

AMBLER HELD UNDER BAIL OF $5000

North Penn Bank Employee, Arraigned, Goes to Confront Michel and Gabell

CROWD IN HEARING ROOM

Even I. Ambler, assistant cashier of the North Penn Bank, charged with receiving deposits after he knew the bank was insolvent, was held in $5000 bail today for further hearing on September 5 by Magistrate Costello.

After his case was argued of Ambler went to City Hall to appear as a witness in the case of Louis A. Michel, president of the bank, and William T. Gabell, a director, who were arrested last week in connection with the bank crash.

Magistrate Costello's office at 1408 Frankford avenue was crowded when Ambler arrived. He was accompanied by Michael Saxe, his counsel, and another lawyer expected to arrive in a few days, would not countenance such a strike at this time.

An investment banker who gives more than usual attention to foreign exchange said yesterday that from information received financiers in Europe are not disturbed by the declines in sterling, lire or francs in our market.

The prevailing impression in brokers' offices in the afternoon yesterday was that there will be no steel strike. Some of the reasons given were the satisfaction of the workers with their already large wages, another was that Samuel Compers, who is now on the ocean on his way here from Europe, would be expected to arrive in a few days, would not countenance such a strike at this time.

Opinions on the question of a strike of the steel workers were divided in the financial district yesterday, but the subject seemed to be the principal topic which was being discussed. Many financiers said they still believed that Judge Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, would make a statement at an early date, defining the present attitude of the company's officials in regard to the strike, which would clear the air and give some much-needed information to the public.

Continuing the Iron Age says: "There has been a rapid resumption of blast furnace and steel works operations at Gary and South Chicago on the ending of the railroad shippers' strike, but the steel workers' decision in that district is a factor of uncertainty, in view of the special activities of union organizers there."

A broker also called attention to the discrepancy in the various reports about the percentage of non-voting for the strike. Some stated it as 75 per cent and some 90 per cent. But these figures are thought to be in error, inasmuch as they are certainly misleading to the public. They simply mean the percentage of union men voting and do not indicate what proportion of the total number of employees, both union and non-union.

As to the effect of the movement on the steel stocks, a well-known broker remarked that now was the time to buy such stocks, when the faint-hearted were throwing them overboard. He said he had always advocated the buying of stocks which were affected by a strike during the strike.

Another broker said that any movement in steel stocks depends entirely on the labor movement, and that is a condition which no one—not even steel workers themselves—can predicate. Personally, he believed steel stock prices have reached the bottom for a while.

The steps leading to the second floor had actually been issued reached Laforet last night at his home at Richard avenue and Market street.

Stuart Laforet, telephoned Detective Dobson at 8:20 o'clock this morning and made an appointment to call for him to meet his father at 10 o'clock at his lawyer's office.

Mr. Laforet refused to comment upon his arrest, or to say what course of action he intended to pursue. He appeared calm, apparently unworried and seemed to be at ease and not the least nervous.

Laforet arose early today. His wife was also up much earlier than usual. Laforet looked tired when he was seen on the veranda by neighbors when leaving the house.

Mrs. Laforet came out upon the veranda of her home at 6:30 o'clock and gathered up a morning newspaper. She added, she looked tired when he was seen on the veranda by neighbors when leaving the house.

Laforet Nervous After Ordeal. A woman late in the door opened and Mr. Laforet came out, followed by Laforet. Following his counsel, Laforet crossed the hall, looking neither to the right nor left. His step was halting, his hands shook and beads of sweat clustered on his face.

Detective Dobson admitted that he had not placed Laforet under arrest in the private office of the magistrate. The arrest was made in the open court.

GOSSIP OF THE STREET BROKERS DISCUSS OUTLOOK IN THE STEEL INDUSTRY

Not Believed That Leaders of Labor Would Countenance Strike at This Time—Gossip of the Street

WITH a most uninteresting stock market, which showed signs of improvement during the last hour, brokers yesterday devoted a good deal of their time to a discussion of the steel outlook and the threatened strike.

In the course of one of these discussions a well-known banker recited the method taken by the Columbia Graphophone Company, of Bridgeport, Conn. This company, he said, employs about 6000 workers—the largest number employed by any other single plant in Bridgeport. Up till recently, he said, they had no complaints from their workers, but organizers got in and organized the workers. Then there was a strike, and the demands were an increase of 25 per cent in wages, an eight-hour day and recognition of the union.

The company, he said, granted 12 per cent increase and the eight-hour day, but refused recognition of the union, and several notices on the people of Bridgeport that as they found it would be cheaper to move their plant from Bridgeport than pay any more increases of wages they had decided to do so.

Then followed meetings by banks and the Chamber of Commerce and other municipal bodies to retain such an important industry which was distributing such a payroll, but this banker said, so far as he knows, they will move elsewhere.

