

BULGARIAN TREATY NEARLY COMPLETE

Supreme Council Approves Economic Clauses, but Boundaries Are Not Yet Defined

UNEASY FEELING AT SOFIA

By the Associated Press

Paris, July 30.—The Bulgarian peace treaty was taken up again today by the supreme council of the Peace Conference. With the exception of the delineation of the boundaries of Bulgaria, the terms now are virtually complete.

The Bulgarian delegation this afternoon sent its first note to the conference. It took the form of a voluminous document claiming Macedonia, Dobruja and Thrace as purely Bulgarian territory and insisting that they must be given to Bulgaria.

Frank H. Polk, American assistant secretary of state, who arrived here yesterday to become head of the American peace delegation, was quoted today by several newspapers as being optimistic regarding ratification of the German treaty by the United States Senate.

The terms to be presented to the Bulgarian delegation were said to be the principal object of Mr. Polk's attention, but he is understood not to have brought with him President Wilson's decision on the disposition of Thrace.

The President's attitude on other problems, especially the mandates for Turkey or Armenia, the Hungarian situation and the Russian question, the newspapers said probably will be made known by Mr. Polk.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 29.—(By A. P.)—(Delayed)—An atmosphere of uneasiness is discernible here with regard to the outcome of the mission in Paris of the Bulgarian peace delegation.

Despite hints of possible territorial losses, which have caused concern and bitter comment, there appears to be a general hope that justice will be done Bulgaria and that the questions at issue will be determined independently of her participation in the war on the side opposed to the Allies.

Prominent Bulgarian spokesmen have given expression to strong desires to see peace brought about through the visit of the mission to Paris, together with the hope, as one of them said, that the terms would be "something we can swallow."

In these expressions both the United States and Great Britain are alluded to as friendly, but the belief in this friendship is voiced with less certainty than previously. Utterances indicating dislike of the French are freely heard in the capital, which may be explained as due to the presence of French colonial troops here.

Vigorous Fight on French Pact

Continued From Page One

Mr. Dillingham said he did not get the impression that such a statement would be forthcoming.

Senator Harding, of Ohio, a Republican member of the foreign relations committee, also conferred with the President on the peace treaty.

Senator Harding denied that he had become a "convert" to the President's program of ratification of the treaty without reservations.

Other Senators

Senators Fernald, Maine, and Lenroot, Wisconsin, also were on the President's appointment list today.

Decision to consider the Colombian treaty at a public session followed the action of the foreign relations committee in voting unanimous approval of the document, under which the United States agrees to pay to Colombia $25,000,000 for claims growing out of the partition of Panama.

Before voting approval the committee expanded the clause contained in the original draft and under which the United States would have expressed regret for certain actions coincident with proceedings for the construction of the Panama canal.

Guard Official Text

Unusual steps to guard the official text of the French defensive treaty, submitted yesterday to the Senate by President Wilson, pending final action upon the convention by that body are being taken, it became known today, and these precautions will continue, according to Secretary Sanderson, of the Senate, until it has been finally deposited in the State Department vaults.

With the receipt of the treaty, which is the only copy in the United States,

Reading Express Wrecked; 2 Killed

Continued From Page One

Philadelphia at 11.50, having left Reading at 9.25.

The accident is attributed to spreading rails. When the engineer felt the rails going he jammed on the emergency brakes and struck to his post.

Ex-Offshooters on Committee

There are also on the committee a number of ex-offshooters and ex-officers, including Charles F. Kelly, assistant district attorney; George W. Coles, who is employed in the insane department of the state; James Herron, formerly employed in the tax office, and others.

Retrial Is Denied In 5th Ward Case

Continued From Page One

prison sentence and each pay a fine of $400. Hayden will serve six months in jail and pay a fine of $200.

Isaac Deutsch, former Vares leader of the Fifth ward, who was convicted by Lieutenant Bennett and the other defendants, died while the Superior Court was considering a plea for a new trial of the case.

Lieutenant Bennett received word of the decision of the Superior Court when he returned to the police station after lunching.

"Oh, is that so?" he said. "The lieutenant was asked if he cared to make any statement.

"No," he answered. "And then after a moment's hesitation, 'No, none at all, thank you."

All were originally convicted before a jury in the West Chester court. On July 17 Judge Head, of the Superior Court, handed down a decision in which the appeal was refused.

