

FOUR NEW REGISTERS TAKE OFFICIAL OATH

Pierie Will Be Sworn in Tomorrow and Board Will Then Organize

FELL MAY BE CHAIRMAN

Four members of the newly appointed board of registration commissioners took their oath of office in Common Pleas Courtroom No. 5, City Hall, shortly after noon today.

George G. Pierie, the absent member, is in Atlantic City and could not be reached to be informed of the ceremony. He will take the oath tomorrow, immediately after which the board will hold its organization meeting. The meeting is scheduled for 12 o'clock.

The men who became registration commissioners today are E. Lawrence Fell, personal friend of Governor Sprout; Clinton Rogers Woodruff, independent Republican; William Walsh, Vars Republican; and Ignatius A. Quinn, Democrat. Walsh and Pierie are reappointments.

Judge J. Willis Martin, presiding judge of Common Pleas Court No. 5, administered the oath. Judges Staake and Monaghan were seated beside him on the bench. The ceremony was very brief. After the oath was administered the judges congratulated the officeholders.

The courtroom was only fairly crowded, most of those present being board of registration employees whose jobs depend upon the favor of the commissioners. They were headed by George W. Jackson, recorder.

Harris S. McDewitt, Governor Sprout's secretary, made arrangements for the ceremony this morning. When the five appointees swore to perform their duties faithfully twenty members of the old commission, Albert W. Laddner, Jr., and William A. Carr, were retired to private life along with twenty-two employees.

Fell May Head Board

Probably the first official act of the reorganized board of registration commissioners will be the selection of a chairman and a board of advisory members. The chairmanship is believed to lie between E. Lawrence Fell and Clinton Rogers Woodruff.

Mr. Quinn, Democrat, probably will be the new secretary of the board, succeeding William Walsh, Republican. The law provides that the secretary must be of different party affiliation from the chairman. It was reported in political circles today.

Tomorrow is the last day to file petitions for placing or striking off names on the assessment lists. The Committee of Seventy, which is seeking to purge the voting lists, will have hundreds of "strike-off" petitions to file.

Workers in the anti-Vars camp believe Senator Penrose will act as field marshal in the coming campaign for all the forces opposed to the "regular" Republican organization.

This belief is given color by the report that Senator Froese will remain in the city this week for a series of conferences with independent leaders and Penrose lieutenants.

Vars Meet Thursday The representatives of the anti-Vars forces will meet Thursday when the membership of the committee of 100 will be announced. The city committee of the Town Meeting party is scheduled to meet Thursday evening at their headquarters, Fifteenth street below Market.

Independents in the Forty-second ward, who are said to be opposed to the leadership of Andrew Froese in the Republican Alliance, are to call today on George W. Coles, chairman of the Town Meeting party. Froese is one of the eight members of the Republican Alliance "war board," which is whipping the forty-eight wards into shape for the mayoralty fight.

State Representative John Mehrling threatened bolt to the anti-Vars camp has been blocked, according to a report today. Mehrling, who was a district deputy coroner, obtained leave of absence from that post while he was in the Legislature.

When the Legislature adjourned, Mehrling founded his district committee filled by another Twenty-sixth ward political worker. It is said that Mehrling is slated for an $1800 inspectorship in the bureau of weights and measures.

Councilman Aspirants The latest entrants in the councilmanic race include Common Councilman Francis F. Burch, Forty-sixth ward, Alexis J. Limeburner, Twenty-eighth ward and former Common Councilman John H. Stokley, Twenty-fifth ward.

Mr. Burch announced his candidacy in a letter to John S. Payne, chairman of the Town Meeting party executive committee in the Forty-sixth ward. He pointed out that he is an independent and has served three successive terms. Burch is president of the Independent Councilmanic Association.

Mr. Limeburner, who lives at 2925 North Twenty-second street, is an independent Republican and was one of the councilmanic floor leaders during the Blankenburg administration. He says he has taken as his platform the principle of a good, clean, businesslike administration of the city government.

Former Councilman Stokley is a grandson of former Mayor Stokley. He represented the Twenty-fifth Ward in Common Council for six years and for sixteen years was a member of the Republican executive committee of the Twenty-fifth Ward. Citizens' committee asked Mr. Stokley to be a candidate for City Council from the Eighth senatorial district.

