GOLF FEVER ALONE IS INCURABLE MALADY

Clubs, Balls and Links Only Thing That Alleviates Suffering of Patient

FINALS AT RIVERTON

By SPICK HALL. A RECENT consultation with some of our best-known specialists reveals the fact that there is only one thing in the world that is incurable—golf fever.

Thousands of athletes have begun one branch of sport only to end that aside later for another. But when once a man or woman gets the golf fever, all bets are off.

Since the war became history players have flocked to the links as they never did before, indicating that, in spite of the fact that the game is on the verge of a new era, one that is going to nationalize and internationalize the old Scottish game as the world's pastime.

Although there are no tournaments of importance in the Philadelphia district for some time to come, there are more people playing golf right now than ever, and the number is increasing daily.

What was true of Mathewson was also true of Eddie Collins, John Coombs and Chief Bender, although to a lesser extent.

All records were broken by Jim Barnes, of Sunset Hill, on the links of the Shawnee Country Club yesterday.

It is doubtful if more superb golf than Barnes' yesterday afternoon has ever been furnished in an open meeting.

Against a pace like that, little wonder that the rest of the field dropped away.

While going to the thirteenth, an insect flew in Barnes' eye, whereupon the big fellow called upon his rival for help.

McGraw Said to Be After Former Phil Flinger to Bolster Crippled Pitching Staff

BY EDWIN J. POLLOCK. The trading of Frank Schupp to the Phils for Fred Snyder is the first of what is believed to be a series of trades in the National League in which the Giants will figure prominently.

It is a known fact that McGraw holds Woodward in high regard. He believes that with proper handling he will develop into a great right-hander.

General Pershing and Doughboys to See Bantam Bout in London Tonight

YANK WEIGHS IN AT 116

London, July 17.—Anglo-American rivalry was keyed to an intense pitch today as British and Yankee fight fans awaited the going that will start Dal Moore and Jimmy Wilde on their 20-round bout at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

With General Pershing and his staff and a host of American doughboys in the city, augmented by members of the American colony in Paris, the match has assumed an international interest that savored of pre-war competition.

Wilde, the world's flyweight champion, was the favorite today, but the odds were for the Memphis boy showed a decrease compared with the betting three weeks ago.

Looking fit from his training with British sparring partners Moore weighed in at 116 pounds this afternoon just under 116 pounds. Wilde, as usual, was much lighter.

The purse for tonight's battle is $20,000.

Bingles and Bingles. "It sees by the papers," cooed the eye of the brown derby, as he tilted his rim to a barred barroom, "that Henry Ford, that Henry Ford, is a newspaper writer. Probably thinks John McGraw is an over-singer."
