3 SEPTEMBER MORNS RUSH SEASON HERE

Water Nymphs Appear in League Island Park in August and Minus Raiment

But the three September Morning maids were a trifle premature. They came out in August and used the dimpled pool in the dusktime. The watchman at League Island Park spied them, like the nymphs of a better day, splashing about in the limpid shallows of the pond on the west side of Broad street.

Keeping a respectable distance, the watchman shooed them away, but they wouldn't shoo.

"We can't go in deeper," wailed one of the water maids, her fair head, like the other two, just peeping over the surface of the water, "because it's over our head and hands and we can't swim—none of us. And we can't come out till you go far away."
Well, the watchman went far away. And the maids gained the shore and their clothes.

But the watchman went too far away. When he returned there was only the pond remaining.

MISS AURORA SEEN HERE

Queen of Northern Lights Visible in Sky Last Night

Miss Aurora Borealis, queen of the northern lights, was visible in the sky last night.
For some reason she strolled further south than usual and observant persons saw the glow of her many-colored skirts.

Aurora Borealis, scientists say, is due to some sort of electrical or magnetic disturbance. The lights occur only at night, and are best seen in the arctic region. There the lights assume a fan-shape form, the lights radiating out from the center, or aurora glory, sometimes in rich color. Sometimes the rays quiver in restless movement. They are then called "merry dancers."

NO SUNDAY SPORTS ARRESTS

Sabbatharians Take No Action on Park Games

No arrests will be made today by agents of the Philadelphia Sabbath Association, who gathered evidence in Fairmount Park yesterday for the purpose of invoking the blue laws.

The association contends that sports in the park on Sunday is in violation of the law, but Judge Staake recently handed down a decision upholding Sunday sports. He pointed out that the law of 1794 could only be enforced if participants in sports disturbed the peace.

Park guards say no disorder of any kind was brought to their attention.

CHILD DROWNED IN TUB

19-Month-Old Boy Found Dead by Neighbor

Joseph Connelly, Jr., nineteen months old, of 4240 Frankford street, was drowned last night when he fell head first into a tub of water in the backyard of his home.

Mrs. Connelly, the child's mother, was upstairs at the time with a week-old baby, while Mr. Connelly had gone to take a short nap about fifteen minutes before the accident.
The father was awakened by a neighbor, Mrs. Rosanna Dallas, of 4235 Orchard street, who upon going to visit the Connelly, was horrified upon discovering the body of the lifeless child when she entered the yard.

WESCOTT TO FOLLOW PRECEPTS OF WILSON

Democratic Mayoralty Aspirant Names Policy of "Efficiency and Honesty"

SEES "ULTIMATE TRIUMPH"

Harry S. Westcott, who seeks the Democratic mayoralty nomination with the support of the Democratic city committee, announces what he would do if elected.

Mr. Westcott says he will follow the precepts of President Wilson in laying down a policy of "efficiency and honesty" in the mayoralty chair.

His statement follows:
"The Democratic party, adhering to the principle of equal rights for all and special privileges for none, has endured the onslaughts of designing men for 127 years and will ultimately triumph in Philadelphia."

"The application of this principle is dependent upon the agency of men. The greatest agency of democracy is Woodrow Wilson. Guided by his deeds, purposes and moral leadership we present ourselves to the citizens of Philadelphia as the exponents of a government by the people, and we challenge the corrupt organizations who are tearing at each others throats so that the survivor may have the 'political' privilege of preying upon the taxpayers."
"Efficiency and honesty shall be exacted from every person whom I might appoint or designate to any office or commission if I am elected Mayor."
"Just compensation shall be given to every employe of the city and requirement of the fullest measure of honest service from those employed in any capacity in every department shall be exacted."

"My endorsement of the policy of organized labor is not necessary, as it is well known that I have been actively associated with its progress toward better citizenship for the last twenty-three years."
"Every provision contained in the act of Assembly creating a new charter for the better government of Philadelphia shall be strictly observed."
"The policemen and firemen, to whom the peace and safety of the city is confided, shall receive my special consideration. Fair compensation, just working regulations and no discrimination shall be my rule in these departments. They shall be politically unfettered."
"For the development of the health and comfort of the citizens, prosecution of all public work, consistent with sound business judgment, is imperative."
"Every agency at my command shall be employed to reduce the high cost of living, and the annihilation of the profiteer, whether this pernicious evil touches the necessities of life or those of our citizens who can only obtain a home by the payment of rent."
"My enthusiastic attention will be in an endeavor to develop our port and obtain a higher efficiency from public utilities."

