

PATTERSON SPEAKS IN ACKER'S WARD

Judge Gets Good Reception, but Coroner Attacks Charter Candidate Helped to Frame

RECEPTION HELD FOR DAVIS

Thirty-eight ward voters gave Judge Patterson, organization candidate for the majority, an enthusiastic reception last night when he visited the stronghold of A. Lincoln Acker.

The demonstration, which was staged as a reception to Harry A. Davis, the baseball player, who is one of the organization candidates for Council in the Sixth district, was preceded by an automobile tour of the ward with plenty of red fire and a band.

Judge Patterson addressed two audiences. One was in Toga Hall, Twenty-ninth and Toga streets, where the main meeting was held.

The other was an overflow meeting outside the hall. Between 600 and 800 persons heard the judge declare that he wants the votes of "Americans only."

Knights Attacks Charter Coroner Knight sounded the only jarring note of the meeting. He had just finished attacking the new charter as "hostile to the taxpayers" when Judge Patterson entered the hall.

Judge Patterson declared that the new charter was "now the law" and pledged himself to carry out its provisions.

The judge said the people wanted "action and not talk," and announced that he already had written to the chairman of Council's finance committee for data concerning immediate work on the Delaware river bridge, new sewers and other needed improvements.

Opponents Are Desperate Judge Patterson said his opponents were getting "desperate" in their attacks upon his candidacy.

Other speakers included Daniel F. Wade, candidate for sheriff; Leonard Deeds Hazlett, Captain Merrill A. Taggart, of the Third Division; Harry Davis and Charles Grakelov.

RECV. DR. MURDOCK NAMED Succeeds the Rev. Dr. Bickley in Methodist Campaign Here

The Rev. Dr. L. C. Murdock, of the Wyoming Conference, has been appointed Philadelphia area secretary of the centenary missionary campaign to succeed the Rev. Dr. George H. Bickley, who has been directing the campaign in the Philadelphia, New Jersey, Wyoming and Delaware Conferences since the campaign began.

Early in June Doctor Bickley, who continued his duties as district superintendent while the campaign was in progress, requested the joint centenary committee to relieve him by July 15.

Doctor Murdock, who begins his new duties today, has been successful as pastor of several large Methodist churches and as district superintendent.

LOOKS LIKE CITY PAY ROLL—M'CAIN

Continued From Page One sent only one councilman to the new body.

Isaac D. Hetzell, 322 Richmond street, Eighteenth ward, is the organization candidate. He has been prominent in municipal politics for many years as a member of Council. He is one of the most active members of the select branch, and by virtue of his experience is a member of its most important committees.

While allied with the regular organization, he is disposed to be independent at times. He never held any other important public office. He is looked upon as one of the representatives of and closely allied with the Philadelphia Electric Company. He is a contractor and past sixty years of age.

West Philadelphia District The Fourth Senatorial district embraces four of West Philadelphia and elects four new councilmen.

John F. Dugan, 115 South Thirty-third street, Twenty-seventh ward, is a real estate assessor and has been the right-hand man of Senator Edward W. Patton, the ward leader, for years. Mr. Dugan has held minor positions in City Hall and is at present a dual officeholder, being Select Councilman from the Twenty-seventh ward and a real estate assessor. He takes orders persistently and is a thoroughly practical politician.

David G. Frankenthal, 322 North Fifty-second street, Forty-fourth ward, is the leader of the Forty-fourth ward, and a member of Select Council. He is an undertaker and a well-known business man of his district. He has never held any other office than councilman. He is about sixty years of age and is favorably spoken of.

H. Edgar Barnes, 4014 Spruce street, Forty-sixth ward, is the personal secretary of Harry A. Mackey, one of the oldest lieutenants of Senator Vare and leader of the Forty-sixth ward. He is one of the two men on the Vare ticket who are not job holders. Mr. Barnes was a member of Common Council for one term, being defeated for re-election.

He is an instructor in the University Law School and is of a higher grade than the average run of candidates. Dr. W. W. Weaver, of 6105 Woodland avenue, Fortieth ward, is a physician and member of Common Council. He is a man of about fifty years of age and something of a political wit.

In the Fifth District two members of Council will be elected. Edward Buchholz, 1031 North Sixth, Nineteenth ward, is the personal choice of Senator David Martin. Mr. Buchholz and his family have been in office for years; officeholding has become chronic with him. He is a Select Councilman at present and also a real estate assessor, while his two sons have minor positions in City Hall. He has been the right-hand man of Senator Martin for years and is not recorded as having any other business that than of real estate assessor. There is permanent objection among precinct workers of the Nineteenth ward because they say Senator Martin is always pushing Mr. Buchholz to the front and ignoring able men.

Simon Walter, 1501 North Seventh street, Twentieth ward, is a Common Councilman. He has a large Jewish following in his ward and is the personal selection of David H. Lane for leader of the Twentieth ward. He is naturally regarded as the representative in Council of the United Gas Improvement Company and the Philadelphia Electric Company. He is a paper dealer, about forty-five years old and has got no other office. While he takes orders, he accepts them from nobody but Mr. Lane.