The defendants were sentenced by Judge Hanes, at West Chester, on January 13. Deutsch received a two years' sentence, and was to have paid a fine of $1000.

William A. Gray represented the defendants.

All Patrolmen Under Bennett

All of the patrolmen were detailed to the Third and De Lancey streets station under Lieutenant Bennett in the political campaign for supremacy of the "Bloody Fifth" in September of 1917.

Deutch was then the Vares leader of the ward, opposed by James A. Carey.

Committee of 100 Talking of Moore

Continued From Page One

ex-offshooters, ex-officers and non-residents.

Senator Vares and other Republican leaders referred all inquiries as to what they thought of the make-up of the committee to Chairman Ransley.

Here is Ransley's idea of it. Mr. Ransley's idea of the committee of one hundred follows:

It would seem that Senator Penrose and Mr. Coles assumed a lot of authority to appoint a committee to select the Republican candidate for Mayor without credentials from any great number of voters of this city.

Even to be a member of the Republican ward executive committee, in the several hundred divisions throughout the city, the member must be elected by a majority of the Republican voters of his division in accordance with the laws of the state and the rules of the Republican party; but in accordance with the Penrose idea, all that is needed is to use the telephone, as he has been doing for the last three weeks, and select a committee. After requesting the use of more than 500 phones, he finally got the consent of 100 to serve, of which a majority will take his orders and ratify his choice.

The committee is made up one-fourth manufacturers, headed by Alfred E. Burk, Nathan T. Polwell and John Eisler, who are expecting special privileges under the future tariff laws through Penrose, forgetting, however, that the six regular Republican congressmen from this city will have to pass on the tariff law before it ever reaches Penrose. These six Republican congressmen will see to it that there will be no special privileges and that all manufacturers get a square deal.

What do ex-offshooters on the committee, including Mrs. Edward Bidle, of Carlisle, Pa.; George Burnham, Jr., of Berwyn; Hugh McIlvain, of Haverford; Charles J. Webb, of Elkins Park, and many others have to do with the selection of the Republican candidate for Mayor?

The balance of the committee is made up of some high type people among in what they consider good faith, but misled by false statements in some of the newspapers.

Certainly the independents or the regular Republicans of this city will not feel as if they have had anything to do with the selection of a Republican candidate for Mayor picked under these circumstances.

Makes Me Laugh, Says Eisler

John Eisler, who is treasurer of Yewell & Jones Company, dealers in woolen yarns, in answer to the statement of Sheriff Ransley, said:

"I make me laugh. The men mentioned are more directly interested at the moment in cleaning up the politics of Philadelphia than they are in the tariff of 1920.

The condition of Philadelphia politics has been so bad that the industrial interests of Philadelphia have had to carry a very heavy load, and they are determined to clean up their own house before considering any future legislation. We are not in this for what we expect from the tariff next year. The Republican party, as a whole, will take care of that.

What we are interested in is riding Philadelphia of such men as Ransley and his type."

Coles Won't Answer

Alfred E. Burk, of the firm of Burk Brothers, dealers in lumber, in answer to the statement of Sheriff Ransley, said:

"I do not care to go into any discussion with the Republican city committee, but I will say that I never wanted any special privileges. My name was asked to be used as one of a hundred names for the purpose of selecting a candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia."

Mr. Coles declared "the criticism does not require any answer. The statement is wordy and will fall of its own weight," he added.

That the Republican Alliance, the Penrose wing of the Republicans, is for Mr. Acker was indicated by Thomas W. Cunningham, chairman of the body, following a meeting of that body.

"The leaders of the alliance," said Mr. Cunningham, "are of the opinion that Mr. Acker should be the candidate. Any friends that we might have on the committee of one hundred should urge the selection of Mr. Acker."

"His strength is not limited to the alliance. He is mentioned favorably in all sections of the city."

Former Recorder of Deeds Ernest L. Tustin, who has been mentioned as a majority possibility, has declined to consider the matter because of business affairs.

Tustin's Refusal

In a letter to Mr. Coles, Mr. Tustin takes his name out of the list of possibilities and urges the indorsement of Mr. Acker.

Blakely D. McCaughan, Penrose leader of the Twenty-fourth ward, announced that he would support Mr. Acker.

