declares He Battles for Cause Which Is Greater Than Senate
WORLD DISARMAMENT BY MEANS OF COVENANT
Executive Says 'Little Group of Selfish Men' Mustn't Plot Nation's Future

Wilson's Kansas City Speech in a Nutshell

"Treaty opponents who view the document with jaundiced eyes, who are against it because they have some private political purpose, will at last be gibbeted and they will regret that the gibbet is so high."
"Little groups of selfish men must not plot the future of America."
"It is a case of 'put up or shut up.'" "The opposition will have to produce something better than the league of nations or step aside."
"More negotiation, without offering anything constructive to replace the treaty, is bolshevism."
"Russia is an example of minority rule—the rule of a group of men more cruel than the czar himself."
"The Philippines would get their independence under the league."
"There is the covenant of the league of nations. I am a covenant-keeper."
"If the treaty is beaten, those responsible will have a life-long reckoning with the fighting forces of the United States."

By the Associated Press
Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 6.—President Wilson applied to a Kansas City crowd today to support the peace treaty as a charter for a new order of world affairs.
Making his third speech for the treaty in Missouri to a capacity audience, the President spoke in Convention Hall, said to accommodate 15,000.
President Wilson declared that he is fighting for a cause that is greater than the Senate.
When the President, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, appeared on the platform of the vast auditorium the crowd, each of whom had a small American flag, arose and cheered for more than two minutes.
President Wilson had been cheered through four miles of the city's streets to Convention Hall.
Mr. Wilson was introduced by B. A. Parsons, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.
Full of American Principles
In his address the President covered many of the same points of the treaty he had discussed in previous addresses. He said he had come to report to the people direct about one of the greatest documents in human history. The treaty, he declared, was "shot through" with American principles, but there by the common consent of the world.
"One of the things America had had in heart throughout her whole existence," said the President, was that arbitration and consultation should be substituted for force. This was accomplished, he declared, by the league-of-nations covenant.
"Nine months of discussion of any international controversy would be assured under the covenant, he asserted, adding that this principle previously had been written into thirty arbitration treaties, "all of which were confirmed by the United States Senate."
"The principle of the league, he declared, already had been adopted by the United States.
Boycott Effective Weapon
The boycott imposed on covenant breakers was emphasized by the President as constituting a measure more effective than military force. "The most conclusive thing that could happen to a nation," he continued, "was to be read out of decent society."
Effective Disarmament
"Effective disarmament would be accomplished under the covenant," Mr. Wilson predicted, declaring it was ridiculous to talk of the league as tending to war when "its whole essence" is arbitration and peace. The league, he declared, would mean the end of the "military clan" throughout the world forever.
"There is no other way to dispense with great armaments without an agreement by the great nations of the world," said Mr. Wilson, "and here is the agreement."
Sees Death of Autocracy
Autocracy would perish with military armaments, added the President, and the intrigue which had terrorized Europe for generations would be ended. He declared that "democracies will sooner or later have to destroy that kind of government, and if we don't do it now the day will be before us when the

Wilson's Speech at Kansas City

Kansas City, Sept. 6.—In his address at Convention Hall this morning President Wilson said:

I came back from Paris, bringing one of the greatest documents of human history. One of the things that made it great was that it was permeated throughout with the principles which America has devoted her life to.

Let me hasten to say that one of the most delightful circumstances of the work on the other side of the water was that I discovered that what we called American principles had penetrated to the heart and to the understanding, not only of the great peoples of Europe, but to the hearts and understandings of the great men who were representing the peoples of Europe.

I think that I can say that one of the things that America has had most at heart throughout her existence has been that there should be substituted for the brutal processes of war the friendly processes of consultation and arbitration, and that is done in the covenant of the league of nations. I am very anxious that my fellow citizens should realize that it is the chief topic of the covenant of the league of nations, the greater part of its provisions.

Aim to Prevent Wars
The whole intent and purpose of the document are expressed in provisions by which all the member states agree that they will never go to war without first having done one or the other of two things—either submitted the matter in controversy to arbitration in which case they agree to abide by the verdict, or submitted it to discussion in the council of the league of nations, and for that purpose, they consent to allow six months for the discussion, and, whether they like the opinion expressed or not, that they will not go to war for three months after that opinion has been expressed.
So that you have, whether you get arbitration or not, nine months' discussion. And I want to remind you that that is the central principle of some thirty treaties entered into between the United States of America and some thirty other sovereign nations, all of which are confirmed by the Senate of the United States.

