MANY TICKETS SOLD FOR NAVY RELIEF DAY

Record Crowd Is Expected at League Island Celebration Saturday
 A record-crowd is expected to attend Navy Relief Day at the navy yard Saturday. The majority of the tickets were sold by young women, who worked in and around the City Hall courtyard. The girls were assisted by enlisted men of the navy and marine corps.
 The new arrangements for the day include many special features. A river steamer has been chartered and every one who purchases an admission ticket will be entitled to a free ride on the boat from Pier 2, in the navy yard, to Red Bank, N. J. That will allow the visitors to see the yard from the water as well as from the land.
 Preparations for the sham battle, which will be the most elaborate thing yet attempted in this city, are nearly complete. Virtually every marine in the yard will be in this mock engagement, which will faithfully follow throughout the battle of Belleau Wood, in which the marine corps made itself immortal.
 On the evening preceding the opening of the yard to the public the C-8, a giant dirigible, will, it is expected, arrive off Cape May. This ship, a sister to the C-5, which recently flew from Rockaway Beach to Newfoundland, will make flights over the yard and the city on Saturday. The C-8 is a nonrigid dirigible balloon, 200 feet long, capable of making a speed of seventy miles an hour over a radius of 200 miles. While the regular complement is two officers and four men, the craft can and probably will carry a crew of eight while in this city.
 Experiments were conducted yesterday so that it is virtually certain that an opportunity to talk to the C-8 and other dirigibles, will, it is expected, be offered to all those who visit the yard on Saturday. An airplane went up yesterday afternoon and conversations were carried on easily at a height approximately of 3000 feet. The wireless telephone also has been arranged so that it can be connected with any Bell instrument, and if the demand is not too heavy any one who desires may call his or her home and tell of the delights of Navy Relief Day.
 Lieutenant Commander F. A. Payne, who has charge of the arrangements for the Navy Department, reported yesterday that his plans were nearly complete.
 "I think," he said, "that any one who misses this opportunity to view the yard on its first public opening will be unfortunate. It is not alone the entertainment that should attract visitors, but the strides that have been made here will astonish any one who has not kept up with the situation. Many of the ships here, and hundreds of the men, have seen actual service in the European war. Hundreds of new instruments and methods will be made free for public view for the first time, and the number of new buildings will be an eye-opener to those who think that little has been done in the navy yard since war was declared."

REWARD IN LOST GEM CASE

$10,000 IS REWARD IN LOST GEM CASE
 Biltmore Offers Prize for Recovery of Jewels Lost by Former Philadelphian
DENIES SHE MISLAID THEM
 A reward of $10,000 for recovery of the jewels of Mrs. Regina Millhiser, said to have been stolen from a safety deposit vault in the Biltmore Hotel, New York, has stirred private and city detectives here to greater activity in the case.
 The jewels are valued at nearly $300,000. Mrs. Millhiser is a former Philadelphian and lived at Twenty-first and Spring Garden streets. The reward is offered by the Biltmore Hotel.
 The jewelry disappeared from the safety deposit vault between May 20 and June 13. It was in a small package when placed in the box. Inference has been made by New York detectives that the jewels may have disappeared before being placed in the safety vault.
 Mrs. Millhiser was asked if she thought it possible that in the agitation following her husband's death she might have mislaid the jewels instead of placing them in the safety vault.
 "I have one big fact which will upset that theory," was Mrs. Millhiser's reply, but she declined to say what her big fact was. Another theory held by the police is that some one obtained a duplicate key to the deposit box in which the jewelry is said to have been placed.
 Loss of the jewels, according to officials of the Biltmore, is completely covered by insurance.

