. Sir Patrick Houston, a Scotch baronet, one of the early settlers of Georgia and a founder of Savannah, was an ancestor.

Mrs. Allen is a native of Virginia, but has lived in New York several years. Her husband, a lawyer, died a few years ago leaving a large estate on the James river. She is an expert horse-woman and has gained success as a writer of novels and magazine articles. She lives now at the Hotel Lenox, Madison avenue and Sixty-third street.