Blakely D. McCaughan, Penrose leader of the Twenty-fourth ward, announced that he would support Mr. Acker.

Blakely D. McCaughan, Penrose leader of the Twenty-fourth ward, announced that he would support Mr. Acker.

Blakely D. McCaughan, Penrose leader of the Twenty-fourth ward, announced that he would support Mr. Acker.

Blakely D. McCaughan, Penrose leader of the Twenty-fourth ward, announced that he would support Mr. Acker.

He will not press any candidacy for the nomination for sheriff.

Mr. McCaughan says that if nominating petitions are being circulated they have been put out without his sanction. Mr. Coles may be indorsed by the committee of one hundred for sheriff.

The announcement by W. Freeland Kendrick that he "would know within a week" if he would enter the mayoralty race has upset the dope again on the Vares side.

A belief is beginning to prevail that neither Judge Patterson nor Mr. Kendrick may be the candidates of the Vares but that a "dark horse" may be sprung at the last minute.

Moore Movement for Mayor Grows

Continued From Page One

strictly political element, represented by the Republican Alliance, headed by Senator Penrose, in their effort to throw the Vares out into the middle of the road on the palms of their hands.

The Vares organization would fight District Attorney Rotun with added zest. Its leaders will never forget his attitude at Harrisburg in the hearing on the district attorney's detective force bill in which he was personally interested, and the manner in which he manhandled his erstwhile friends, the Vares.

W. Freeland Kendrick, on the Vares side, has for the time being resumed his place at the head of the candidates' class in the Vares school of politics. This time his prospects for remaining there are brighter than ever.

Judge Patterson's candidacy has had a little jolt. It is due to the fact that one of the Vares leaders has been reluctant to indorse him wholeheartedly. The judge, upon one occasion, as a matter of personal integrity, was compelled to cast a vote unfavorable to this leader. The latter has never entertained the same feeling for the judge as he did before.

One Hundred Committee Praised

The committee of one hundred, named by Mr. Coles and his associates, is regarded by independent Republicans generally as an admirable piece of political architecture. It is looked upon as representative of the best element of independent Republicanism. But it is not to escape attack. Its membership has been scanned very closely at Eleventh and Chestnut streets and bricks are being hurled right and left. This must be expected by the men and women who composed the committee as part of the political game upon which they have ventured, the ladies particularly.

There are reports that there will be defections from the committee's ranks. There is some criticism among their own sex of several of the women on the list for joining a political movement in which Senator Penrose is a potential leader. This is due to the senator's attitude on suffrage, they say, but I rather suspect it is likewise owing to a failure to place any conspicuous suffragist on the committee.

While the regulars, or Vares organization managers, have laid a barrage attack on the committee of one hundred, the Independents are about ready to let loose a gas attack whose effects they assert will be both seen and heard throughout the campaign.

It will take the form, with facts and figures, of charge that the Vares organization is responsible for the high tax rate; that the property owners of the city have been compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess of what they should have paid; that these vast sums were utilized unnecessarily and to the direct profit of the city organization.

The Vares organization would fight District Attorney Rotun with added zest. Its leaders will never forget his attitude at Harrisburg in the hearing on the district attorney's detective force bill in which he was personally interested, and the manner in which he manhandled his erstwhile friends, the Vares.

W. Freeland Kendrick, on the Vares side, has for the time being resumed his place at the head of the candidates' class in the Vares school of politics. This time his prospects for remaining there are brighter than ever.

Judge Patterson's candidacy has had a little jolt. It is due to the fact that one of the Vares leaders has been reluctant to indorse him wholeheartedly. The judge, upon one occasion, as a matter of personal integrity, was compelled to cast a vote unfavorable to this leader. The latter has never entertained the same feeling for the judge as he did before.

One Hundred Committee Praised

The committee of one hundred, named by Mr. Coles and his associates, is regarded by independent Republicans generally as an admirable piece of political architecture. It is looked upon as representative of the best element of independent Republicanism. But it is not to escape attack. Its membership has been scanned very closely at Eleventh and Chestnut streets and bricks are being hurled right and left. This must be expected by the men and women who composed the committee as part of the political game upon which they have ventured, the ladies particularly.

There are reports that there will be defections from the committee's ranks. There is some criticism among their own sex of several of the women on the list for joining a political movement in which Senator Penrose is a potential leader. This is due to the senator's attitude on suffrage, they say, but I rather suspect it is likewise owing to a failure to place any conspicuous suffragist on the committee.

