

Forget-proof protection Your GLOBE Automatic Sprinkler System is always ready for action at the critical moment...

DETECTIVE'S BIG CATCH

"Billy" Greep Hauls in Slippery Customer—Eel Measured 36 Inches District Detective "Billy" Green, of the Mansyunk station, has caught so many slippery characters in his day that he naturally flocks to him.

MacLAUGHLIN TO RUN

Director Says He'll Be in Field at General Election No matter who wins the Republican nomination Joseph S. MacLaughlin, director of supplies, says he will head an independent ticket for the general election.

2 WOMEN IN AUTO CRASH

Machine is Smashed and Hubby-Chauffeur Held K. W. Wills, 5835 Thompson street, has a badly wrecked automobile and $400 bail hovering over him today as the result of reckless driving, the police say.

HOLD-UP SUSPECT CAUGHT

Police Outrun South Broad Street Man's Alleged Assailant Samuel Cooper, of 2214 South Broad street, was held up by six men early yesterday morning. They beat him with their fists and a blackjack but failed to obtain his money or jewelry.

NEW PLAN TO REOPEN BANK

Stockholders Will Consider Operating North Penn Institution Coincident with the announcement that several large financial institutions in Philadelphia have offered to take over the defunct North Penn Bank comes word that stockholders of the bank are also considering such action.

Ransley Sees Victory

Sheriff Harry C. Ransley, chairman of the Vire-controlled city committee, "dopes it out" that Judge Patterson will have a majority at the primaries of exactly 38,450 votes.

PATRICK P. CONWAY

2 KILLED, 3 HURT IN GANG FEUD HERE

Free-for-All Fight Ensues When Shot is Fired at Restaurant Proprietor

VICTIM UNDER INDICTMENT

Two men were shot and killed early this morning and three seriously wounded as the result of old feuds. The shootings, according to the police, are the latest in a list of murders and assaults among a lawless element in the southern section of the city that has kept the police busy for the last two years.

The dead are: Giovanni Canello, fifty-eight years old, of 826 Christian street, and Edward Terzani, twenty-six years old, Lehigh street above seventh.

The wounded are: Frank Costalione, thirty-one years old, of 1203 Peter street, now in St. Agnes's Hospital with a bullet in the left side of the back; Gaetano Bruno, thirty-eight years old, of 611 Washington avenue, in the Pennsylvania Hospital with a broken left leg, and Michael Mariani, thirty years old, of 741 South Eleventh street, shot through the right thigh. He is in the Howard Hospital.

Canello and Bruno met each other in a restaurant run by Canello at 826 Christian street. Both men were sitting at a table drinking coffee when Bruno, without warning, raised his coffee cup and said "Here's luck," opening fire at Canello as he did so, with a revolver held in the other hand.

Bruno and Canello rushed to the street, where, according to the police, officers drew guns and the shooting became general. Canello, having been hit by a shot fired by some one in the crowd, staggered back to the kitchen of the restaurant, where he collapsed. Costalione managed to reach Eleventh and Ellsworth streets before he fell. The others were picked up in the street outside the restaurant.

Terzani was not identified until this afternoon, ten hours after his death, when some of his friends saw his body in the Morgue. Patrol loads of policemen and plainclothes men followed and Christian and Seventh and Carpenter streets stations soon arrived and six men and one woman, Mrs. Marie Canello, were arrested and taken to the Seventh and Carpenter streets station.

Little light was thrown upon the affair at the hearing before Magistrate Casard. Seven witnesses were held for a further hearing September 25. Men held without bail as suspicious characters were Joseph Cimmino, of Seventh street below Christian; Cesare "Charlie" Morozzo, of 826 Christian street; Benigno, of Wilder street above Eighth; and Gaetano Squanbattoli, of 826 Christian street.

Those held under $400 bail as material witnesses were Joseph Di Cesaro, of South Franklin street near Ellsworth; Farrell Perante, same address; and Mrs. Marie Canello, Hardimon, Genotti and Rago, with police details under Lieutenant Kerns, are investigating. Canello, according to the police, was under indictment for the shooting of Vincent Petruzzelli, forty-three years old, of Eleventh street near Fitzwater, who was shot October 11, 1918.

Deaths of a Day

Mrs. Charles S. Bradford Mrs. Emily Bradford, wife of Charles Sydney Bradford, of 245 South Forty-fifth street, who was related to several prominent Philadelphia families, died yesterday in Atlantic City, where she had been spending the summer.

Mrs. Bradford was a daughter of the late General George Archibald McCall and Mrs. Elizabeth McNurtie McCall. Major James Sydney Bradford, who served in the engineer corps with the American expeditionary forces, is a son of Mrs. Bradford, and Miss Frances M. Bradford is a daughter.

