Nancy Wynne Talks of Two Engagements-Old St. David's Church Celebrates Its 204th Anniversary-Some Who Go There

LOUISA NEWLIN'S engagement to William Whitney is interesting most of us these days. It's such a nice engagement and both of them are Philadelphians, and that's always fine, I think. I always feel sorry when any thinks. I always feel sorry when any more. Mr. Flagg is at present in I think. I always feel sorry when any more. Mr. Flagg of the attractive Philadelphia girls go Europe on business away from the city to five.

A NOTHER very interesting engage-ment is Elizabeth MacCuen Smith to a Mr. Bullivant, of Massachusetts. That is a dandy engagement, too, only it probably means that Elizabeth will not live here, and she'll be very much missed. She is a most attractive girl and greatly liked. She has the most wonderful fair hair and a lovely complexion. I do not know Mr. Bullivant personally, but they say many fine things of him. He's getting a dandy girl, that's one thing sure!

VOU know they celebrated the 204th Y anniversary of the opening of old St. David's Episcopal Church yesterday out there in Wayne.

The cornerstone of that church, ac cording to Acreliu's journal, was laid in May, 1715. And the little old building, which has not been altered or added to inside since that time, was opened for worship the first Sunday in September, 1715. You know the wondarful little old worship to t derful little old outside staircase to the gallery was built later; in fact, it dates from 1761; but otherwise there has