Three members of Council will come down to City Hall from the Sixth Senatorial district. Harry H. Davis, 3530 North Twenty-third street, Thirty-eighth ward, famous as an old-time baseball star, and until within the last few months an independent and a follower of A. Lincoln Acker, has been adopted by the Vare organization. Mr. Davis got "peevish" because Mr. Acker didn't slate him for Council. He is now under the personal direction and tutelage of William Benham, deputy recorder of deeds, and Frank Paul, coroner's detective, who are the Vare leaders of the Thirty-eighth ward.

Sees Fight on Davis There is considerable feeling over the defection of Mr. Davis among his former friends, and it is said that a bitter fight will be the result. Mr. Davis is a member of Common Council, about forty-two years of age, and is engaged in the scrap iron business.

Pringle Borthwick, 8108 Germantown avenue, Twenty-second ward, is another member of Common Council. He has been a member for years. Mr. Borthwick is the most ardent apologist for the organization and the Vares in Council. He is about fifty years of age, a contractor, and was selected because of his fidelity to the Vare cause.

There is said to be uncertainty about the third member of this delegation, but William T. Weir, Jr., 1307 Rockland street, Forty-second ward, who seems to have the call, enjoys the distinction of being one of the two lonely non-job-holding Vare candidates.

He was a member of the Legislature four years ago, became disgusted with the political game after that experience and decided to abandon it for good. He is a well-known business man, operating a chain of candy stores in the city, and was finally induced by the Vare people to enter the contest for Council. Those who know him say that he is one of the best selections on the Vare ticket.

From the Seventh Senatorial district will come three members of Council. Joseph B. Fay, 2920 West Susquehanna avenue, Thirty-second ward, and the leader of that ward, has been slated as one of them. Mr. Fay is at present assistant director of public health. He was formerly in the office of sealer of weights and measures, is an old-line politician, about sixty years of age and a Fire Department pensioner. He was one of the late Israel W. Durham's lieutenants, but is now a dyed-in-the-wool Vare man.

The Smith Family William Bond Smith, 1041 Master street, Forty-seventh ward, is a comparatively young man of thirty-three, an officeholder and the son of an officeholder. Young Mr. Smith is employed in the State Department of Labor and Industry and is the son of Peter E. Smith, ward leader and deputy tax collector. He at one time conducted business for his father, who is a contractor. "Orders from the Vares" might well be the motto of the Smith family, says the Forty-seventh ward independent.

Patrick Conner, 238 Oxford street, Twenty-ninth ward, is understood to be the third man slated in the Seventh district. He was a member of the Legislature for three terms up until 1917, as a McNichol man. In the scrap over Mayor Smith he went over to the Vares, and was controlled subsequently by them. He is the leader of the Twenty-ninth ward, is a well-driller by occupation, and past fifty years of age.

The Eighth senatorial district has developed quite a fracas over the choice of its three members of Council. James A. Dunn, 5131 Milnor street, Twenty-third ward, has the backing of Congressman Peter E. Costello, who is fighting one, if not two, of the other candidates. Mr. Dunn is said to be the unique officeholder of the Vare outfit. Nominally he holds a job in the tax office, resigning when elected to the Legislature each time since 1913. After his election he is reappointed to the adjournment and thus works the merry-go-round in a job-holding sense. While waiting for his old place in the tax office, Mr. Dunn is now taking a "flier" for the new $5000 position as councilman.

Costello in Fight Meanwhile Congressman Costello is fighting F. J. Swartz, who is Coroner Knight's man, and there is a regular Kilkenny affair on, with Costello also trying to land an appointment on Clarence K. Crossan, another candidate and leader of the Thirty-fifth ward.

J. J. McKinley, Jr., 2803 North Second street, Thirty-third ward, is a ward leader and contractor. He is another head on the Vare string of select Councilmen picked for the new small Council. He was formerly a McNichol man, but was won over by the Vares and made a ward leader.

Then there is William T. Scargle, 516 Erie avenue, Forty-third ward, and Frederick J. Schwarz, 4533 Edgemont street, Forty-fifth ward, who are candidates among the "also ran." The situation with regard to these gentlemen, and incidentally also Mr. Crossan, is so complicated that it is difficult to understand properly. They had better fight it out.

Meanwhile there are large indications that the Vare combination, as the result of this fight, will get pretty badly bumped unless a peacemaker appears.

POLITICIANS MOURN "HOXSIE" GODWIN

He Was Nominal Leader of Ninth Ward by Virtue of Personal Popularity

News of the death of S. Hoxsie Godwin today cast a shadow of gloom on the political field in both factions in the Republican majority contest.

"Hoxsie," known within his native Ninth ward by every man, woman and child, died yesterday after an illness of more than two years. He was sixty-three years old.

While never "officially" regarded as leader of the Ninth ward, "Hoxsie's" popularity and personal influence frequently swung a majority where the "big fellows" were unable to control the votes of its residents.

About the northeast corner of Eleventh and Chestnut streets, Mr. Godwin was a "landmark." Mr. Godwin was a daily visitor to the clubhouse. No entertainment was complete without the presence of "Hoxsie" at the piano. He was a talented musician and entertainer.