Mrs. J. Bradford Ramsey

Catherine G. Ramsey, wife of J. Bradford Ramsey, Jr., manager of the Ramsey Paper Company, of this city, died yesterday at her home, 328 South Forty-second street. Her funeral will be held Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Mulgrew

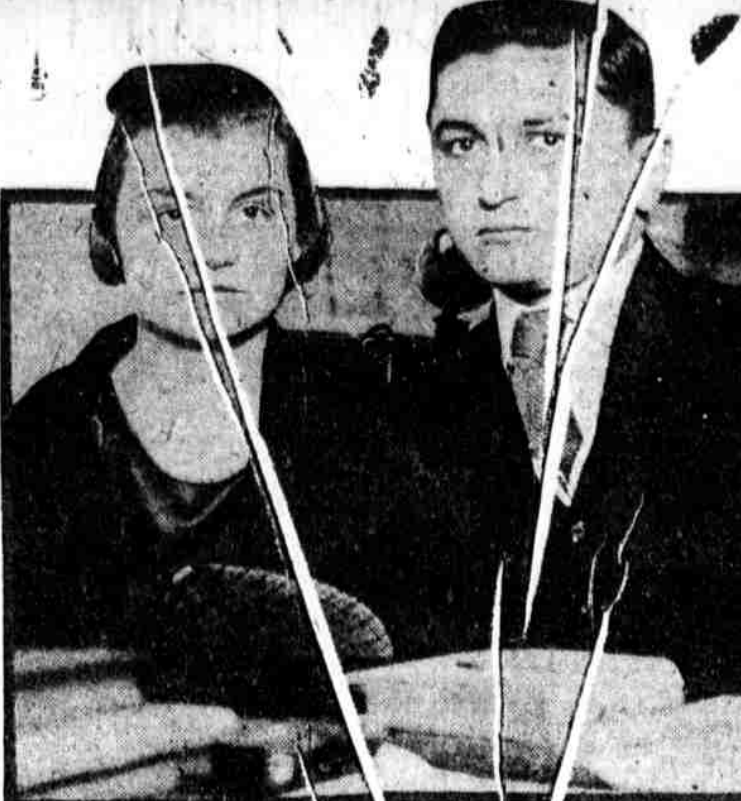

Rebecca J. Mulgrew, wife of Thomas Mulgrew, died yesterday at her home, 6928 Old York road. Funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and burial made in Northwood Cemetery.

John S. Thompson

Reading, Pa., Sept. 15.—John S. Thompson, sixty-two years old, formerly treasurer of the Colonial Trust Company, city councilman and school controller, died here Saturday night of nervous ailments. He was postmaster under President Cleveland.

Remember Conway on the 16th Yours and Labor's Friend

"MISSING" HEIRESS AND HUSBAND

The sixteen-year-old daughter of a Yonkers family was married in this city Saturday to Joseph La Grossa, a real estate man. Mrs. La Grossa, who is Miss Constance Minnich, consented to pose for a photograph with her husband, who is twenty-five years old. She was forced to sell her hair for $5 in order to get something to eat, according to Detective Brown.

RED CROSS ROOM REOPENED SHOTS FIRED IN THIEF CHASE

Independence Square Auxiliary Resumes Work for Winter Independence Square Auxiliary No. 276, of which Mrs. George Horace Lorimer is chairman, and whose work rooms are at 608 Chestnut street, opened today. Home relief and home service work will be carried on by its members, who will also take an active part in the Red Cross drive for membership, which starts on November 2.

The board of directors of the Independence Square Auxiliary includes Mrs. George Charles Baker, Mrs. Robert E. Hare, Mrs. E. Burt Grubb, Mrs. Frederick English, Mrs. Otis Skinner, Mrs. Theron I. Crane, Mrs. Francis X. Derum, Mrs. Charles V. McLean, Mrs. Hampton L. Carson, Mrs. I. H. O'Hara, Mrs. William Sheppard, Mrs. Rodman Grison, Mrs. J. Bertram Lipincott, Mrs. Joseph Leidy, Mrs. Reed Morgan, Mrs. J. Wellington Shannon, Mrs. S. P. Snowden Mitchell, Miss E. P. Dickey, Mrs. Charles Boehman and Mrs. Walter Waring Hopkinson.

IRISH START TREATY FIGHT

Mass-Meeting Begins Nation-Wide Campaign Against Pact The Friends of Irish Freedom, made up of Irish society representatives in all parts of the country, plan a nationwide campaign against the league of nations.