The prevailing impression in brokers' offices in the afternoon yesterday was that there will be no steel strike. Some of the reasons given were the satisfaction of the workers with their already large wages, another was that Samuel Compers, who is now on the ocean on his way here from Europe, would be expected to arrive in a few days, would not countenance such a strike at this time.

WORLD OF BUSINESS IN WHICH THE FORMER BANKING COMMISSIONER IS ENGAGED IN YORK

Laforet is an officer in the York Telephone and Telegraph Company, and is treasurer of the York Card and Paper Company, said to be the largest wall-paper manufacturing company in the United States, if not in the world.

Laforet is the president of the institution, which is capitalized at $250,000. Laforet is fifty-eight years old, slightly bald, stands five feet nine inches, wears a tawny gray mustache and weighs 175 pounds. He made a fortune out of his share of the West Candy Company, of York, now the American Caramel Company, capitalized at $2,000,000, in which Laforet is believed to still have a small share. Most of his holdings, he has, it is said, been obliged to sacrifice from time to time.

Rumors of Friendship. Mrs. Herzog, the woman named in the affidavit, conducts a store at 2224 North Twenty-ninth street, Ambler lives at 2325 West Cumberland street. Rumors of Ambler's friendship with Mrs. Herzog to the extent of favoring her at the bank have been prevalent in the neighborhood ever since the failure on July 18. Efforts at various times to verify the rumors were fruitless. The authorities refused to comment on the case.

Mrs. Herzog denied receiving the three $2000 cashier's checks from Ambler, as stated in the affidavit. She said she had $1500 on deposit in the North Penn. said Mrs. Herzog, "and $800 of that was deposited four days before the bank was closed. I didn't draw out a cent of my money. It is still in the bank."

She refused to discuss Ambler and said she knew nothing of his arrest. When informed of his indictment by the grand jury Casler Meyer said the indictment was only to be expected. When asked what he had to say about the warrant for Laforet's arrest he smiled broadly and said:

"I have never turned hard to elect Moore as Mayor." He took the occasion to emphatically deny that he contemplated becoming a state's witness against others involved by the bank smash, as has been reported.

Seek 2 U. S. Fliers Lost Near Border

The American punitive expedition against Mexican bandits who held Lieutenant Harold G. Peterson and Paul H. Davis, army aviators, was making progress today, according to advices from the field. Reports that the United States forces would be withdrawn at once were denied officially.

No definite time has been fixed for the withdrawal, but it is understood that the plan is to complete the search for another week's search through the mountains for the Renteria band.

Mules Fall Over Cliffs. The American troops camped last night at a place where there was plenty of water. The soldiers scouted the surrounding country throughout the day in separate detachments, but concentrated at the camp at dark. The trails are so rocky and steep that pack mules carrying supplies fell over cliffs and several were lost. A number of horses of Major C. C. Smith's command also fell off the trail, but none of the fliers was injured.

The storm soaked the blankets and uniforms of the men, causing many to sleep in wet clothes last night. Five bandits are known to have been killed by the Americans so far, with a possibility of a sixth, a bandit having been seen to fall from his horse when aviators returned their fire.

It developed that the two prisoners reported captured by Captain Matlack and his men were killed at the blockhouse fight on Wednesday.

The American Red Cross sent an automobile load of cigarettes, chewing gum and tobacco to the river for loading on pack mules en route to the punitive expedition. Aviators loaded planes with the same articles to take to the cavalry today.

Saving Life, Not Ransom. If Captain Leonard M. Matlack had not snatched his horse, carrying Lieutenant Davis on behind and made a dash for the border last Tuesday morning, when the ransom was paid, he and his men would have been killed.

Davis probably would have been killed by the Mexican bandits. This developed last night when Captain Matlack snatched his horse and made a dash for the border last Tuesday morning, when the ransom was paid, he and his men would have been killed.

Captain Matlack said that, while waiting for Jesus Renteria to bring Davis to the appointed place for the exchange of the ransom from the prisoner, he saw two Mexicans slipping through a corn field and overheard one bandit say in Spanish to the other: "We will slip around between him (Matlack) and the river and kill him."

Different Phase on Case. After hearing Captain Matlack's version of why his full ransom was not paid, General Dickman who arranged in San Antonio that he would insist the full amount demanded be paid, said: "I still think the money should have been paid in full, because the government is too big to break its word with any one. But Captain Matlack's story puts an entirely different phase on the matter and I have telegraphed a modified statement tonight."

Captain Matlack said that he had no idea the United States Government had authorized the payment of $15,000. He thought the ransom had been paid the money as a matter of sentiment in order to save the aviators' lives. He saw a chance to save almost half of the money and took it.

General Dickman last night denied that he intended to order the troops out of Mexico at once.