"I pledge myself to the abolition of that despicable propaganda called 'politics,' and will substitute for the practices of today honest statements."

U-BOAT SANK CYCLOPS, SAYS NOTE IN BOTTLE

Navy Department Gets Message Giving Location of Vessel at Time—Believed Authentic

The collier Cyclops, whose disappearance without leaving a clue proved one of the great mysteries of the war, was sunk by a German U-boat off the Gulf of Mexico, if the message in a whiskey bottle floating off the Florida coast is authentic.
The message, which tells the fate of the vessel and its crew, was picked up by two fishermen, and is now in the hands of the Navy Department.
"Cyclops sunk by German submarine," reads the graphic note. "We are in a lifeboat in a heavy sea. Storm raging and we cannot last. Good-by."
The latitude and longitude are also given.

Although several such messages have been discovered since the disappearance of the Cyclops, none has had the apparent authenticity of this one. An investigation by the authorities showed that the spot determined by the latitude and longitude of the message lay within the course of the collier and the line referring to a heavy storm is borne out by conditions known to have existed at that time.

Several Philadelphia sailors were aboard the Cyclops at the time it disappeared.

ST. SWITHIN COMES BACK; MAKES FINAL SCORE 21-19

Weatherman Takes Series of Forty Days, but Has Close Call. Captures Last Game by Easy Margin

THE FINAL SCORE

Weatherman 21
St. Swithin 19

Trot out your slickers, umbrellas and hip boots today.
And don't forget your lanterns.
St. Swithin is "sore" because he lost his forty-day series with the weatherman yesterday, and is taking it out on the citizenry today with excessive rain and darkness.

For a time this morning the darkness was such that lights were turned on in homes, office buildings and street cars.

The sudden demand on the electric supply resulted in dimming the lights. This was overcome when the extra pressure was met by the power plants. The weather man isn't certain just how long the rain will last. It depends on how "sore" St. Swithin is. The rain, according to scientific observations early today, looked as if it would stay in the vicinity of Harrisburg at least until

TWO WILLS WRITTEN AS NOTES PROBATED

Women Dispose of Property in Documents Drawn in Long-hand—Charities Benefit

Among the wills probated today were those of two women, who had written the documents in long hand on note paper.

The will of Mary A. Treacy, who died in St. Louis, is dated November 5, 1915, and leaves her property, valued at $1310, to her mother, Anastasia Treacy, of 4245 Leidy avenue, to use as she sees fit. She excepts $250 which is to go to St. Charles Seminary, Overbrook, "for masses to be said for my brothers, Will, Thomas, Arthur and mother, and $50 for masses for myself and $50 for masses for my father and sister."

At her mother's death, $700 is to go to nieces and nephews for musical education and the remaining $300 of the $1000 is to go to the home in Philadelphia for blind children. The other $1000 is to go to any of my nieces or nephews, if called to the religious state. If not, I want it given to some poor Catholic church just starting, or to St. Edward's in St. Louis, or used for a bed in some hospital in Philadelphia.

A note addressed "For Miss Sarah Falconer" was probated as the will of Sarah Collins, of 4702 Viola street. The note asks Miss Falconer to see that the funeral expenses are paid. A $2000 bequest is to be divided among the two brothers and three sisters of Miss Collins, "according to previous arrangements."

Other wills probated today included: James Mugford, 6027 Sanson street, $49,000; John C. Guether, of Parkland, $14,500; William H. Aquino, 7131 Germantown avenue, $9800; Jacob Mills, 102 West Wymour avenue, $9500; Michael Maher, who died at the Presbyterian Hospital, $4708; John A. Kauch, 3008 Fontaine street, $3000.
Letters of administration of estates filed included that of Morris Seltzer, 2201 West Lehigh avenue, whose estate is valued at $40,000. It is left to his widow and daughter.

Three Men Held After Victims Go to Hospital

Suffering from gunshot wounds, two men are now in the Samaritan Hospital as a result of a shooting affray which took place at Nineteenth street and Indiana avenue.

APHASIA VICTIM SAYS SHE LIVES IN CAMDEN

The young woman found wandering aimlessly in the woods near Catskill, N. Y., today said she was Josephine O'Byrne, of Camden and Cape May, N. J.

