

CITY IS DECLARED
CLEARED OF REDS

200 Were in City May 1, They
Have All Gone Now, Says
Lieutenant Emanuel

PRaises BOMB SQUAD

Philadelphia is clear of "reds."
Lieutenant of Detectives Andrew
Emanuel made this announcement today.

More than 200 radicals banded together into separate groups were in this city in May. All have gone, Lieutenant Emanuel said.

Lieutenant Emanuel and his right-hand man, William Mahoney, said that when the bomb squad came into existence on May 6, four days after bombs had been exploded in this and eight other cities by terrorists, there were more than 200 men in town considered dangerous by the police. With the announcement of the formation of a "bomb squad" to investigate radical activities Lieutenant Emanuel said the Reds began drifting out of town one by one until a survey made by his men weeks ago and continued up to yesterday showed that not one of the old gang could be found in any of the haunts usually frequented by them.

Proud of Bomb Squad
"The bomb squad has been increased from time to time," said Lieutenant Emanuel, "until now we have an organization which is the equal if not the superior of New York's famous bomb squad. I don't intend to make known the personnel of the squad, for I do not believe in giving advance information to the enemy."

"We have the description of every known anarchist and his picture on file in this office, however, and we know not only where they live, but the places they frequent. We have an elaborate checking up system which enables us to find out within an hour or so whether the man is in town, and we have trained men in every police district in the city. We know every meeting place and every meeting that is of color is kept under observation."

"If we do not like the looks of things we are prepared to shut down any meeting or movement and scatter broadcast throughout the city by hundreds of workers for the cause of the proletariat. Now only one organization continues active in the distribution of seditious literature and that is the group styling itself the 'American Anarchist Federation Communist Society.' Even this organization seems to have become less energetic, for the last issue of the official organ, 'The American Anarchist Soviet Bulletin,' did not have such a wide circulation as the first one, due to the vigilance of the 'bomb' squad and the police force in general."

The interchange of photographs and general information on all radicals which was decided upon at a meeting of the chiefs of police in New York city several weeks ago is working to a point of efficiency, and every day Lieutenant Emanuel gets the photographs and descriptions of suspects from all over the country. So many of these have been received that he has had to make an addition to his filing system in the shape of a new cabinet.

Lieutenant Emanuel says that although the anarchists and other radicals have apparently deserted this city they have not relaxed their vigilance and are ready to cope with any emergency that might arise.

MODESTY AND RINGS SAVED

But Burglar Escapes From Grasp of Boarder Sans Trousers

At a boarder at the home of Mrs. Yetta Isenberg, 5106 Parkside avenue, had't paused to put on his trousers yesterday afternoon, a robber who entered the Isenberg home might have been captured.

The boarder was in the midst of a bath when the robber, entering the back kitchen of the Isenberg home, covered Mrs. Isenberg with a pistol, and tried to wrest several diamond rings from her hand. The bathing boarder, hearing Mrs. Isenberg's screams, ran to her assistance.

Overcome with modesty at the realization that he was without trousers, the boarder hastily withdrew, however, after taking one look at the woman and her assailant. A few seconds later, armed with his trousers he reappeared. The robber was gone. The rings and the boarder's modesty were both saved.

The Dewees store is more than sixty years old and was founded in 1858 at 247 Market street. In 1877, the store moved to 1124 Chestnut street, the property which it has just purchased, and in 1907 moved into its present building. Large alterations are contemplated before the public will attend the opening of the Dewees store at 1122-1124 Chestnut street.

NEGRO WOMEN TALK VOTE

Daughter of Paul Laurence Dunbar
Urges Election Interest

The industrial and economical changes confronting negro women in the sudden coming of peace was the main topic of discussion at the second day's session of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Negro Women's Clubs, held yesterday in the Union Baptist Church, Nineteenth and Fitzwater streets, Mrs. Ruth Bennett, of Chester, presided. The sessions will close tonight.

The principal speaker was Mrs. Alice Dunbar Nelson, of Wilmington, daughter of Paul Laurence Dunbar, the negro poet. She urged that the negro women keep in closer touch with governmental affairs and the men back of those affairs. "There are more than 1,000,000 negro women who will have the vote now," she said. "And we must use that vote to put the right man in office. In the hands of the negro of the North rests the salvation of the negro of the South."

Other speakers were Mrs. Laura Brown, vice president, and Mrs. Lucilla Howard, of Pittsburgh. Miss Blanche Thompson, of this city, spoke on "Education." Music and recitations helped to culminate the sessions.

RAIN IS LANDLORD'S ALLY

Tenants, However, Remain in Half-Demolished Homes

Despite a downpour of rain last night that flooded some of the rooms of the houses at 5222 and 5224 Brounall avenue, which are being demolished, the Vogelson and Pringle families continued to occupy them this morning.

