BUSINESS NOTES

Declines of from 5 to 10 per cent in the prices jobbers ask for woolens and worsteds suitable for the women's wear this fall and winter are noted. The softening of the market is said to be the direct result of the slackening in buying operations by garment manufacturers during the last two weeks. Some jobbers believe that a revival of gar-

Switzerland intends to Americanize its entire industrial system. American machinery for the making of watches, textiles, chocolates and other Swiss products will be installed there as rapidly as it can be sent abroad. More activity is noted in the wholesale women's outer apparel market than at any time in the last three weeks, according to manufacturers and jobbers, who confidently expect a revival of buying before the week is over that will rival the July rush.

According to a telegram received at lectors of customs have been instructed mit the shipment of skips and hides from India to places outside the British empire without securing the authority Bu Chas. McManus of the Indian Government. This action prevents further shipments to the United States for the present. No reason is given for this sudden and unexpected action.

> Despite high prices and hot weather, trade in fur garments, in both the retail and wholesale ends of the industry, is brisk. Retailers, because of the large volume of business they have done on their early showings of fur garments, are forced to call for additional supplies from the manufacturers. Buyers for retail stores, who formerly depended on reorders for filling in their stocks, are visiting the market in person now and placing orders for new

> Leather dealers assert that active buying may be expected within the next two weeks. The decline in purchases, they state, is due principally to the decrease in the production of finished leather goods brought about by shorter working hours. Manufacturers of leather bags, gloves, suitcases and novelties have on hand more leather than can be converted into finished articles for some time to come, although this leather is not symmetent to cover orders standing on the make