Thomas Raeburn White, chairman of the citizens' committee, which is cooperating with the Town Meeting party and the Republican Alliance, has asked Mrs. Edward W. Biddle, president of the Civic Club, to act as a member of the committee of one hundred.

Letter to Mrs. Biddle Mr. White's letter to Mrs. Biddle follows: "As chairman of the committee of independent Republicans who are cooperating with other citizens in preparation for the approaching election I take pleasure in requesting you to serve as a member of the proposed committee."

MRS. RUSSELL DUANE

HONORED BY JAPAN RULERS

Mrs. Duane and William Potter Received by Titled Orientals

Mrs. Russell Duane, 2925 De Lancey place, sister of Roland A. Morris, the American ambassador to Japan, was received in audience recently by the empress of Japan, according to dispatches received here yesterday from Tokyo.

William Potter, of this city, formerly minister to Rome, was received in audience by Emperor Yoshihito.

It will be the preparation of a platform setting forth the issues of this campaign, the most important to the city of any in our time, and the principles upon which it will be fought to a successful conclusion.

Must Pick Candidates

The second duty will be the recommendation of candidates to be supported by all good citizens.

"In extending you this invitation I wish to assure you that this movement is not and must not be construed to be a political or partisan in any sense. It is a concerted action of citizens to place the city government upon a firm and honest basis for the coming years which are so full of problems."

"We have obtained a new charter for Philadelphia, an event rightly said by a great New York daily to be the most important event in municipal history in recent years; now we must secure the fruits of this great victory by electing a Mayor and council who will start the city right under the new registry board."

"The election of councilmen is not less important than the election of a Mayor. The new council will consist of but twenty-one members. Each member will be charged with great responsibility; the duties formerly spread on 145 will now fall upon twenty-one. They should be men of the highest type both in character and ability, and they will place the new system on the selection of candidates for council in the various districts."

Requirements Outlined The recommendation of candidates for Mayor and other city offices will be made by the committee of one hundred. On this committee will be found representatives of many civic bodies, such as yours who have been successful in the past in the improvement of city conditions for many years. The selection of candidates, I am confident, will not be made from party considerations. I think that the women of Philadelphia who have worked so loyally and so effectively for the new charter should be accorded a voice in the selection of candidates who will place the new system in operation and whose terms of office will extend beyond the time when the full rights of citizenship will have been granted to women.

BOY FAILS TO ESCAPE ARREST IN RIVER

Charged With Robbing Freight Cars, He Is Sent to House of Correction

One of five boys alleged to have robbed freight cars was arrested while swimming in the middle of the Schuylkill river today. He had jumped into the water, it is said, when he lost ground in a chase made after him by Railroad Detective John Murphy.

The boy is John O'Neill, who gave an address in South Hollywood street, below Federal, as his home. The police doubt his statement that he is only sixteen years old. He was sent to the House of Correction.

Detective Murphy, detailed to railroad yards located below South street, on the east bank of the Schuylkill, is alleged to have found five boys robbing a freight car containing packages of shoes. As he approached they fled, and when he gave chase they separated.

The detective chased O'Neill, and just as he was about to catch him on the river bank, the boy leaped into the water. The detective obtained a row boat and paddled with one oar to the middle of the river, when he forced O'Neill to climb into the boat. He then proceeded to the west bank of the river, and took him prisoner to the Thirty-second street and Woodland avenue police station.

The members of the mission appeared in gorgeous costumes of red velvet, decorated with gold, and wore jeweled turbans. They presented a number of gifts to the President, including tusks of ivory, gold boxes and letters from the Abyssinian queen and her apartment.

The head of the mission, Hadjasmateh Nado, was presented in his native land with the MAPESEWILSON trophy. The head of the mission, Hadjasmateh Nado, was presented in his native land with the MAPESEWILSON trophy.

BEER VERDICT DUE TODAY OR TOMORROW

Overruling of Demurrer Here Means That Saloons Could Sell 2.75 Per Cent Beer

SUITS IN OTHER CITIES PEND

Decision in the beer test case, in which argument on the demurrer filed by the Berger & Engel Brewing Company, was heard by Judge Oliver R. Dickison, in the United States District Court last Friday is expected to be handed down early this week.

Because of the importance of the case at issue there it, it was said today, a possibility of the decision being filed today or tomorrow. This is the consensus of opinion expressed by attaches of the office of United States District Attorney Kane and the Department of Justice in the Federal Building.