We have such an agreement with France; we have such an agreement with Great Britain; we have such an agreement with virtually every nation of Germany, which she refused to enter into such an arrangement, because, my fellow citizens, Germany knew that she intended to cheat and that if she had submitted the purpose which led to this war to so much as one month's discussion, she would have had to promise to do with them as they would do with her. We do something very much more terrible than that. We absolutely boycott them.
Let any merchant put up to himself that if he enters into a covenant and then breaks it and the people all around absolutely desert his establishment, and will have nothing to do with him, he will find that if it will be necessary to send the police. The most terrible thing that can happen to any individual, and the most terrible thing that can happen to a nation is to be read out of decent society. (Applause.)
There was another thing that we needed to accomplish, that is accomplished in this document.
Provides for Disarmament
We wanted disarmament, and this document provides in the only possible way for disarmament by common agreement. Observe, my fellow citizens, that just now every great fighting nation in the world is a member of this partnership except Germany, and inasmuch as Germany has accepted a limitation of her army to 100,000 men, I don't think for the time being she may be regarded as a great fighting nation.
Armed Men Taxation
And you know, my fellow citizens, that armaments mean great standing armies, and great stores of war material. They do not mean burden some taxation merely; they do mean merely compulsory military service, which saves the economic strength of the nation, but they mean the holding up of a military class.
Again and again, my fellow citizens, in the conference at Paris, we were face to face with this situation: That in dealing with a particular civil government we found that we could not do anything to help what their general staff was not willing that they should promise; and that they were dominated by the military machine which they had created, nominally for their own defense, but really—whether they willed it or not—for the procreation of war. And so, as long as you have a military class, it does not make any difference what your form of government is. If you are determined to be armed to the teeth, you must obey the orders and directions of the only men who can control the great machinery of war. It is not merely the cost of it (armament), although that is overwhelming, but it is the spirit of it, and America has never had, and I hope in the providence of God never will have, that spirit. (Great applause.)
And there is no other way to dispense with great armaments except by the common agreement of the fighting nations of the world. And here is the agreement. They promise disarmament, and promise to agree upon a plan. But there was something else we wanted that is accomplished by this treaty. We wanted to destroy autocracy, autocracy being a government in which the ruler is not subject to the laws of the state. We wanted to destroy autocracy, autocracy being a government in which the ruler is not subject to the laws of the state. We wanted to destroy autocracy, autocracy being a government in which the ruler is not subject to the laws of the state.

BIG REGISTRATION THIS AFTERNOON; SEE 70,000 IN DAY

Independent Leaders Expect Heavy Enrollment by Close of Day
PREDICT SWEEPING WIN FOR THEIR CANDIDATE
Patterson Followers Declare Heavy Vote Is Favorable to Them

When the registry polls reopened this afternoon at 4 o'clock there were scores of men in line in hundreds of divisions throughout the city. They will remain open until 10 o'clock tonight.
Encouraging reports were received at the headquarters of the Moore campaign committee. Independents said that a large number of voters who had been somewhat tardy in registering had cut out their usual Saturday afternoon holiday in order to have a voice in the coming primary.
The great interest manifested in indications of sweeping victory, the Moore workers believe.
At the headquarters of the Patterson committee favorable reports were also received. The regulars said that a large portion of the names registered today would be lined up in the Patterson column.

Moose Derails Train
Milo, Me., Sept. 6.—The engine and several passengers were injured today when a Bangor and Aroostook train ran into a moose at Ebeneze, a siding near Brownville. The engine was turned over and the express and mail cars derailed.
Croix de Guerre Stolen
A Croix de Guerre belonging to Charles Briscoe, of 2324 North Twenty-second street, was among the articles stolen by sneak thieves from Briscoe's room, according to his report to police today. Other jewelry valued at $176 was also taken.

Union Recognition Ends Actor Strike
New York Players Agree on 'Open Shop'—Theatres Reopen Immediately
CURTAINS DOWN 4 WEEKS
New York, Sept. 6.—Broadway, after four weeks of dusk, is to shine again. The actors' strike was settled early this morning. The theatres are to open immediately, some of them tonight.
The settlement provides for recognition of the Actors' Equity Association and an "open shop." Francis Wilson, president of the Equity Association, said all differences had been adjusted to the satisfaction of both sides. Statements from the opposing camps explaining details of the agreement, are expected today.
Charles C. Shay, president of the Stage Hands' Union, announced this afternoon that the strike was over and that the men should go back to work.
"As far as we are concerned," he said, "the managers can open tonight. The Equity contract has been accepted, agreed to and virtually signed. It recognizes also the Equity Chorus Association and makes provision for the open shop."

Dull in Manayunk
It was deadily dull in the early hours throughout Manayunk and Roxborough. Some divisions did not have a single registrant. Many of the voters are mill workers, who have a full holiday on Saturdays. Political workers explained.

Thomas Broke Deadlock
The deadlock which followed rejection of the managers' terms by the Equity yesterday was broken by the mediation of Mr. Thomas. He arranged a conference last night between representatives of the managers and the Equity. It was the first time that managers had treated directly with officials of the Equity.
On the managers' committee were David Belasco, Sam H. Harris, William A. Brady, John L. Golden, A. H. Woods, Arthur Hopkins and Henry W. Savages and Barbridge Colby as counsel. The Equity was represented by four men, including Francis Wilson, Frank Gilmore and Justice Shields, attorney.

