

CHICAGO TEMPLARS ARE NOW IN TOWN

Drill Corps Plans Practice Marches to Prepare for Tuesday's Parade

CANAL ZONE MEN ARRIVE

Officer drab, navy blue and the gray of the letter carrier are to yield precedence on the streets of the city to a more elaborate and picturesque uniform form.

Individual members of the Knights Templar have been arriving in Philadelphia from all parts of the country for several days for the triennial convocation of the grand encampment, which opens here on Saturday, but today the first uniformed body of Knights reached this city.

This organization is the drill corps of the Chicago Commandery No. 19. It is known throughout the country as one of the crack divisions of Templars and it is coming to the conclave with the avowed purpose of carrying back to Chicago the first prize in the competitive drills which are to be held on Wednesday morning in the Parkway, west of Twenty-second street.

The Chicago drill corps reached Broad Street Station late this afternoon, and proceeded at once to the Hotel Vendiz, its headquarters.

The early arrival of the Chicago corps was prompted by a desire to "set a lead" on their competitors in the prize drills. Early tomorrow the visitors plan to start out on a practice march through the city streets to be covered in the Templar parade next Tuesday. They will make use of the Parkway for exhibition of the various maneuvers of the Templar drill manual. This program they will follow daily.

Others Due Here Tomorrow

Other uniformed drill corps will arrive tomorrow and in the days following until the 10th. One of the most famous organizations of this sort is Detroit Commandery, No. 1, of Detroit, Mich. This commandery has won prizes in all conclaves held during the last thirty years and has given special exhibition drills at all their gatherings.

Detroit Commandery will bring twelve full platoons and will be accompanied by its famous Knights Templar Band of sixty pieces. Arrangements have been made for the Michigan corps to give an exhibition drill on the Parkway at Twenty-second street at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

In the competitive drills on Wednesday morning the committee in charge has received assurances that some twenty-five drill corps will participate. These commands average thirty-one men each, with eight substitutes, so that nearly 1000 knights will have place in the competitions.

Four sets of prizes have been prepared for the winners. These are of original design and represent an outlay of $8000. Each member of the team taking first honors will receive a gold watch, the dial spaces of which will be composed of the letters "Philadelphia" instead of the usual numerals. Second prizes will be similar watches of less value. Knights Templar charms and rings will reward the third and fourth prize winners, respectively.

Notables Are Coming

The first of the "foreign" delegations to the encampment arrived today. This party represented Canal Zone Commandery, No. 1, of Balboa Heights, Ancon, and was headed by eminent Sir John A. Patherie, eminent commander; Sir Marvin French, captain general; and Sir Charles C. Cameron, recorder. These were fifteen members of this Canal Zone delegation.

Another distinguished Templar arriving in the city today is William F. Kuhn, chairman of the committee on jurisprudence. He headed a party of air knights from Kansas City, Mo., which is his home. The Missourians are quartered at the Bellevue-Stratford.

No great has become the demand for hotel accommodations that the committee announced that the visitors already provided for would exceed the hotel, apartment and boarding-house facilities. Arrangements were made with a Wilmington hotel to take over its entire outfit for Templars' week. This is in addition to the 5000 visitors to be accommodated in Atlantic City.

Major General Charles M. Clement, who trained the Twenty-eighth Division for France, will arrive here tomorrow night. General Clement will speak at the open air exercises Monday in Independence Square. He also will be chief marshal of the Templar parade on Broad street next Tuesday. Among the other distinguished visitors expected tomorrow is W. T. Dublin, former governor of Indiana, and a past grand master of the Indiana Templars. Samuel Dickey, past grand commander, and grand treasurer, of Wyoming, arrived here this morning.

FIRST AID FOR TEMPLARS

Knights to Have Own Corps at Outdoor Events

In the program for Grand Encampment week the Knights Templar will introduce a feature never before attempted in this city. They will maintain their own hospital corps at all of the open air events.

Dr. Henry G. Bruner is in charge of this work, and he has planned a system of first-aid service along the line of possession on Tuesday and Thursday, at Girard avenue bridge on Wednesday night during the display of fireworks, and in Independence Square during the exercises there on Monday. Doctor Bruner will be assisted by a corps of seventy-five physicians and 150 nurses, the latter representing virtually every hospital in the city. Hospital tents will be erected in City Hall court yard, along the Parkway at Sixteenth and Twenty-second streets and in Independence Square. These will be supplied with beds and full equipment, together with an adequate ambulance service. This hospital corps will be entirely apart from any similar service on the part of the police authorities.

ICE RESTRICTIONS ENDED

All restrictions as to the use of ice have been removed by the ice conservation committee appointed by Director Krusen. The situation has improved because of the cool weather, and the committee decided to eliminate restrictions on sales.

THEFT SUSPECTS CAUGHT IN WEST

Two Boys and Man, Charged With Automobile Robbery, Brought to This City

MAKE THOUSAND-MILE TRIP

Two city detectives arrived here today after a thousand mile trip in an automobile stolen in Philadelphia. They brought with them two boys and a man said to have confessed to the theft of the car. All three were handcuffed together in the back seat.

The boys—James Brogan, sixteen years old, Fifteenth street and Chestnut avenue, and George Dunn, seventeen years old, Fifty-second street and Woodland avenue—according to the police, declare that Elwood McBride, twenty-one years old, South St. Bernard street, persuaded them to steal the automobile by telling them tales of the immense fortune they could accumulate in oil fields of Texas after they had sold the car.

The machine is the property of J. C. Fleming, 1237 South Fifty-third street, and was stolen from his garage August 22. The boys and McBride were arrested in Huntington, Ind., while trying to sell a tire.

Detectives Neenthal and McCroskey made the trip to retrieve the car and bring on the thieves.

Brogan, Dunn and McBride will be prosecuted under the new state law which provides a penalty of ten years. Another Philadelphian, William O'Sullivan, twenty-two years old, reached home today in the custody of a detective after he tried to sell an automobile stolen here in Columbus, O. He was given a hearing in City Hall and held in $1000 bail for a further hearing next Thursday.

The automobile is the property of Zack Diehl, 3229 North Marshall street. It was stolen from his garage. O'Sullivan claims he purchased the car in good faith and produced a bill of sale.

"The Ship is Sinking! Get the Women off!"

the captain shouted. The ship, full of your favorite screen stars, was wrecked. Gloria Swanson's dog fell overboard. And Major Ian Hay held Mildred Reardon's swimming head. And Doty, Mr. De Mille's trick Japanese valet, grabbed hold of Gene Cope-land, who forgot all about her lost face powder and squealed a lot. Gene writes all about it in the October issue of Photoplay, that has an easy-to-look-at picture of Gloria Swanson after the wreck. Plenty of thrills in The Wreck of the Skidbladnir

No sooner had she slicked her hair back, than she went straight out with a big gun and stuck up innocent pedestrians and scratched the eyes out of wicked old men, and acted wild as anything all over the lot. "The way you do your hair is what counts in this world," says Priscilla Dean in another hair-raising Photoplay article for October, called

Priscilla Pins Her Hair Back

Should children go to the movies? Fred Stone throws the bull. Why is a star? Jim Corbett has a gargling bird. What makes the movies move? Marion Davies lisps.

Doesn't that paragraph make sense? It will when you buy your copy of October Photoplay—on your newsstand tonight.