Overruling of the demurrer is of vital importance to the government. If it is sustained, as was the case in the New York court, and when a similar case came before Judge Rose in Baltimore, the District and Justice could not prosecute violations of the law. The 1800 saloons in Philadelphia and throughout the state could open their doors for the sale of 2.75 per cent beer, immune from fear of arrest, warrant being given them under such decision to keep open until the matter is finally decided this fall by the United States Supreme Court. With this course of procedure in mind the saloonmen are determined to open up if Judge Dickison sustains the demurrer.

Government's Stand The government contends that all beer containing more than one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content cannot be made or sold under the prohibitory act passed by Congress on May 1, 1910. It prohibited the use of grains, cereals and other food products in the manufacture of beer, wine and other malt or vinous liquors for beverage purposes.

The contention of the brewers is that beer with 2.75 per cent alcoholic content can legally be made and sold, unless the government can prove such beer to be intoxicating. It is well known to lawyers practicing in the federal courts that the judicial findings of Judge Dickinson are seldom long delayed. He is a keen analyst, shrewd in his judgments and prompt in rendering his judicial opinions.

Throughout the course of the argument the court followed closely the words of the attorneys, and was evidently greatly interested and avid for information.

ARREST THREE MEN FOR ROBBERY PLOT

Butcher's Boasting of Large Profits Said to Have Caused Conspiracy

A chance remark made in a barber's chair led to an alleged robbery conspiracy which was checked by prompt action on the part of three detectives and resulted today in the holding of three men in $800 bail for further hearing before Magistrate Pennock, at Central Station.

While getting shaved one day last week the proprietor of a butcher shop at Fifty-fifth street and Chester avenue remarked that he had made $1000 in his shop during one evening.

The police claim that it was because of this remark they overheard that three men—Louis J. Moore, alias Regal, a sailor stationed at League Island; Joseph Biles, of Gordon City, Pa.; and Edward Birmingham, of Buffalo, plotted to rob the establishment.

Lieutenant of Detectives Wood received information of the plan and put Detectives Clark and Hodge on the trail of the men. They were arrested Saturday night, Moore in the Broad Street Station and the other two on Twelfth street near Market.

The police declare that all three men admitted conspiracy to rob, but at the hearing this morning Moore absolutely denied the whole thing. "All I said," declared Moore, "was that $1000 would come in handy to me."

Biles was in the army during the war, but has been out of service for eight months. In the possession of Birmingham, who was also a soldier, were found the discharge papers of several other soldiers.

Five other men were arrested in the same connection on the technical charge of "corner lounging," but they were all released with a lecture by the magistrate.

ONE-TONGUE POLICY FOR U. S. OPPOSED

Can't Be Accomplished, Says Carnegie Chief of Immigrant Heritages

A protest against the movement to establish "one language in America, and that English," was voiced by Dr. Herbert Adolphus Miller, in an address on "America's Alien Squad" last evening in the Baptist Temple. Doctor Miller, who is chief of the American and Slavonic heritages of the Carnegie Corporation, contended that the movement to stamp out foreign languages among immigrants and substitute the English language was wrong. He has been tried by Prussia in Poland, by Austria in Bohemia and by one government or another in almost every country in Europe, and always has failed.

Doctor Miller said it was ridiculous to teach foreign languages in our schools. He said that the children of immigrants from using their parents' native tongue. He said there are 1500 foreign-language newspapers in the United States, and if the immigrant is going to learn about America and the world he must get his information through those newspapers.

"The best thing Philadelphia could do to win over the Poles, Lithuanians and Slovaks would be to introduce the study of their own languages upon its high schools," Doctor Miller continued. "It would win both parents and children by showing them that we respect the things they hold dear. If you go in the direction of sympathizing with the language of the immigrants they will come a mile to meet you with the English language."

Speaking of the growth of foreign population and the effect of its presence in Philadelphia, Doctor Miller said: "I can show you one month of Europe in Philadelphia in one month than you could learn in Europe in one year. Every political party in Europe has representatives right here in your city. How can it be otherwise when 74 per cent of your population is of European stock?"

245,390 USE POOLS 52,737 Men, 14,812 Women, 35,795 Girls, 142,046 Boys Enjoy Water Philadelphia's swimming pools did a "land-office business" last week in the first of their activity this year. Twenty public pools and ten recreation center pools totaled an attendance of 245,390 persons. These were divided as follows: Men, 52,737; boys, 142,046; women, 14,812; girls, 35,795.

