Are Playing This Week

TOWARD the close of summer the children begin to realize that September brings with it the opening of the schools, and so they plan to get the most out of every hour between now and that time.

Permitting the children to entertain soon establishes nice manners and a form of social training that will help them make friends, for every mother knows that to give a party to one's playmates is the pet ambition of every small child. But many mothers hesitate to give the children a party because they feel that it means providing an expensive

How to Prepare for a Children's Party

Have some of the older girls help to arrange the games and, if the day is clear, let them have their fun on the lawn or in the yard. About one hour after the children have commenced their games fetch in a cotton or large Jack Horner pie and set it on the ground. Have a little card with the name of each child on it. Tie to this card a piece of string about two yards long and gather all the strings together in an even