While the regulars, or Vares organization managers, have laid a barrage attack on the committee of one hundred, the Independents are about ready to let loose a gas attack whose effects they assert will be both seen and heard throughout the campaign.

It will take the form, with facts and figures, of charge that the Vares organization is responsible for the high tax rate; that the property owners of the city have been compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess of what they should have paid; that these vast sums were utilized unnecessarily and to the direct profit of the city organization.

He will not press any candidacy for the nomination for sheriff.

Mr. McCaughan says that if nominating petitions are being circulated they have been put out without his sanction. Mr. Coles may be indorsed by the committee of one hundred for sheriff.

The announcement by W. Freeland Kendrick that he "would know within a week" if he would enter the mayoralty race has upset the dope again on the Vares side.

A belief is beginning to prevail that neither Judge Patterson nor Mr. Kendrick may be the candidates of the Vares but that a "dark horse" may be sprung at the last minute.

Moore Movement for Mayor Grows

Continued From Page One

strictly political element, represented by the Republican Alliance, headed by Senator Penrose, in their effort to throw the Vares out into the middle of the road on the palms of their hands.

The Vares organization would fight District Attorney Rotun with added zest. Its leaders will never forget his attitude at Harrisburg in the hearing on the district attorney's detective force bill in which he was personally interested, and the manner in which he manhandled his erstwhile friends, the Vares.

W. Freeland Kendrick, on the Vares side, has for the time being resumed his place at the head of the candidates' class in the Vares school of politics. This time his prospects for remaining there are brighter than ever.

Judge Patterson's candidacy has had a little jolt. It is due to the fact that one of the Vares leaders has been reluctant to indorse him wholeheartedly. The judge, upon one occasion, as a matter of personal integrity, was compelled to cast a vote unfavorable to this leader. The latter has never entertained the same feeling for the judge as he did before.

One Hundred Committee Praised

The committee of one hundred, named by Mr. Coles and his associates, is regarded by independent Republicans generally as an admirable piece of political architecture. It is looked upon as representative of the best element of independent Republicanism. But it is not to escape attack. Its membership has been scanned very closely at Eleventh and Chestnut streets and bricks are being hurled right and left. This must be expected by the men and women who composed the committee as part of the political game upon which they have ventured, the ladies particularly.

There are reports that there will be defections from the committee's ranks. There is some criticism among their own sex of several of the women on the list for joining a political movement in which Senator Penrose is a potential leader. This is due to the senator's attitude on suffrage, they say, but I rather suspect it is likewise owing to a failure to place any conspicuous suffragist on the committee.

While the regulars, or Vares organization managers, have laid a barrage attack on the committee of one hundred, the Independents are about ready to let loose a gas attack whose effects they assert will be both seen and heard throughout the campaign.

It will take the form, with facts and figures, of charge that the Vares organization is responsible for the high tax rate; that the property owners of the city have been compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess of what they should have paid; that these vast sums were utilized unnecessarily and to the direct profit of the city organization.

The Vares organization would fight District Attorney Rotun with added zest. Its leaders will never forget his attitude at Harrisburg in the hearing on the district attorney's detective force bill in which he was personally interested, and the manner in which he manhandled his erstwhile friends, the Vares.

W. Freeland Kendrick, on the Vares side, has for the time being resumed his place at the head of the candidates' class in the Vares school of politics. This time his prospects for remaining there are brighter than ever.

Judge Patterson's candidacy has had a little jolt. It is due to the fact that one of the Vares leaders has been reluctant to indorse him wholeheartedly. The judge, upon one occasion, as a matter of personal integrity, was compelled to cast a vote unfavorable to this leader. The latter has never entertained the same feeling for the judge as he did before.

One Hundred Committee Praised

The committee of one hundred, named by Mr. Coles and his associates, is regarded by independent Republicans generally as an admirable piece of political architecture. It is looked upon as representative of the best element of independent Republicanism. But it is not to escape attack. Its membership has been scanned very closely at Eleventh and Chestnut streets and bricks are being hurled right and left. This must be expected by the men and women who composed the committee as part of the political game upon which they have ventured, the ladies particularly.

