

DR. ADLER HOME, PRAISING LEAGUE

Head of Dropsie College, Who Represented Jews at Peace Conference, Elated

ASSURES MINORITY RIGHTS

"To me the pact of the league of nations and the protection of the rights for minority groups as embodied in the present peace treaty are the two greatest contributions made toward a decent and proper relation between nations," said Dr. Cyrus Adler at his home, 2041 North Broad street.

Doctor Adler, who, with Louis Marshall, of New York, represented the American Jewish committee at the Peace Conference in Paris, arrived home late yesterday afternoon from New York. The Touraine, on which he returned to America, docked Thursday morning.

The president of Dropsie College looked particularly fit after his four months overseas.

"I have just had time enough since my train pulled into the North Philadelphia station," said the doctor, smiling, "to wash and eat a real home-made dinner. And now I am ready to meet my friends."

And while the eminent author and scholar chatted, he was given opportunity to meet many friends, who came to his home to give him a brief but cordial welcome.

"I have so much faith in this treaty," said Doctor Adler, "that I don't think it ought to be amended at all. It's a great document, and it represents compromise surely, but so did the constitution of the United States represent compromise. And, of course, it seems a bit involved. But, you know, it wasn't written by one man. It was written by many men. And it is very easy for a person who has been sitting over here on this side of the ocean to pick it to pieces. That isn't a difficult thing to do. The difficult thing to do was to make it."

Treaty to Reject It

"It would be a tragedy for America to reject the treaty. We must cultivate an international sense. We are no longer isolated. An ocean that can be crossed in nineteen hours by airplane—an ocean that can be bridged at the rate of 300,000 troops every month—is no longer an ocean that separates America from Europe. I'm conservative to the extent that many of my friends call me reactionary. I love George Washington as one of the world's greatest men, and yet I am convinced that America must share hereafter the problems of Europe. After all, the world is looking to us for something big and altruistic—though I don't exactly like that last word."

"You know," he continued, "I went over to Paris, particularly interested in the rights of minorities. In the German treaty there is a clause that provides that Poland agree to make a treaty with the principal allied powers, guaranteeing full rights to those who differ from the majority in race, language and religion. Well, that guarantee to those minorities who have heretofore lived in a fashion outside the pale of the law not only equals before the law, but also freedom of religion, the right to share out of public taxation in schools and institutions—like hospitals and asylums. To me that is very wonderful and significant!"

No Sabbath Desecration

"In Poland, for instance, heretofore there will be no elections on the Jewish Saturday, and Jews will not be required to desecrate their Sabbath in any way. The treaty recognizes the protection of the rights of minorities as a matter of international concern. And any signatory to the treaty may hereafter intervene for the protection of the minorities without the intervention being considered an unfriendly act."

"I don't know whether the Russian people are friendly toward the allied forces in Russia or not. How is one to know about those things when Russia is in such a maze?"

Doctor Adler and Mr. Marshall had personal conferences with President Wilson and with Colonel House and others of the American peace delegation, but they did not attend the meetings of the Peace Conference.

Doctor Adler will leave Monday for New York. He will be one of the guests of honor at the reception to Louis Marshall, president of the American Jewish committee. Doctor Adler is vice president of the committee.

There will be a dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria, and later a mass-meeting in Carnegie Hall. Jacob H. Schiff will preside at both.

(Central)

Snow Whiteness to Spread on Your Table
The scarcity of linen has set many households using this fine white cotton table damask and its durability and sightliness have been a revelation. The patterns are the same ones used formerly in linens and many of these cotton materials were even woven on the old linen looms.
Prices are not high—for instance, 58-inch table damask, full bleached, may be had in several pretty patterns at 50c and 60c a yard. Another quality, finished like linen, is 70 inches wide at 85c a yard. Extra heavy damask, which is half linen, is in several handsome designs, 70 inches wide, at $2.25 a yard.

Table Cloths
are in various sizes for breakfast, luncheon and dinner.
36-inch hemstitched squares are $1; 45-inch, $1.50.
58x72-inch and 68x90-inch hemmed cloths are $2.
So the prices go up to $5 for a cloth measuring 70x90 inches.
(Chestnut)

A most astonishing sale in the light of the great scarcity of this type of merchandise. Here are summer weights in underwear for men and women and many kinds of hosiery of the kinds that you want for immediate wearing, all at prices that average just half.

