

BARRY AND STRUNK IN A'S GAME TODAY

Two Old-Timers of 1914 Return to Mack From Red Sox in Exchange for Roth and Shannon

MULE WATSON SOLD

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK
MAKE the camp of your memory and let reveries run rampant! Do you see, oh ye baseball fanatics, Jack Barry, in an A's uniform, gobbling up grounders, and Amos Strunk lifting his feet legs in swift pursuit of fly balls?

The hands of time have not been turned back, but, like the pictures of the past passing again in review, these two members of the master clubhouse of 1914 will be before our eyes this afternoon in the uniform of a half-decade ago. Jack Barry and Amos Strunk have come back.

After an absence of five years these two stars of the great ball club that was "too good for the welfare of baseball" are on Connie Mack's payroll once again. They were obtained from the Boston Red Sox in a deal which sent Bobby Roth and Mory Shannon to the town of Beans and Hooks.

It is said that no money is involved in the deal. An infielder, young and promising, has been exchanged for an infielder, tried and proven, and a veteran outfielder has been exchanged for another veteran outfielder at flat rates.

Frazer Brains Silence
OF COURSE, it was Harry Frazer, the president of the Boston club, and not Mack who announced the trade. Rumors of Barry and Roth being exchanged have been out for a month, but Connie has held silence. When it comes to holding his tongue Mack has a speaking on a par with a wash lady.

After Frazer made his announcement in New York Mack admitted over the telephone that it was true. "There was no money involved in the deal," said Mack. "It was a swap. Barry and Strunk will report here this morning and will play second base and right field, respectively. I believe they will help my ball club."

This was Roth's first season with the A's and he was a howling success in right field. His batting average to date is .315. Shannon has been with Mack for three seasons. He is hitting .277. Strunk is batting only .268 and Barry .250.

Should Help Dugan
THE return of Barry certainly will help the Mack infield, which has been wobbly all season. With Barry at second base there will be some smart ball playing around the middle of the diamond. The veteran should be able to steady Joe Dugan, and with such an experienced mate as Jack to work with Joseph should develop into an extraordinary shortstop.

Barry has not been satisfied with the Boston club. It has been rumored that he was discontented under Barrow because he was not playing regularly. Some Boston writers pointed to Barry as the cause for the Red Sox slump. Under Mack Jack should be his former self.

Strunk is a good outfielder, fast and a good hitter, but there are few who believe in him and as Roth, Roth is an all-around man. He's a terrific hitter, is fast on his feet, a sure and sensational fielder and an exceptionally wise base runner.

The A's open a series here with Washington today and then they take on the Red Sox. On July 4 they leave for a tour that takes in every town in the circuit with the exception of New York. They will be on the road until late in July.

Phils Sell Watson
ON THE heels of the announcement of the Mack trade comes the news that the Phillies have released Mule Watson to the Indianapolis club of the American Association. Mike Prendergast was sold to the Indianapolis club, but refused to report.

The Mule has had a varied career in the big leagues, and was one of the most eccentric characters in the big show. He was formerly with the Federal League, and was obtained last year by the Phillies from the Cardinals. He had a record this year of two victories and four defeats. He was expected to join Hendricks' Indianapolis club the early part of this week, but when the Mule starts on a journey there's no telling when he will reach his destination.

The Phils left last night for a week's stay on the road. They start a four-game series with Brooklyn today, and then move on to Boston for three games. They return here for the two holiday games July 4, and will remain on native soil until the latter part of next month.

CARPENTIER OUT OF INTERALLIED GAMES

Champion Withdraws From the French Boxing Team Owing to Injured Hand

AMERICA HAS 17 POINTS

Ferishing Stadium, June 26.—George Carpentier, the French champion, has withdrawn from the French boxing team entries for the interallied games, because of an injured hand which was hurt during a training bout.

The winning of the first and second places in the 100-meter final today brings America's point total up to 17. The point standing now is: United States, 17; Canada, 1. No other nation has scored a point.

Better weather, combined with a half holiday in Paris, brought out a record crowd to the interallied games today. The crowd included many school children, who cheered the Yankee contestants as lustily as they did the French entries. American soldiers again filled the east stand of the stadium and loudly applauded American winners.

C. W. Daddick, of Pasadena, Calif., who won the first place in the 100-meter final, ran the distance in ten and four-fifths seconds, which is within one-fifth of a second of the world's record, and beats the French record by a fifth of a second. He forged ahead at the seventy-five-meter mark and broke the tape two feet in front of Edward Tessier, of Lawrence, Mass.

The American basketball team easily defeated the Italian five by a score of 55 to 17, the Americans showing excellent team work.

In the middleweight boxing preliminaries, Egan, of America, knocked out Negri, of Italy, in the first round. The knockout came thirty-two seconds after the bell for the first round was rung.

In the lightweight boxing preliminaries, Zoonsens, the Belgian champion, beat Martin, of Canada.

The Belgian soccer team defeated Canada by a score of 5 to 1.

Polo Final Today
The final polo match for the Woodbury cup will be played this afternoon at 4 P. M. between Ben Mawer and the Philadelphia center club. This match should have been played yesterday, but owing to its being postponed until this afternoon.

Willard insisted that Rickard be one of the judges.
A special train probably will be chartered by the other thousand referee who were candidates for the position to haul them home. Everybody was mentioned as the third man in the ring except Nick Hayes. Nick was too busy to consider it.

Maxwell to Report Bout for Evening Ledger Readers

The big fight in Toledo, O., between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey will soon be staged. The EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER has not employed a host of special writers to cover this great fight event. It doesn't need to.

ROBERT W. MAXWELL,

He will tell them now in just what condition each man is for the fray. His intimate knowledge of the fighting game, breezy, personal style of presenting the news of the camps to readers of the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER, makes them of the best and most authentic "dope" on the situation.

Mr. Maxwell's first article will appear tomorrow evening and each day thereafter until the fight is staged.

The EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER also will publish Grantland Rice's ideas of the fight and fighters.