KANE DEFENDS HIS WORK

Shifts Blame in Fraud Case Criticism to Commissioner
 Francis Fisher Kane, United States district attorney, who was criticized by Judge Thompson, of the United States District Court, for procuring an indictment before the accused had been before a commissioner, explained his position in the matter yesterday.
 The indictment in question was against Charles N. Jenks and Elmer E. Patten, clerks in the Federal Reserve Bank, accused of indulging in high finance with government bonds.
 Mr. Kane said it had been more or less of a common practice to bring the cases into court without the commissioner's hearing.
 The district attorney also said that the hearing of the two men had been postponed until June 6, the last day on which he could present bills of indictment to the grand jury for this term of court. Mr. Kane said that on that date the commissioner telephoned that it would be impossible for him to conduct the hearing and that then the grand jury was asked to return the indictment.
 The case now will go over to the September term of court Mr. Kane said and the men, in the meantime, will be taken for a hearing before the commissioner.

GIRL WITH HEAD CUT OFF IS REVIVED—"SHE" IS DOLL

Surgeon at Hahnemann Applies Glue, Stitches and Adhesive Tape—Three Children Made Happy

There is a card at the Hahnemann Hospital dispensary today which tells of one of the most successful operations in the annals of local surgery. This is the way it reads:
 "Dolly Varden, age two years; home 1625 Carlton street, Born, Philadelphia. Nature of ailment, decapitation. Treatment, suture and fixation, by glue method. Discharged as cured."
 They were three little maids from school, Annie Casper, eight years old; Edna Young ten, and Helen Olagay, eight, all of 1625 Carlton street. After all, it was vacation time, and you can excuse a little mother being careless with her child in the joy of the first days of freedom. But when Dolly Varden's head was wrenched off, it was a moment of deep tragedy.
 Tears in her eyes, Annie came timidly to the dispensary door, with the lifeless body in her hands. After her came the mourners.
 "Please, doctor," she faltered, "Dolly Varden's head is off, and I don't want to have a funeral. Can you do anything for me?"
 Doctor Kistler gravely took what had been Dolly Varden to the operating table in his best professional manner, and prepared for a radical operation. There was sawdust missing and all circulation had been stopped between the placid waxen head and the cherished double-jointed frame of Miss Varden. "Quick, nurse, my trusty glue-pot," said the doctor. And then, with the aid of a few stitches and some adhesive, he restored the normal condition of the two-year old.
 The three little maids from school looked upon Doctor Kistler's work and pronounced it good. They thanked him, and went laughing away, sure that the two long years spent in training up Dolly Varden in the way she should go might yet be fruitful in the debut of a perfect lady.

PORT GAINS SHIP LINES

Five New Trade Fleets Started, Three More Planned
 Since the armistice was signed, five new transatlantic steamship companies have been established at this port and three others expect to start here soon.
 In addition, it is expected that within a few months the Holland-American Line to Rotterdam, the Italia Societe di Navigazione a Vapore to Naples and Genoa and a line to Calcutta, Ceylon and Colombo will begin sailings.
 All told, there are now twenty-one regular steamship lines in operation in the port of Philadelphia.
 The five new lines established here are the Cunard Line, to Bristol; Brooks Steamship Corporation, to Copenhagen and Gothenburg; Swedish-American transatlantic line to Copenhagen and Finland; the Lloyd-Posteury Navigation Company to Antwerp and Rotterdam; and the Triangle Steamship Company, to Antwerp and Rotterdam.
 The three companies expected to start operations soon are: France and Canada Steamship Company, to South America and South African ports; Queen Line, to Mediterranean ports, and the Lloyd-Royal-Beige Line, to Antwerp and Rotterdam.

"GEE, BUT I'M GLAD!"

Song of 6000 Pupils—Today's the Day!
 Gosh, ain't it a great 'n' glorious feelin'?"
 School's out today and there's nothing to do till September.
 More than 6000 Philadelphia school children are voicing the "battcry of freedom."
 Simple exercises in more than 200 schools will close the year's work. In some districts there will be speeches and music and orations, but in most of the schools there will be only the award of certificates with exercises by the children.
 With hair brushed and clothes spick and span Johnny and Mary will say their "pieces" before throngs of proud parents and friends. And then—
 It's vacation time for three whole months.

