

Cabinet Meets for First Time in Months on Return of President : July Fourth in Paris

Photo I.F.S.

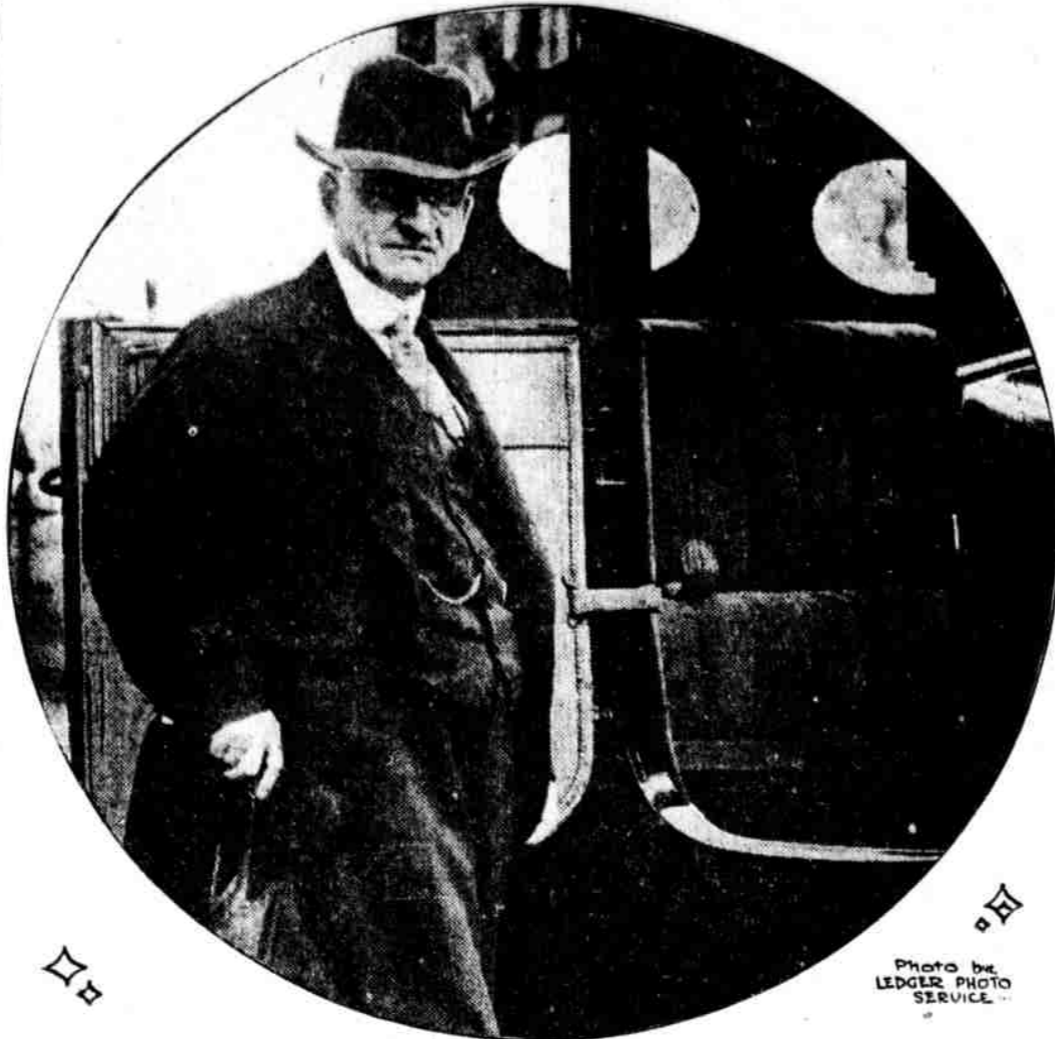

Photo by LEDGER PHOTO SERVICE

NEWSPAPER-MEN interviewing Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, leaving the White House after the first cabinet meeting in many months.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in several months there was a meeting of President Wilson's entire cabinet. Above is Carter Glass, secretary of the treasury, leaving the conference at which the chief executive presided.

Photo by LEDGER PHOTO SERVICE

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL, Albert S. Burleson, is ever prepared for storm; he always carries an umbrella.

Photo I.F.S.

THE SECRETARY OF COMMERCE, William C. Redfield, comes smiling from the conference.

© HARRIS & EWING

MISS ELIZABETH DUBOIS, eldest daughter of former Senator and Mrs. Fred T. Dubois, of Idaho, who has graduated from college and is to be a debutante of the coming season in Washington society. She is a member of the Big Sister Movement at Walter Reed Military Hospital in the national capital.

Photo by LEDGER PHOTO SERVICE

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR Franklin K. Lane on the White House steps.

Photo I.F.S.

SECRETARY OF WAR Newton D. Baker.

SECRETARY OF LABOR William B. Wilson in the cool habili-ment of hot days.

Photo I.F.S.

ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE Frank L. Folk, who is going to Paris to take Secretary of State Lansing's place on the peace mission.

AN ASCOT SUMMER FROCK. A British officer and his modish friend taking a long-distance view of the king and queen as they watch the races from the royal stand.

© Keystone View Co.

CELEBRATING THE "FOURTH" in Paris. General Pershing, Premier Clemenceau and President Poincare inspecting the troops which took part in the Independence Day review in the French capital.