They were still unable to find new homes, and they expressed their intention of remaining although the owner, Charles W. Haller, says he'll tear the houses down.

Mrs. Grace Vogelson, who occupies 5222 Brounall avenue, while expressing determination to stick it out, said she feared that some part of the walls, damaged by rain, may fall. With the exception of a few belongings, most of the furniture had been removed to a storage house.

Rain water also flooded the house of Samuel Pringle adjoining, damaging some of the furniture. Pringle said he has looked everywhere for a house, but cannot find one.

Miss Mary Whitehouse, of 748 South Fifth street, who sold the houses to Haller as a site for a service station, said yesterday that thirty days' notice to move was sent to both families on May 28. The families deny this.

Rain stopped the work of razing the buildings yesterday.

DRAFT DODGER SENTENCED

Philadelphian Given Sixty Days; Appeal Is Taken

Max Morgenstein, 757 South Fourth street, convicted last March of evading the draft, was sentenced to a term of sixty days in the Mercer county jail by Judge Thompson in the United States District Court yesterday. An appeal was taken by the defendant to the Appellate Court. He was released under $1000 bail.

Benny Morgenstein, the father, was convicted some time ago of aiding his son to evade selective service duty and served a thirty-day sentence. The son claimed he was the only member of the family capable of running his father's bakery. The government proved, however, there were other members of the family able to take care of the business.

The other two were discharged by Magistrate Pennek. They are Edward Hamburg, 1812 East Clearfield street, and Harry Volsky, 1230 Point Breeze avenue.

STRIKERS MARKING TIME

Marine Firemen Await Word From Washington to Decide Course

Marine men now on a strike in Philadelphia and other ports in the East, are awaiting word from Washington today as to the outcome of the conference between their representatives and officials of the shipping board before determining the course they will follow in the pursuance of their demand for more pay.

In conformity with this policy it was decided at a meeting of the men of the Seamen's Union this morning that nothing should be done pending news from the capital. It is estimated by union delegates that there are approximately 2000 men at this port out on strike.

"The union has not prohibited a seaman from shipping with a vessel during this agitation," said one of their local delegates today, "but the men absolutely refuse to sign and sail with a ship employing non-union firemen, which means that there will be no ships sailing."

An attempt was made today by the New York state authorities to effect a settlement when Michael J. Reagan, conciliator of the State Department of Labor, arrived in New York to offer his services in bringing the strikers and employers together.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Man Involved in O'Neil Killing Was Badly Beaten by Crowd

Stanley Stankus, beaten into insensibility by a crowd after the killing of John O'Neil, 734 South Front street, in a saloon quarrel June 30, was held on a charge of murder today for a further hearing tomorrow before Magistrate Imber at the Second and Christian streets station. He was brought from the Pennsylvania Hospital by Detective Conedo.

Stankus, who lives at Buttonwood and Twelfth streets, is accused of shooting O'Neil in the saloon of Fabian South, southeast corner of Front and South streets. He had lost his position there as bartender a few days before the shooting and is said to have quarreled with O'Neil. O'Neil was twenty-one years old and a foreman of stevedores.

VACATION SCHOOLS
HELPING IN FIGHT
UPON TUBERCULOSIS

Daily Bible Classes Spread
Propaganda Tending to Prevent Disease

An invaluable medium for the propagation of anti-tuberculosis propaganda has been found in the Daily Vacation Bible Schools, according to R. N. Whaley, secretary of the Philadelphia tuberculosis committee, who declared today that the campaign against the spread of the "white plague" is being successfully waged in the schools of this type which recently opened in this city. The schools will remain open daily until August 8, and an educational course on health is an important feature of their curriculum.

Miss Maria H. Stryker, field executive of the tuberculosis committee, is giving a series of lectures and health talks in the Bible schools, sessions of which are held in the various churches and neighborhood houses. At the Shot Tower playground at Second and Carpenter streets, yesterday, Miss Stryker addressed 250 children, emphasizing by a series of health talks and stories the value of clean living and regular habits. The children are urged to carry these messages home so that their parents may benefit by the lesson. Striking posters are also distributed and an allotment of 250 children, emphasizing by a series of health talks and stories the value of clean living and regular habits.

FAIL TO STOP DROWNING

Witnesses Say Life Preserver Was
Not Thrown to Man in River

An unidentified man of about middle age leaped overboard from the deck of the Pennsylvania ferryboat Bridgeton en route from Camden to Philadelphia shortly after noon yesterday and was drowned.

Although he remained afloat for nearly seven minutes, witnesses say he never was made to throw him a life preserver or put out a small boat. The body was not recovered.

"It is deplorable," said members of the J. Brooks Parker family, of Stratford, who witnessed the accident, "that a more strenuous effort was not made on the part of the boat crew to rescue the man. He swam about for fully five minutes and then seized a light spar, to which he clung for a brief period. During the time he was floundering helplessly in the water the boat simply sailed on, circle about him and no effort was made to throw out a life preserver or rescue him by other means."

