PAT MORAN EXPECTS TO TERRORIZE NEW YORK WHEN HE LEADS HIS REDS AT POLO GROUNDS

MORAN FACES TEST— 6 GAMES IN 3 DAYS AGAINST THE GIANTS

Reds on Final Eastern Trip Open Crucial Series at Polo Grounds on Wednesday—Cincinnati Also Plays Two Double-Headers Here With Phils frantic fish in wild and woodly Cincinnati will get a real line on the pennant done in the National League and learn whether or not Garry Herrmann will be host in a world's series curnival this fall. The manlers from over the Rhine will try to spread disaster throughout the East, and if such proves to be the case Redland can stage a premature celebration, for the pennant then will be as good as wan. This eastern trip, which begins in New York the day after tomorrow, will be one of those well-known erneial things we hear so much about. It also is the final tour of the year, and if Moran gets better thun an even break he should breeze through the remaining battles which will be played on the home lot.

But this invasion is not a cinch by any means. A lot of extra work must be done and the pitchers will have the lion's share of it. Three doubleheaders in a row face them in New York and, believe us, they will be SOME games. The goods from Gothum are all het up over the alleged treatment handed to their favorites in Cincinnati and will try to retaliate with interest. The Redland fans hand done the raw-berry to Jawn McGraw and his hired men in such expert fastion that the peppers manager didn't know whether he was playing baseball or shooting ducks. The players, too, took long journeys up in the air and that is supposed to be the cause of the burn showing. These six games should be highly exciting and no pleasant words will be wasted on either side.

After leaving N'Yawk Patrick Joseph Moran will play-off a couple of single dates in Brooklyn and then come here to play double-headers on August 23 and the 25. That means five double bills on this trip, in addition to the regular schedule.

The Cincinnati pitchers are going good and there is little likelihood of any hard luck. Mr. Moran knows how to handle his peggers, and now has Reuther, Luque, Ring. Sallee and Eller among the first nine star performers in the league. In addition, he soon will be able to use Rube Bressler, who was forced to play left field until Sherry Magee recovered. Therefore, Pat has a fairly good chance to go home with more victories than

IF IT is a close vace, look out for Pat - He is one of the best finishers in the country and obscurs is soing strong at the end. He had to fight for the pennant in 1915 and in '16 and '17 had his club in second place. It now looks as if the Ginnts have cracked, and the dark horse in the league seems to be the erconstructed Cubs. Keep your

American League Stands Back of Johnson

THE New York Yankees have stepped into a lot of trouble and the Mays injunction is likely to sonk them with reverse English. The pair of Colonels-Ruppert and Houston-have thrown down the gauntlet to Ban lohnson, told him to jump in the lake or words to that effect, ignored him s president of the league and virtually seconded from the organization. They have branded Johnson a figurehead and ruthless war has been declared.

M Johnson loses out in this case he might as well pack up and beat it. His power will have been broken and a new head of the American League elected. There will be trouble galore, and the once smooth sailing organization will go on the rocks. However, Ban has not started as yet. He is lying back and watching developments. The New Yorkers called a meeting for today and only two outsiders-Frazer and Comiskey-will attend, That we how the colonels stand before any action is taken. The league is against them, five to three,

New York cannot expect to get away with that injunction stuff. Base ball will not stand for it, because a victory for the colonels would mean a revolution in the game. Disgrantled players could leave tail-end teams any old time they cared to and hide behind an injunction if traded or sold to a pennant contender. The big leagues would be a joke. It looks to us as if New York and Boston bit off more than they can chew. Ban Johnson has all of the aces up his sleeve and when he gets through there might be some new owners in the league. Ban knows how to handle insurgents.

It will be noticed that the old guard has lined up solidly behind the president. St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia and Washington have if it comes to a showdown. The Old Roman is attending the meeting to and out what it is all about and he is too wise a bird to be hornswoggled by one-sided arguments.

EVERYTHING probably would have been settled by this time had. New York adopted different tactics. Johnson never has given the Yanks the worst of it: in fact, has done a lot to strengthen the club. A winner in Gatham would mean a lot to the league, but Ban cannot stand for the rough stuff.

Another New Face for Phils

GAVVY CRAVATH has put over another trade and in a day or so the eccentric Casey Stengel will appear before us as a regular member of the Phils. Gawge Whitted will be attached to Barney Dreyfuss's payroll and will be regarded as an alien the next time the Pirates pay us a visit.

This deal has been on the fire for more than two months. The Phils have been angling for Stengel because he is a good right-field hitter and a valuable man on the local lot. He also is fast, knows lots of baseball and will put lots of pep in the team. Whitted, too, is a high-class player, and neither side was cheated in the transaction.

Cravath is making good his promise to introduce new faces to the fans before the season. He has a pair in the infield in Blackburn and Paulette, a new catcher in Tragressor; Lee Mendows, a new pitcher, and now comes Casey Stengel. Casey has been sore at Pittsburgh all season. He wanted to be traded to some eastern club and did not play his best. At that, he is hitting .289, against .251 for Whitted, which shows Gavvy won the batting decision by 38 points.