BARTENDERS' HEADQUARTERS AN EPIC OF GOOD TASTE

Studious Application to Macaulay's Essays and Milton's "Paradise Lost" Supplant Expected Revelry

A floor covered with sawdust. Glasses clinking amid bacchanalian ditties. Rattle of the dicebox and the swish of cards. This is the picture brought to the mind of some persons who think of the headquarters of a bartender's union.

If you have any such conception, then go to the headquarters of the Bartenders' Union of Philadelphia, at 928 North Broad street, and learn that you are entirely mistaken.

It is a house of the staid old mansion type; the kind that substantial families of twenty-five years ago occupied. A well-dressed man of quiet mien opened the door and showed a visitor to the reception room. An air of comfortable silence pervaded the place. Seated in exquisitely carved mahogany chairs, several men were reading. They gave the visitor a friendly glance of welcome, but did not speak.

Literature of the Best One man was reading a magazine noted for its conservative appeal and wholesome Americanism; another was glancing over the editorials in a newspaper; a third was intently perusing one of President Wilson's messages.

Rugs of fine texture covered the floor of gleaming wood and many steel engravings, in frames, which harmonized with the furniture, adorned the walls. Several lamps, topped with opalescent shades, adorned tables placed here and there with artistic nonchalance.

J. J. McElroy, president of the organization, entered and welcomed the visitor cordially. He discussed various topics of the day and showed that he had a ready vocabulary, which fitted

6 CHILDREN SEIZED ON ROBBERY CHARGE

One Held Under $800 Bail, Others Sent to House of Detention for Hearing

Six children ranging in age from ten to sixteen years have been robbing the houses of Colonel David S. B. Chew, 19 South Twenty-first street, and the Rev. Frederick Griffin, 32 South Twenty-first street, both of which are closed for the summer while the owners are away.

This statement was made today by Magistrate Grellis at the Fifteenth and Race streets station by Cornelius Johnson, colored, sixteen years old, 1918 Bainbridge street, who is the self-confessed leader of the gang. He was held under $800 bail.

The other children are Charles Washington, a negro, fourteen years, 1822 First street; Joseph Fields, a negro, twelve years, 2205 Ludlow street; Levi Walker, a negro, thirteen years, 2240 Ludlow street; David Statten, fourteen years, 2236 Market street, and Joseph McDevitt, ten years, 25 South Van Pelt street. They were sent to the House of Detention for a hearing.

Patrolman Barth captured Johnson yesterday afternoon as he was climbing the fence in back of the Chew house and his confessions led to the arrest of the other children. According to Johnson's statement the boys have been going back and forth in the two houses, taking whatever they desired, from fishhooks to pictures and books.

STATE WILL NOT ACT IN SPOONING CASE

Attorney General Says Haverford Township Row Is Outside His Jurisdiction

DOZEN SUITS THREATENED

No action or investigation in the case of the alleged illegal arrest and "black-mail" fine system said to be conducted at Squire Thomas and the police force of Haverford township will be taken by William I. Schaffer, attorney general of Pennsylvania, according to his statement this morning. He said:

"I expect to take no official action in the matter, as it does not come within my jurisdiction. If the state should enter the case it would have to go to the district attorney and that is only in case there is a warrant sworn out against the 'system' by one of the complainants."

If the statements against the squire and his men are true, they could be brought to justice for conducting summary trials when a jury trial is called for," he continued. "and, moreover, it is grossly illegal to charge an offender 'for getting out of bed,' as it is said that Squire Thomas has done."

Hannum May Act John B. Hannum, district attorney for Delaware county, may take up the case.

"At the present time I am not conducting any investigation, he said this morning, "but it is very probable that I shall before the end of the week. The only way in which I can officially conduct any legal prosecution is by acting upon a warrant sworn out by the complainants, but while none of them has done so yet, it is very likely that they will within a few days."

A dozen lawsuits may be the outcome of the tide of indignation which is now being directed toward Squire Thomas and the police force of Haverford township, under the leadership of Chief Hallisey, all of whom are declared by numerous complainants to be headed together in conducting a system of official black-mail against motorists passing through that section.

The commissioners of the township know of this high-handed practice, the protesters allege, but they are loath to put an end to the "fine mill" because of the fat sum which it is pouring into the township treasury. It is said that the community has been enriched to the extent of $12,000 to $15,000 annually from this source.

