The Famous Doctor Johnson of London

was fond of traveling, and he used to say he enjoyed going into a hotel "to put up" because everybody secmed glad to see him.

It is not always so at American hotels, but there are some hotelkeepers, like George C. Boldt, in his early days, who care to meet their guests as their host.

This big store building stands up at its full height, and it is nigh as high as William Penn's feet upon the top of City Hall, and we offer all comers "a glad-to-see-you" welcome at all times-yet visitors are invited simply and squarely as visitors, without any obligation to purchase, solely as to one of the city sights.

The hospitalities of the grand organ and the public comforts are without charge.

If You Are Going to

The time is past when the housekeeper could be persuaded that second and third and fourth grade tinware and enamelware and aluminumware and galvanized ware were "to all practical purposes as good as the best.'

SIGHTS

She found out that the tinware soon rusted out, that the enamelware cracked off, that the aluminum ware cracked and twisted and that the galvanized ware not only rusted, but came apart at the seams and generally fell to pieces.

Think of the thousands and thousands of dollars of good-earned money that have been wasted on such "bargain-counter" attractions by women who thought . they were saving.

Nowadays they are rapidly finding out better. In particular are the women of Philadelphia learning that the way to get kitchen and laundry and bathroom utensils that will prove durable is to get them at a store where never, under any circumstances, is there anything flimsy to be had. In the September Sale of Housewares