GOVERNOR'S FLAG MISSING

Disappears With Other Relics of Brumbaugh Regime
The Governor of Pennsylvania has no flag, it is missing.
Officially, a blue banner bearing the coat-of-arms of the commonwealth proclaims the presence of the chief executive at parades and similar public functions.
Governor Sproul is in Philadelphia today for the exercises attending the triennial encampment of Knights Templar.
But no standard will indicate the presence of the state executive.
Up to the departure of former Governor Brumbaugh from Harrisburg the Governor's flag was in frequent use.
Now, with other relics of the Brumbaugh administration, it is not to be found.

BASEBALL STITCHERS OUT

Fifty Workers in A. J. Reach Plant Here Want More Money
Fifty baseball stitchers of the A. J. Reach company, Palmer, Pa., today struck. They quit because two of their fellow-workers had been discharged. They also made a demand for increased wages.
Denial was made at the office of the company that the stitchers had gone on strike. It was admitted, however, that they had stopped work.

MANY SOLDIERS LOSE VOTE

Office of Registration Commissioners Closed This Afternoon
Due to the fact that the office of the county commissioners was closed this afternoon many soldiers and sailors will be unable to vote.
Scores of ex-service men, whose names did not appear on the assessors' lists, appeared in City Hall today to qualify. They desired to appear before the commissioners, purchase poll tax receipts and then register. The absence, however, of the commissioners prevented.

There was no scoring in the first three innings. Kinney got in a jam in the third, when the Red Sox got two on base on hits. Roth, the former A's slugger, came up with two out and a runner on base.
For his third time up, Babe Ruth got his first hit of the day, a single through Burrus. The next time he faced Kinney he struck out.
Charley High, Mack's new recruit from Evansville, Ind., replaced Amos Strunk in center field. On first time up at bat he was robbed of a hit by Mory Shannon.
Joe Dugan after three days' layoff returned to the Mack line-up. A $200 fine which was plastered on Dugan for leaving the club without permission in August has been lifted and the pipe of peace has been smoked.

In a day of many developments, the biggest was the association of McCumber and Hitchcock. It has been pending for some time. It has waited simply the reporting of the treaty and the evidence that a reasonable number of mild reservationist Republicans would stand fast. The evidence that they would stand fast was furnished in the Senate yesterday.

Foes of Treaty Weaken as Wilson Continues Tour

President Wilson today continued his fight for the league of nations. At 11 this morning in Philadelphia, Pa., he spoke at Kansas City, Mo. This evening he will speak at Des Moines, Ia., where he will spend Sunday.
Yesterday, at St. Louis, he arranged foes of the league.
Meanwhile, the reservationist groups in the Senate is losing ground, the Democrats and the Republican group favoring mild changes uniting.
Reservations requiring assent from other nations apparently are frowned upon, while interpretative reservations will be adopted.

By CLINTON W. GILBERT
Staff Correspondent of the Evening Public Ledger
Washington, Sept. 6.—The Democrats and the Republican group of mild reservationists have come together.
The six McCumber reservations introduced yesterday, represent substantially the sense of the combination.
The alliance, perhaps it is better to borrow from the language of the late war, the associated powers, McCumber and Hitchcock, appear to have the votes to pitch through the Senate substantially the reservations Senator McCumber introduced.
Five senators, McCumber, Kellogg, Nelson, McNary and Colt, have signed an agreement to support, in principle if not in detail, mild reservations of the McCumber type.
The issue is close, but the associated powers are bound together firmly by this agreement signed by the five and by the discipline of the Democratic party, which is sharply felt by all except a scattering three, four or five members. The associated powers are thus the most compact group in the Senate. They are probably also more numerous than their foes.

The only principle now involved in the fight is whether the reservations shall be such as require assent from other partners in the league of nations, or whether they are merely to be interpretative and require no such assent. The associated powers favor merely interpretative reservations and probably will win.
The bitter-enders plan two fights to defeat the combination against them. First, they are going to reject the advice of Hays, Hughes, Taft and Root and go on the road against the treaty, especially in the states of the five signers of the agreement, and in other states where doubtful senators live, like Sen. James S. Steiwer, of Missouri; Senator Jones, of Washington, and Senators Keyton and Cummins, of Iowa. They also talk of defeating the treaty if the Lodge amendments fail.
Senator Lodge spent all day trying to line up enough votes for his reservationist coalition; a majority of the Senate but he failed. His supporters spoke of having the "serial" assurances of all but three Republicans and of counting upon Reed, Thomas, Gore, Walsh, of Massachusetts; Walcott, Holke Smith and Shields, among the Democrats. But in spite of these plans, Lodge lacks the votes. In addition to the five McCumber and his signers, there is Spencer, who is almost certain. Just now, at least, he is rather mobile, and Leavort, who is against Lodge's Article X on account of its economic features, and there are three or four doubtful Republicans. Among the Democrats the only sure side of Lodge are Reed and Gore. Shields is against Lodge's Article X. Thomas's position is more or less undefined. Holke Smith will probably respond to party discipline and Walcott almost surely will.