Every frock is specially priced and there is all the wide variety of voile to select from. $5, $7.50, $8.25, $8.75 and $10.
At $8.25, there is a group of crisp organdie frocks with overskirts and sashes, polka-dotted or pin-dotted voile dresses in navy blue or black, and figured voile frocks with organdie sashes, collars and vests.
A Splendid Group of New Frocks at $10
The delightful organdie are in plain colors or checks, trimmed with crocheted buttons. The roll collars, vests and deep cuffs are trimmed with hemstitched organdie. Dainty, cool white dimity frocks have organdie sashes. And dark voile, with white dots or figures, is made in many models.
A Reduced Lot of Dresses at $15
This includes Summer frocks of voile in Georgette patterns, braided voile dresses, and dresses of organdie and of dotted swiss. There is a variety—with one or two of a kind, and of course not every size may be had in each style!
Groups of Dresses Much Reduced in Price
75 white voile frocks are slightly mussed from handling. There are about 20 different models. Also, a few white organdie and dotted swiss frocks are included, $5, $8.50 and $10. Some were marked a third more and others were twice as much.
Reduced to $5 and $6
Odd frocks—mostly one, two or three of a kind—are made of plaid gingham, chintz, linene, figured voile and combinations of chintz and voile.
Reduced to $2
80 white embroidered voile frocks that are slightly soiled and mussed have satin or voile girdles. Sizes 14 to 38 are in the lot.
(Market)

Cheery Little Frocks for Small Girls Special at 65c
You will be surprised how nicely they are made and at the quality of gingham that is used. There is a choice of blue or pink plaid. The little frocks are made with high waistlines and are trimmed with plain-color collars and cuffs. Sizes 2 to 5 years.
A Special Group of Boys' Suits Some Slightly Mussed—at $1.50 to $2.50
Most of these good suits were originally priced a great deal more and, as many of them are only very slightly mussed, this is a great opportunity for mothers. There are suits of durable gingham in stripes and plain colors, white jean and white linene, and suits of the heavy wash suiting that wears so well. The colors are various—with plenty of blue.
The sizes are 2 to 6 years—with not every size in each style and color, but all sizes in the lot.
(Central)

Lily of France Corsets Two Models at $5
One is of fine pink coutil—for average to stout figures. It is boned well all around and has a medium-low bust. There is elastic lacing below the front steels.
The other is of attractive pink figured broche—for slight to average figures. The boning is comfortably short in front. The bust is low in front, with elastic, but gives enough support in the back. It is fairly well boned and has elastic lacing below the front steels.

Silken Loveliness from Japan
Kimonos, Nightgowns, Envelope Chemises and Corset Covers Exquisitely Embroidered by Hand
The breathing beauty of flower petals is living in the gorgeous kimonos. The Japanese silk and satin that is used is fine and soft—and stitched entirely by hand.
Hues are truly beautiful: warm, clear sun-glow; delicate light blue; deep, dull rose like an inner petal; April twilight (and we can't wait to tell you that this is embroidered with dripping cherry blossoms); royal, glowing purple; pretty pink, white, and raspberry.
The embroidery is an art, bringing to us the beauty of all flowers in these roses, cherry blossoms, apple blossoms, and the bright-breasted birds that naturally hover over the swags. $16.50, $18.75 and $22.50.
Short kimonos are $5.50, $7.50 and $12.50.
Lovely Gifts for the Autumn Bride and Practical for All Women
The underthings and nightgowns are made of Habutai silk and an unusually fine quality of crepe de Chine—in pink and white. The embroidery is beautifully done, with scalloping so fine that you will marvel at it. These are not only fine and beautiful, but very practical, as they will wear longer than almost any other kind.
The corset covers are $4.50 and $5.50; the envelope chemises, $5.50, $6.50 and $10; the nightgowns, $2.75 and $12.50. There are also Habutai pajamas at $10.50.
All of these are priced very close.
