Popolazione e Polizia Impediscono una Dimostrazione di Elementi Bolscevichi

Published and Distributed Under PERMIT NO. 341. PERMIT NO. 341
Authorized by the act of October 6,
1917 on file at the Postoffice of Philadelphia. Pa.
By order of the President,
A S BURLESON.
Postmaster General.

Trieste, 5 agosto.-Un gruppo di bolscevichi sono apparsi, oggi, nelle vie della citta' nel tentative di provocare una rivolta. Il loro tentativo falli' completamente e furono dispersi dalla polizia, nonche' dalla popolazione che fece loro passare un brutto quarto

Durante la dimostrazione furono praticati 700 arresti.

Roma, 5 agosto -Si apprende che temporaneamente e' stata chiusa la frontiera tra l'Italia, la Francia e la Svizzera e cio' per importantissime operazioni della polizia, allo scopo di arrestare pericolosi individui sui quali gravano le responsabilita' di aver tentato di ordire dei complotti rivoluzionari in Italia ed all'estero, con l'intento di rovesciare le presenti istituzioni.

Il Comitato parlamentare per l'esame del trattato di pace con la Germania continua i suoi lavori e sembra che sin poco soddisfatto del modo col quale si e' proceduto alla sistemazione di parecchi problemi internazionali, da parte della Conferenza della Pace a Parigi.

Il predetto comitato si compone di 24 deputati appartenenti si varii partiti della Camera.

I rappresentanti dei unzionalisti conservatori giustamente osservano che l'Italia e' stata sacrificata in parecchie vitali questioni. I socialisti osservano che i delicati e complessi problemi riguardanti la legislazione operaia molte questioni di emigrazione e dei varii mercati di mano d'opera non sono stati regolari con serenita' e disinteresse, a che sono state imposte condizioni non del utto accettabili alle nazioni che hanno scarsezza di capitale ed esuberanza di mano d'opera, come si verifica nel caso dell'Italia.

Staatburg and Peter Clash OR a moment I stood dazed and nonplused. I had seen Stantburg (alias Stevenson) at the Buffalo rail way station get into the hotel bus with his small brown leather handbag. got to the International Hotel by taxi just ahead of the bus-and in that brief trip Stevenson had vanished.

I quickly gathered my wits and hurried to the street. The driver of the bus was passing out the last lot of bag-gage. Carefully I noted it all, but no leather bag of the peculiar shape of Stevenson's. His bag had vanished with

Going to the driver I asked casually "Where did you drop my friend?clean-shaven, middle-aged man, got a big nose and a scar on his cheek. The driver looked sulkily at me and

"I ain't seen nebody not like that. It takes all my time to drive without watchin' who gets in or out."

"What hotels do you pass on your from the station?"

We go past the Harrod House, but we don't take nobody 'cept they come here. This is a private hotel bus!" He turned away after this speech and began wiping the windshield of the bus.

It was a drizzling night, which made It difficult to see far ahead.

As his answers were so unsatisfactory, I next approached the baggage man who rides on the bus. To my query about Stevenson he scratched his head and remarked:

"Say, mister, dang it all, that's got me goin' for fair. I remember him-he's got a big beak, hadn't he?—yep. he's got a big beak, hadn't he?—yep.

against Stevenson, I tramped along "9 Ideal Vacations" Frontier street with head well down, the better to meet the drizzle and the wind. In a few minutes I came to the Harrod House and casually entered. The big, old-fashioned lobby was almost descrted. A few traveling saiesmen were sitting at the writing table, or else swapping yarns by the big cheering log fire. No sign of Stevenson, though.

I was about to leave to try my luck elsewhere, when, hauging on the hat rack at the entrance to the dining room, Frontier street with head well down, the

His lips were fixed in a smile, any one seeing him from a distance would think he was amused, but I saw a look of such venmous suspicion in his eyes that I felt chill of apprehension creep over me I was not eased when he sneered : "You are clumsy, my friend; you should have stayed at the International ach, how his drivers do talk!"

I promptly went to the desk and swung the register around. The last name on the register was Stetson. As no Stevenson had registered, I concluded he preferred to use this new name—but why—if his purpose was legitimate!