There are reports that there will be defections from the committee's ranks. There is some criticism among their own sex of several of the women on the list for joining a political movement in which Senator Penrose is a potential leader. This is due to the senator's attitude on suffrage, they say, but I rather suspect it is likewise owing to a failure to place any conspicuous suffragist on the committee.

While the regulars, or Vares organization managers, have laid a barrage attack on the committee of one hundred, the Independents are about ready to let loose a gas attack whose effects they assert will be both seen and heard throughout the campaign.

It will take the form, with facts and figures, of charge that the Vares organization is responsible for the high tax rate; that the property owners of the city have been compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess of what they should have paid; that these vast sums were utilized unnecessarily and to the direct profit of the city organization.

NAVY YARD WORKERS HERE TO KEEP JOBS

Employes' Lawyer Says Yard Gets New Work, Despite Retrenchment Elsewhere

Proposed dismissal of navy yard employees during the coming fiscal year, made necessary by lack of funds, as announced yesterday by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, will not affect the Philadelphia Navy Yard, according to Michael Francis Doyle, counsel for the Philadelphia Navy Yard Employees' Association.

"There are at least 14,000 employees at the Philadelphia yard," said Mr. Doyle. "Secretary Daniels promised some time ago that this yard would be given new construction work, and since that time contracts for the building of two large tenders and two battle cruisers have been awarded. That will keep all the present employees busy for at least two years. The yard is even now advertising for more work."

"The Philadelphia yard is one of the lucky ones in having the class of work that would make it impossible to reduce the number of employees. So far as my knowledge goes, this and the New York yard are the only two in the country engaged in new construction work."

Lieutenant Malise, commandant's aide at the Philadelphia yard, said official notice had not been received as to the proposed cut. Mr. Roosevelt's statement says the present force of 85,000 will be reduced to about 60,000.

REGISTRATION BOARD HEARS 680 PETITIONS

Commissioners Work Through Lunch Hour to Act Upon Rush of Applications

Hearing applications for divisional registers is going along smoothly for the new registration board.

The board did not adjourn for luncheon, but kept at its work. Six hundred and eighty petitions are to be acted upon before the end of today. They represent wards Twenty-three to Thirty-one, inclusive.

The Twenty-fifth ward presented eighty-five petitions. It was believed that William P. Campbell, representing the group opposing Vares, would be present at the hearings for this ward, but neither he nor his personal lieutenant, B. J. McGuigan, put in an appearance up to early this afternoon.

The largest number of petitions from any one ward heard so far was 100 from the Twenty-fourth ward. Although Charles W. McCaughan, Vares leader, and Blakely D. McCaughan, Penrose follower, were both present at the hearings, whatever sensation was expected did not break.

There are reports that there will be defections from the committee's ranks. There is some criticism among their own sex of several of the women on the list for joining a political movement in which Senator Penrose is a potential leader. This is due to the senator's attitude on suffrage, they say, but I rather suspect it is likewise owing to a failure to place any conspicuous suffragist on the committee.

While the regulars, or Vares organization managers, have laid a barrage attack on the committee of one hundred, the Independents are about ready to let loose a gas attack whose effects they assert will be both seen and heard throughout the campaign.

It will take the form, with facts and figures, of charge that the Vares organization is responsible for the high tax rate; that the property owners of the city have been compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess of what they should have paid; that these vast sums were utilized unnecessarily and to the direct profit of the city organization.

The Vares organization would fight District Attorney Rotun with added zest. Its leaders will never forget his attitude at Harrisburg in the hearing on the district attorney's detective force bill in which he was personally interested, and the manner in which he manhandled his erstwhile friends, the Vares.

W. Freeland Kendrick, on the Vares side, has for the time being resumed his place at the head of the candidates' class in the Vares school of politics. This time his prospects for remaining there are brighter than ever.

Judge Patterson's candidacy has had a little jolt. It is due to the fact that one of the Vares leaders has been reluctant to indorse him wholeheartedly. The judge, upon one occasion, as a matter of personal integrity, was compelled to cast a vote unfavorable to this leader. The latter has never entertained the same feeling for the judge as he did before.

One Hundred Committee Praised

The committee of one hundred, named by Mr. Coles and his associates, is regarded by independent Republicans generally as an admirable piece of political architecture. It is looked upon as representative of the best element of independent Republicanism. But it is not to escape attack. Its membership has been scanned very closely at Eleventh and Chestnut streets and bricks are being hurled right and left. This must be expected by the men and women who composed the committee as part of the political game upon which they have ventured, the ladies particularly.