This is not the end of the trading season, so far as the Phils are concorned. If any good deals can be pulled which will benefit the club Cravath will put them through. Thus far he has not made a single mistake. The new men have made good, the club took on a new lease of life and instead of trailing along in the mud climbed out of last place and made a brilliant record on the road until Cipcipnati was reached.

WHEN the Phils come home to play a double-header with St. Louis on Wednesday they will receive a rousing scelcome. The home town boys will have their work out out for them as seven double bills will be played off this month. Pretty tough for our pitchers.

Charley White to Renew Acquaintances

CHARLEY WHITE, the Chicago lightweight, and his manager, Thomas Tongue-tied Walsh, will take a look at Champion Benny Leonard at the Phils' Park tonight, and the chances are a match will be arranged between the battlers in the near future. White is one of the few top-notch lightweights who never has met Leonard and is anxious to get a crack at the title. He boxed two decision bouts with Freddy Welsh, losing both, and now believes he is in shape to annex the crown. Charley is a left-hander and possesses a mighty wallop. He has toppled , er the majority of his opponents and thinks he can do the same to Leonard. He will meet Harry Pierce in one of the bouts tonight and will be through in time to get a ringside seat when Leonard goes on with Cline.

Benny probably will have his work cut out for him when he meets Patar Clibe. The Irish flash has been training faithfully here for two weeks and excellent condition.

"Cline told me that Leonard is not in for a pleasant evening." said Muzzay Taylor, the boy promoter. "He almost flopped the champion in that bout two years ago and believes he can do the same tonight. He has lots of confidence and that will help considerably.

CLINE will need confidence and everything else when he mingled with the champion. He is not as elever as two years ago and Leonard us imperced. Paley is in for a drubbing, despite his optimism.

GREATEST OUTPUT OF TALENT IN GOLF AND TENNIS THIS SEASON

Finest Cluster of Stars That Ever Battled for Amateur Championships Will Compete Over Course at Oakmont and on Courts at Forest Hills This Month

> IN THE SPORTLIGHT—BY GRANTLAND RICE Copyright, 1919. All rights reserved

To Connie Mack

Well, let them race and bother, or let them fret and stew. Let them pile up their troubles, about what they shall do;

When some one blows a battle—when some one chucks a game— Let them bemoan their anguish or write amid their shame—

For your strain is over-for you the stress is done; What does it mean at twilight if you have lost or won?

Where John McGraw is peevish-where Pat Moran still raves, Where Bughey Jennings lashes his ever-toiling slaves-

With Kid the Gleason ranting, and Miller Huggins sore With Lee Fohl fretting daily onent the coming score-

Far from the rush and hurry—far from the maddening strife—You languish in your cellar—and lead the simple life—

For you the worst has happened amid the bally rout-For you it's just a schedule that has to be played out.

The Cluster of Talent ONE favorite prelude to any sporting event is to subtly suggest that each in turn is to be "the greatest one ever held."

Between now and September 1 this statement can stand for two cham-ionships—the golf meles at Oakmont and the lawn tennis carnival at Forest Hills.

Certainly the greatest output of all-star talent that ever battled for an amateur golf championship will open the preliminary whirl at Oakmont on Baturday—Evans, Ouimet, Travers, Gardner, Kirkby, Jones, Marston, Anderson, Whitney, Fownes, Byers-All the old stars and a raft of others, who have been bulging forward, and who are capable of beating even the elect at any given start.

With equal certainty there never has been a finer field than the one slated for the lawn tennis melee to begin two days after the golf crown is fixed—
Johnston, Williams, McLoughlin, Murray, Tilden, Richards, Griffiz, Kumagae—and the far-famed Australians, led by Brookes.

MATEUR sport will reach the height of its revelry and buoyancy A MATBUR sport with reach the height of its revery and outgancy between August 15 and 30, when each sport will put upon display the sole survivor who has faced a harder one than any golf or tennis champion ever had to face before.

Selling Players

A S LONG as the sale of major league players from one club to another is permitted after July 15, there always will be trouble, bickering, lusty squawking and continual uproar.

The one way to stop this is to formulate an iron-fringed rule that no such sale can be after mid-July, when leading clubs begin to start for the When star players are sold back and forth, pennant winning then becomes merely a matter of which happens to be the richest club.

No such rule will ever be passed, of course. For such a regulation might tap some one's pocketbook or infringe in a way upon the collection of more KID GLEASON needs more pitchers." Possibly. But there are times when it is better to have three good pitchers working twice a week than to have six good pitchers working once a week. There's no reason in the world why a pitcher shouldn't work fifty games a season. He needs between forty and fifty to maintain his effectiveness.

But how many do? Alexander, Johnson and one or two more, who, as a rule, are the best in the game. And this is one of the reasons why they