Mr. Godwin formerly lived at 1108 Girard street, which at one time housed some of the city's most prominent families. Later he made his home at the Bingham Hotel.

He had been attached to the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries. Godwin entered the Ninth ward committee in 1878 during the famous struggle between the forces of William A. Leeds and James McManes, known as the "Black Hats" and the "White Hats."

In 1886 he was named to a position in the Department of Internal Affairs and in 1890 Sheriff Council appointed him examination clerk. Sheriff Clement, a Ninth ward resident, retained him, but when Alexander Crow succeeded, Godwin was placed in the delinquent tax office. He went back to the sheriff's office in 1901 as clerk to Hartman, where he remained until 1903.

U. S. FLOUR GOES BEGGING

Product Marketed by Barnes Falls to Sell in Kansas

Kansas City, Sept. 2.—No flour has been sold thus far to domestic buyers by the Kansas City office of the United States Grain Corporation.

Only a few inquiries have been made, but as the government agency will not submit samples and the flour is not of a desirable grade for domestic trade, buyers are not keen to do business with the grain corporation. In fact, flour millers in the Southwest are selling straight and even better grades of flour at a lower figure than the price quoted by the government agency.

WOMAN A CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL DIRECTOR

Mrs. Henry J. Gibbons on Republican Ticket in Lower Merion

Demotion of Miss Sarah Fite as principal of the Bala school brought school matters to a crisis in Lower Merion township, according to the women of that community, and they have endorsed Mrs. Henry J. Gibbons, of 330 Bryn Mawr avenue, Cynwyd, as candidate for school director on the Republican primary ballot. "We feel," said Mrs. Gibbons today, "that we need women on the school board. We have tried several times before to elect a woman, but failed. The demotion of Miss Fite brought matters to a head and many citizens feel that if injustice was done, it might have been averted had there been a woman on the board. Mrs. Gibbons is corresponding secretary of the Women's Club of Cynwyd, and has taken an active part in work and in civic movements. Women Aid Judge Patterson The "Busy Bees" of the Patterson women's campaign committee, report they have organized in 1356 voting divisions in this city.

WOMEN CANVASS CITY FOR BIG REGISTRATION

Become Door-Bell Ringers in Every Ward to Aid Moore Candidacy

Hundreds of women in all the wards of the city made a door-to-door canvass today urging voters to register in the interests of the candidacy of Congressman Moore for Mayor. These women canvassed under the direction of the women's committee of the Moore Republican campaign committee.

"In every way possible," said Mrs. Mary O'Reilly Rea, of the women's committee, "women, hundreds of them, are working to get the vote out. It is not superficial work. We are not associating ourselves in this campaign to pass away time. We are doing real, practical, detail work. Women today are telephoning to their friends, calling on them and are going from door to door in every ward to see that the men are registered. Such an intensive campaign on the part of women has never been carried on before and we expect big results."

The women's committee mailed thousands of postcards urging registration, which read as follows: "See that the men of your family register. Today and Saturday next are the last chances to assure clean government."

Mrs. George Horace Lorimer called at Moore headquarters this morning and, like Mrs. Blankenburg, made a contribution to the campaign fund. "I am heartily in favor of the Moore candidacy," said Mrs. Lorimer. "It will be the best for the city."

Women who were busy today at Moore headquarters were Mrs. Rea, Mrs. Joseph P. Mumford, chairman, and Miss Grace E. Keenan, Miss Keenan announced that Miss Anna M. V. Pennypacker, daughter of former Governor Pennypacker, had joined the committee and would help in the campaign.

Leaders of Business are Lovers of Quiet

The office of a great executive is an inspiring place. No noise—no confusion. You begin to understand why this man is called a clear thinker. His office may be large and spacious. Yours may be small and crowded. But you, too, can enjoy that same glorious quiet. The Noiseless Typewriter is just as welcome to the man who employs one stenographer as to the man who employs fifty.

The NOISELESS TYPEWRITER

The Noiseless Typewriter Company, 835 Chestnut St., Philadelphia Phone Walnut 3691

Formerly 1115 Chestnut Street

Mawson & DeMany 1215 Chestnut Street Liberty Bonds, Purchasing Agents' Orders Accepted

Annual Fur Sale 20 to 45 Per Cent Off!

SUCH dominant savings are as unusual as the vast stocks that are here in such abundance for you to select from. Thousands of Fur Coats, Coatees, Stoles, Sets, Scarfs and Choker Scarfs—at prices that simply compel attention. We advise immediate choice, for the reason that these prices will advance just as soon as the Annual Sale is over. These large savings are apparent to all—the result of our early purchases months in advance of this event. A Small Deposit Will Reserve Your Purchase

Table listing fur coats, scarfs, stoles, and sets with sale prices and regular prices.

Large advertisement for Chesterfield Cigarettes featuring an illustration of a man with an umbrella and promotional text.

Advertisement for Cuticura skin treatment, including an illustration of a woman.

Advertisement for Porcelite wood-metal plaster.

Advertisement for Home Victor Water Heater.

Advertisement for parts made to order.