There are reports that there will be defections from the committee's ranks. There is some criticism among their own sex of several of the women on the list for joining a political movement in which Senator Penrose is a potential leader. This is due to the senator's attitude on suffrage, they say, but I rather suspect it is likewise owing to a failure to place any conspicuous suffragist on the committee.

While the regulars, or Vares organization managers, have laid a barrage attack on the committee of one hundred, the Independents are about ready to let loose a gas attack whose effects they assert will be both seen and heard throughout the campaign.

It will take the form, with facts and figures, of charge that the Vares organization is responsible for the high tax rate; that the property owners of the city have been compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess of what they should have paid; that these vast sums were utilized unnecessarily and to the direct profit of the city organization.

The Vares organization would fight District Attorney Rotun with added zest. Its leaders will never forget his attitude at Harrisburg in the hearing on the district attorney's detective force bill in which he was personally interested, and the manner in which he manhandled his erstwhile friends, the Vares.

W. Freeland Kendrick, on the Vares side, has for the time being resumed his place at the head of the candidates' class in the Vares school of politics. This time his prospects for remaining there are brighter than ever.

Judge Patterson's candidacy has had a little jolt. It is due to the fact that one of the Vares leaders has been reluctant to indorse him wholeheartedly. The judge, upon one occasion, as a matter of personal integrity, was compelled to cast a vote unfavorable to this leader. The latter has never entertained the same feeling for the judge as he did before.

One Hundred Committee Praised

The committee of one hundred, named by Mr. Coles and his associates, is regarded by independent Republicans generally as an admirable piece of political architecture. It is looked upon as representative of the best element of independent Republicanism. But it is not to escape attack. Its membership has been scanned very closely at Eleventh and Chestnut streets and bricks are being hurled right and left. This must be expected by the men and women who composed the committee as part of the political game upon which they have ventured, the ladies particularly.

There are reports that there will be defections from the committee's ranks. There is some criticism among their own sex of several of the women on the list for joining a political movement in which Senator Penrose is a potential leader. This is due to the senator's attitude on suffrage, they say, but I rather suspect it is likewise owing to a failure to place any conspicuous suffragist on the committee.

While the regulars, or Vares organization managers, have laid a barrage attack on the committee of one hundred, the Independents are about ready to let loose a gas attack whose effects they assert will be both seen and heard throughout the campaign.

It will take the form, with facts and figures, of charge that the Vares organization is responsible for the high tax rate; that the property owners of the city have been compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in excess of what they should have paid; that these vast sums were utilized unnecessarily and to the direct profit of the city organization.

ACME THE TRUCK OF PROVED UNITS DEALERS who have handled some of the best known quality trucks...

Same Old Bill, eh Mable! Even an army nule would laugh at Bill's adventures in France and at t'se Front as told by EDWARD STREETER in...

Heat and Steam Without Smoke FAMOUS READING ANTHRACITE FOR DOMESTIC USE—Fire Stove, Chestnut, Pea and Buckwheat...

On the long, long trail Out along the open road, where the traffic-creep is unknown, the speedometer has ample opportunity to record the performance of the motor-fuel.

Nowadays a vacation is incomplete without a Kodak. There's a real pleasure in Kodak ownership.

High-Grade Developing and Finishing HAWORTH'S EASTMAN KODAK CO. 1020 Chestnut St., Phila.

It saves not only coal, but labor. Lasts as long as the firebrick walls and can be reset at a nominal cost; reduces coal consumption 15 to 20%; lengthens the life of boilers and pays for itself in a few weeks.

One of Philadelphia's largest manufacturing concerns recently installed 3 fuel savers and has just saved 2 more. Let us show you. MONT-CLARE LOW PRESSURE BOILERS 401 Flanders Bldg. 15th and Walnut Sts., Phila.

Mountain Valley Water ENDORSED BY PHYSICIANS Famed for curative properties in Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Bile and other troubles and excessive uric acid. A Natural Diuretic.

SAVE 20% ON COAL AIR INTAKE HEATED AIR OUTLET It saves not only coal, but labor. Lasts as long as the firebrick walls and can be reset at a nominal cost; reduces coal consumption 1