PLEA FOR CAMDEN FIREMEN

Surgeon Employed by City Urges
Two-Platoon System

Adoption of the two-platoon system by the Camden Fire Department is urged by Police and Fire Surgeon Dr. A. Haines Lippincott.

Thus another champion for the cause of the Camden firemen comes to the front with an argument in favor of the firefighters, who are endeavoring to enlist support and sympathy for their claims. Mayor Ellis and David Jester, president of City Council, are two city officials who favor the double-shift system for the firemen.

It is Doctor Lippincott's duty to look after the health of the policemen and firemen of Camden. He examines all applicants for positions and looks after them when they are injured or ill. "I am heartily in favor of the two-platoon system for the Camden firemen," said Doctor Lippincott, "because I know that the health and happiness of the men would be bettered through its adoption. Shorter working hours would mean more regular time for sleeping and eating. The men would find needed recreation and relaxation. Certainly the efficiency of the department would be increased by the two-shift system."

Held for Lead-Pipe Theft

Daniel Davis, who said he lived in Columbia, Pa., was held in $500 bail by Magistrate Pennek today, following his arrest in a vacant house at Chelton avenue and Morris street. The house had been stripped of lead pipe and brass fixtures. Davis was arrested by Patrolman Simpson, of the Germantown station.

"Push and Pull"

Like rivers, merchandise in its flow from maker to user follows the line of least resistance. A few years ago every druggist made up his own tooth powders and other specialties and "pushed" them with the public. Then came the advertised line and the public began to "pull" the goods from the dealer. Dealers found that it was more profitable to dispense goods with a "pull" than to everlastingly "push." Selling advertised goods follows the line of least resistance. The manufacturer who is exerting every effort to push his merchandise may well consider the value of adding a pull from the public.

SEASON'S FIRST FOR MAYOR

Gloucester's Chief Magistrate Receives Basket of Prize Vegetables

Being mayor sometimes has its compensations after all. At least, that's what Mayor Anderson, of Gloucester, thought this morning when on coming to his office he found a basket of prize vegetables filled with tempting vegetables. A card in the basket bore the name of Joseph Ludwig and the explanation: "The first from my farm this season."

The mayor was as pleased as a child with a new toy. He insisted on carrying the basket home himself, scornful of the proffered assistance of several helpful policemen. The basket contained catalogue, cucumbers, tomatoes, turnips, parsnips, onions, radishes and carrots. All were of prize dimensions.

"DOCTOR" HELD AS FRAUD

Accused of Impersonating Physician
and Duping Movie Aspirants

Edward Smith, thirty-two years old, of Brown street near Broad, was held in $400 bail today for a further hearing next Friday on charges of impersonating a physician and false pretense. It is alleged that Smith posed as a motion-picture impresario and a doctor. The man was arrested yesterday on charges made by Mrs. and Mrs. M. J. MacCrossen, 1625 Brown street. Mrs. MacCrossen testified before Magistrate Pennek in Central Station today that the prisoner visited her house on June 20 and said he was a physician sent by an international motion picture concern to examine feminine applicants for positions as screen actors.

Mrs. MacCrossen refused to submit to certain examinations without the consent of her husband and Smith left her home. Yesterday, when Smith again called at the MacCrossen home, the woman telephoned to her husband. He went to his house with a patrolman and Smith was arrested. It is said that the man did not ask Mrs. MacCrossen for any money.

$5000 LOOT TAKEN
IN 8TH ST. ROBBERY

Thieves Enter Establishment of Ladies' Dress Manufacturers and Escape With Goods

OWNER MINIMIZES LOSS

A $5000 robbery on the second floor of 130 South Eighth street was reported today to the police.

The second floor is occupied by Spritzler & Lesnak, manufacturers of ladies' dresses. The thieves apparently made their visit during the night. It was not learned how they effected entrance.

Nothing about the robbery would be discussed at the offices of the firm, except that it did not amount to much. The proprietor refused to discuss it. According to the report made to the police, $5000 was the loss suffered.

City detectives were assigned to the case. It is believed that the thieves may belong to the same band that robbed the haberdashery store of Henry Bolen, 620 Chestnut street of $7500 worth of men's furnishings June 28 after a first unsuccessful attempt. The robbery came close upon the heels of a complaint by three policemen that their beats covered too much territory in the wholesale and financial district to enable them to guard property effectively. The three policemen are accused of neglect of duty in not preventing the Bolen robbery.

Yesterday, when Smith again called at the MacCrossen home, the woman telephoned to her husband. He went to his house with a patrolman and Smith was arrested. It is said that the man did not ask Mrs. MacCrossen for any money.

Jones, who is supposed to have done the shooting, was captured a short time later. The case will be heard this morning at the Central Station before Magistrate Pennek.