Call Hallisey Czar Chief Hallisey is characterized by some as a veritable czar, who has been holding the destiny of those motorists who pass through the territory in the hollow of his hand, arresting and threatening them at will.

Chief Hallisey is said on one occasion to have attempted to act as judge. Michael Corcoran, one of the victims of the practice of the Haverford police, had been arrested by one of the chief's agents on a charge of speeding. He was taken before Chief Hallisey, who is alleged to have said to him:

"The judge will fine you about $13.50 anyway. Give me the money and I will save you the trouble of appearing before him."

Mr. Corcoran said he sent the chief a check for that amount, but that for some reason it was returned to him. Chief Hallisey is also said to have forced the passage of an ordinance by the township commissioners, requiring all peddlers to take out licenses. A vigorous campaign against peddlers followed, which is said to have reaped quite a harvest in fines.

Among the complainants, who may take legal action against the squire and his police, are: L. T. Brehm, of Lanserch; Charles and Michael Corcoran, also of Lanserch; Edward A. Agnew, of Haverford; Sergeant Harry D. Reichner, of the Lower Merion police force; Michael S. Hatch, of Bryn Mawr; and Edward H. Bryant, a state detective, of Brookline; Edward Browning, of Devon; William Armstrong, Howard S. Smith, of this city; William S. Coyle, of Chester, and Lewis de Francesco, of East City line road.

All of these men are mentioned in the investigation which is now being conducted.

Thwarted One Attempt Sergeant Reichner today told of thwarting an alleged attempt to kidnap a woman in a machine, who was innocent of any wrongdoing.

The sergeant said he saw Eugene Graney, one of Chief Hallisey's men, watching a strolling automobile, Graney, the sergeant said, was then several squares outside the Haverford limits. The Lower Merion sergeant said he stepped to the road between the machine and the Haverford man and warned the occupants of the car that they were being spied upon. The sergeant ordered Graney to stay on his own side, and the man and woman drove away.

MOTORCAR BANDITS ROB CONFECTIONER AND HIS CUSTOMERS

$250 Taken From Lancaster Avenue Storekeeper and $50 From Patron

Armed auto bandits entered the candy store of Vaues Rinkas, 4092 Lancaster avenue, and took $250 from the cash register and $50 from a customer at the point of revolvers.

The men stopped their automobile in front of the store yesterday and entered. All drew revolvers. One of the bandits stood near the door with revolver in hand to guard against interruption.

While all but one of the others covered the proprietor and two customers, the remaining bandit robbed the cash register, and the patron, securing $50 from one of the latter, a man named Danzig. A gold watch and chain was stolen from the proprietor.

A passerby saw the affair and notified the police. They arrived just in time to see the automobile speeding down Lancaster avenue.

An automobile was commandeered for the pursuit, but the bandits turned the corner at Fairmount avenue and escaped.

BASTILLE CEREMONY HONORS TROOPS HERE

French Colony Pays Tribute to Soldiers in Celebration at Belmont Mansion

MaCLaughlin Will Speak The celebration of Bastille Day by the French colony in this city at Belmont Mansion, Fairmount Park, this afternoon, took the form of a welcome to the French-Philadelphians who have returned to this country after serving with the allied armies in the world war.

This was the first official welcome home to the soldiers of the local French colony.

Community games, races and other outdoor sports featured the celebration, which has been termed a "victory fete." A banquet will be held this evening at which the soldiers will be the honored guests. This will be followed by dancing.

Addresses were made at the fete by Joseph E. MacLaughlin, director of the Department of Supplies; Captain Paul Cret and others. Captain Cret gave up his chair at the University of Pennsylvania early in the war and went overseas, where he joined the French forces.

Madame Marie Thierly Beches, opera singer, sang the "Marseillaise" and several selections from her repertoire. She was ably assisted by singers of the French colony here.

In making arrangements for the celebration today the committee in charge was assisted by Victor Fontenan, the ent at the banquet today.

On July 14, 1789, a Paris mob stormed and captured the Bastille.

Further proof of the charge that it is discriminating against riders from the northwest section of the city, in demanding an eight-cent fare instead of issuing free transfers, is demanded by the Rapid Transit Company in its answer filed with the Public Service Commission.

The fifteen days expired yesterday within which Public Service Commissioner Clement required the company to answer a new and amended charge filed by the Northwest