HE DIDN'T STAND IT

Sitting Conductor Arouses Ire of Car Riders—Old Lady Stands
 They gazed into each other's eyes. He talked incessantly. She listened and smiled. They saw no one—but the car was crowded.
 An old woman struggled on the end of a strap directly before the man. Passengers shot angry glances at him. For he was a P. R. T. conductor, and he sat while the old woman struggled to keep from falling.
 It happened on Route 19, as the car rambled down Sixth street. Will the P. R. T. stand for a sitting conductor?

"LESS SALT, LESS THIRST"

That's Another Temperance Slogan. Hard on the Shaker
 "Less salt, less thirst," is the theory on which Philadelphia housewives will act in the preparation of food after June 30, hoping thus to alleviate the pangs of prohibition for their men folk.
 The idea also will be passed along to restaurant chefs and managers. It is said to have the indorsement of the Anti-Saloon League and the Women's Christian Temperance Union.
 Salt meats and fish will get more of a soaking to get rid of the brine, and seasoning of all other foods will be tempered with consideration for the fact that means for satisfying a lusty thirst are restricted to water, milk and coffee.
 And even the dairymen confess that milk does not banish thirstiness so well as some of that for which there will be soon a constant parching.

MERIT SYSTEM GIVEN BOOM BY CHARTER

Action of Legislature on Public Jobs Praised in Civil Service Bulletin
COMMISSION OF 3 RESTORED

The merit system has been materially advanced through the passage of the charter revision section on civil service, according to the latest analysis of the new legislation by the Bureau of Municipal Research.
 The failure of the attempted extension to county departments is commented upon and emphasis is laid upon what can be expected under the section made a part of the bill finally signed by Governor Sproul. On the subject of civil service the bulletin says:
 "Of the two articles of this bill that underwent the most drastic changes, the article on civil service is one. Nevertheless, it is gratifying to report that the net result of the legislature's action is an advance and not a retreat for the merit system in Philadelphia. Briefly stated, this result is as follows:
Extension of Law
 The charter bill as first introduced provided for an extension of the civil service law to county departments and to the departments in the twilight zone between county status and mayoral jurisdiction, such as the Fairmount Park Commission, with all its park guards. The receiver of taxes, who enjoyed special exemption from civil service, was also to be included under the law.
 "This progressive proposal failed altogether. The new charter expressly limited the application of merit principles to the departments and bureaus that already were under civil service.
 "The original charter bill proposed a single service commissioner instead of a commission of three, and the selection of this commissioner by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to the city council instead of by appointment by the mayor.
 "The new charter law restores the commission of three, but retains the new method of having the commissioners chosen by the city council, although by a majority rather than by a two-thirds vote.
 "The provision of the original new charter bill to reduce from four to two the number of eligible persons that must be submitted to an appointing officer for a single vacancy, has been retained in the charter law. Thus another door to favoritism has been largely closed.

 "The original new charter bill provided for an extension of the trial board idea, then in effect in the police and fire forces, to the entire city and county service.
Trial Board Plan
 "Under the new charter there is no such extension of the trial board idea. Policemen and firemen will continue to be the only municipal employees who are awarded any substantial protection against unfair dismissal. The only change from past practice is that the trial board for policemen and firemen will be under the jurisdiction of the civil service commission instead of under that of the director of public safety and the Mayor.
 "The charter bill as originally introduced made political activity on the part of any city or county employe punishable not only by dismissal, but also by fine and imprisonment; and the enforcement of this provision was strengthened by giving any taxpayer the right to go into court and by writ of mandamus to compel dismissal.
 "Under the new charter only policemen and firemen engaging in political activity are punishable by fine and imprisonment and may be dismissed by taxpayers' action. The sole punishment of other city employes is dismissal from the service which is not made enforceable by taxpayer's action.

 "The original charter bill provided for a standardization of salaries and grades in the city and county service.
 "This provision is retained in the new charter, but its application is limited to the city service alone."

 But "Y and E" Fire-Wall Steel Filing Cabinets have a layer of asbestos, between two walls of steel—an exclusive construction which really protects the papers within.
 This layer of asbestos, in a protected air chamber goes all around—at top, bottom, front, sides and back. By actual test, it makes "Y and E" Fire-Wall Steel Filing Cabinets three times as fireproof as any ordinary steel filing cabinet made.