In a rambling story she first said she was the wife of a Philadelphia banker, later that she had run away from a man in Cape May who was in love with her, and finally that she was employed as a maid by a family named Earnest in Camden.

While the authorities are inclined to believe the last statement is correct, she is being held for observation in the hospital here.

SALES OF REALTY UP 1000 PER CENT

Vast Increase Reported for Last Three Years—Title Companies Swamped

$10,000,000 DURING JULY

Real estate sales have increased 1000 per cent in Philadelphia during the last three years.

Real estate transactions aggregating $10,000,000 were made here during July, according to an estimate made by the office of the recorder of deeds. During that month, 15,000 instruments alone, the largest number of which were for the conveyance of real estate, were filed for record with that office. The number exceeds those filed in June by 400.

Settlements Increase
Title insurance companies, which do a large part of settlement work in the transfer of houses, are rushed with applications from persons purchasing real estate.

The settlement department of the Land Title and Trust Company received thirty such applications a day three years ago. Now 300 applications are being received daily.
Three years ago titles were searched, settlement certificates prepared, and entire transactions concluded within a ten-day period. Today, because of the 1000 per cent increase in their business, the title companies require from nine to thirteen weeks for the same service.

Ten Thousand in Month
Since last October, the Real Estate Title Insurance and Trust Company has handled more than 25,000 transfers of property. In the last two months alone, the Land Title and Trust Company has made about 4500 settlements.

It is estimated by officials connected with those companies and the Commonwealth Company that the three together are handling 10,000 settlements a month.

BRIGGS IN MOVIES TO ROUT GLOOM

"Grand and Glorious Feeling" Spread Among Arcadia Patrons Today by Artist GRINS WHILE HE WORKS

When you're all done up after a hard day's work:
And you know you've got to attend a business meeting of the Rise and Shine Literary Society:
And it's raining:
And you haven't any umbrella:
And your wife's smiling face fails to rouse you from your gloom:
And then you suddenly remember that the Rise and Shine meets on Wednesday and this is Monday:
And you haven't a thing to do but read the sports page of the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER:
And laugh with Briggs—
Oh, boy!
Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling?

It is. And why? Well, principally because Clare Briggs has the knack of getting your point of view. Oh, man! He knows you well.
And because everybody is interested in his pictures, everybody is interested in the man himself. It was realization of this fact that caused the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER to make arrangements for a screen reproduction of the artist and his work. At the Arcadia, this afternoon and evening, you may see Briggs at his desk. You may see him deftly wield his pencil and watch the funny pictures grow under his hand.
He's a human guy, is Briggs. There's a grin on his face as he slips his cigar from one corner of his mouth to the other, and the grin tells you that here is a man who loves his work—which, of course, is one of the reasons that it is good.

This Week You Can Make $100 Go as Far as $175 Next Week

Isn't that a saving worth while? If you have shopped around at all you know that good Furniture is scarce. Even some of the largest stores have been very short during their August Sales, when they aim to have extra stocks.

But the present scarcity is only a start. It is going to be much more acute from now on—so much so that it will not be a matter of price, but whether you can get it at all.

During the war the manufacturers were compelled, in order to take care of government demands, to cut down production to 35 per cent. of normal. Since the armistice, production has been kept at about 55 per cent. of normal by strikes, shortage of raw materials and scarcity of labor.

Demand during the war was 75 per cent. of normal. Since Peace Day it has been from 50 to 100 per cent. ABOVE normal. The factories haven't any stocks on hand, and their production is sold away into next year. What surplus remained from before the war and all store stocks have been completely cleaned out. There isn't anything left.

The Linde August Sale

Today Entering Upon Its Last Week

has the goods to supply all your demands at the stupendous saving indicated above—$1.75 for every dollar you spend. Beginning next Monday morning you will have to pay these, and even greater, odds. This week is the last chance you have to make these savings. Don't fail to take advantage of this great opportunity.

Don't be caught like the folks who waited to buy real estate. You doubtless have friends who have had to pay from 25 to 50 per cent. advance during the past four months in order to get a house. Every day—every hour—costs are soaring, and so long as the demand keeps up, prices are bound to advance.

We have prepared for astounding values clear up to the end of August, and, thanks to our high standing with the leading furniture manufacturers of the country, WE HAVE THEM. It's your own fault if you do not take advantage of our offer.
