COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Many Institutions of Learning in State Offer Inducements to Give Them Chance for Broader Education

Easy entrance examinations, scholarships and various other inducements are being offered former service men by the colleges and universities of the state to give them a chance for the broader education they are seeking since their visions were widened in fighting for a new democracy.

While no reduction in entrance fees and no special scholarships have been offered former service men by the University of Pennsylvania, that institution has made arrangements whereby former soldiers and sailors, honorably discharged after at least three months' service, may enter on a different basis from others.

"We have formed new rules for 'war specials,'" explained George A. Nitsche, university registrar, "which provides for a special intelligence examination to be given former service men who cannot answer the usual entrance requirements. We will also give consideration to business credentials or training that may have bearing on subjects or courses of instruction to be taken."

Scholarships Offered Temple University is offering twenty scholarships to former soldiers and sailors. The scholarships valued at $75 each. Swarthmore College has fifteen scholarships valued at $150 each.

ARCHBISHOP AT HOME OF SISTERS OF POOR

Institution, Fifty Years Old Today, Is Thrown Open to Many Friends

Little Sisters of the Poor are hostesses today at their home, Eighteenth and Jefferson streets, to the many friends of the institution, which is fifty years old.

The celebration will open with solemn high mass at 10 o'clock by Archbishop Dougherty. Later refreshments will be served to priests and guests and to the old folks. The home will be open all day to visitors.

This is the first function ever given at the home, which was established here fifty years ago. The community was organized eighty years ago in St. Servan, Brittany, by two French girls, Jane Jugan, a seamstress, and Marie Jamain, a washerwoman, who realized the need of providing a permanent home for indigent aged men and women of France.

Mr. Alessandrini, who is graduate at 122 South Fourth street, is a resident of Central High School and the University of Pennsylvania. He completed his law course at the University in 1906, and has since been an active practitioner. He is thirty-eight years old.

MAURER FEARS "PLANT"

Wants Public to Know in Advance If Trickery is Intended

Reading, Pa., Aug. 29.—(By A. P.) "I absolve myself of all responsibility for my baggage and what is found in it," said James H. Maurer, chairman of the Old Age Pension Commission of Pennsylvania, who was taken off a steamer sailing for Europe last Tuesday by federal agents.

Maurer returned home late last night from Harrisburg. "My last letter to an I. W. W. man was to 'Big Bill' Haywood five years ago," he said.

He fears some one will "plant" something in his baggage, now half-way across the Atlantic.

COL. CLAY REMOVED AS HEAD OF ARSENAL

Fortunes of Peace Reduce Popular Commandant at Frankford to Major's Rank

WORKERS PROTEST IN VAIN

Lieutenant Colonel Wallace L. Clay, commandant of the Frankford Arsenal, will be removed from his post as head of that station next Tuesday, by orders from the War Department.

Lieutenant Colonel P. J. O'Shaughnessy, who has been administrative officer at Frankford for several years, leaves the army September 1, under the ruling on reserve officers. He will enter a private business.

Removal of Lieutenant Colonel Clay from his present command is made necessary by the army reorganization bill, now pending in Congress. This measure provides that all army officers of temporary rank must return to their old status. Lieutenant Colonel Clay was advanced temporarily from the rank of major on January 18, 1919, and as a major he could not retain his present command.

More than 2000 workers at the Arsenal have sent a petition to the War Department asking that Colonel Clay be retained, but statements from Washington say this request cannot be granted. He will probably be named an administrative officer or head of the small arms department at the plant.

Lieutenant Colonel Clay, while stationed at the arsenal in 1916, invented one of the most powerful bullets used during the war. This projectile, when fired from an ordinary rifle, will penetrate three feet of armor plate and armor plate and kill any one behind it.