The campaign is booked to start in this city at a meeting to be held shortly, at which Eamon de Valera, president of the provisional Irish republic, will preside. Objection to the league of nations is based on its failure to recognize the Irish republic.

TO REVOIR, STRAW KATY

Wilted Remnants of a Happy Summer "Go West" Today Good-by! Farewell! Chatted chapeau! Farewell! Agricultural headgear! In other words straw hat—get out! This is September 15.

Many lingering straws are taking their last gasp today; and they look it. Some should have retired many weeks ago. Although their complexions have been changed with all sorts of concoctions, the spirit of youth was only temporary and it left them sad and strained looking.

Wills Probated Today

Among the wills probated today were those of Mary C. Trotman, of Camden, $15,000; Ventura Blance, 1220 North Franklin street, $10,000; Mary L. Fallon, $10,000; Martha Mayer, 2508 North Nineteenth street, $9000, and David J. Simpson, $5800. All plaintiffs.

Tries to End Life After Quarrel

William Greenwald, of 1727 North Park avenue, attempted to commit suicide by swallowing poison, according to the police, following a quarrel with friends over politics. He is in a serious condition at the Woman's Homeopathic Hospital.

Advertisement for BAILEY, BANKS & BIDDLE CO. Jewelers, Silversmiths, Stationers. Handsomely Decorated Service Plates of English Bone China. Lenox China is not for sale elsewhere in Philadelphia.

HEIRESS SOLD HAIR TO PURCHASE FOOD

Constance Minnich, Missing Girl, Sacrificed Locks to Get Money

WEDS A PHILADELPHIAN

Constance Crowell Minnich, sixteen-year-old daughter of a wealthy New York man, whose disappearance caused a nation-wide search, was forced to sell her chestnut hair for $5 in Atlantic City that she might have food, according to Detective Brown, of this city.

The girl is the bride of a Philadelphia. She was married on Saturday to Joseph La Grossa, twenty-five, of 907 Christian street, a member of the real estate firm of Langner & La Grossa, 501 Liberty Building, Broad and Chestnut streets.

B. E. Minnich, vice president of the Sand Mixing Company of New York, father of the girl, had offered a reward of $500 in his efforts to find the girl. During her absence from home, according to Detective Brown, she was reduced to straits in Atlantic City.

Following her disappearance from her home in Westchester county, New York, according to Brown, the girl admitted to him that she had made her way to Atlantic City and there had run out of funds. "La Grossa also told me," said Brown, "that he found her wandering the Boardwalk, hungry and penniless. He said he found a room for her at a hotel and left her there. Later he met her in Philadelphia and married her."

The girl confessed to me that she had been forced to have her hair bobbed. She sold her beautiful chestnut locks to a hairdresser for $5 with which to buy food. She told me she had left home because her parents had been too strict.

The marriage license was obtained Saturday, after the Marriage License Bureau in City Hall had closed, from the clerk of the bureau, at his home. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alvin L. Cooper, 1932 North Twenty-second street, where the bride had lived since she motored to this city with La Grossa from Atlantic City.

Although but sixteen years old, the girl gave the date of her birth as March 5, 1898, at the time she and her intended husband applied for the marriage license.

Father Here Saturday Mr. and Mrs. La Grossa now live at the house where the ceremony took place. Today the youthful bride, wearing a vivid green tulle sash and a gown of dark blue serge covered with a dark blue cape lined with a figured gray silk, accompanied her husband to his real estate office. There they were frayed by newspaper reporters and photographers and willingly consented to pose for their photographs.

"Papa was over here Saturday night," said the bride, "and I am going home for a visit Wednesday. Joe," she added, looking at her husband, and blushing with pride, "will come over for the week-end."

"Papa came over on the 8 o'clock train and left on the 10:38 Saturday night."

"Yes," broke in Mr. La Grossa, "and my wife talked with her mother over the telephone from Broad street station."

"Oh Joe, there's no use telling that," pouted the bride.

"We are very happy and wish the newspapers would let us alone now," the bride continued, in answer to questions.

SHOT AND 'NIGHTIES' FIGURE IN BLAZE

Occupants of House, Who Flew to Hot Roof in Bare Feet, Rescued

DAMAGE IS ONLY $800

Revolver shots, nightgown rescues leaps from windows to sheds in the smoke of burning lemon drops and stogies were features of a fire today at 1014 Ellsworth street.

Damage to the stone and dwelling property of Joe Terzani, was estimated at $800.

A revolver shot attracted attention of a policeman to the blaze.

Terzani, his ten-year-old daughter Mary in his arms, his nightgown-clad wife, Angelina, slivering at his side, was dancing up and down on the rear shed, spluttering in the smoke and trying to get down. Neighbors effected the rescue amidst a salvo of cheers.

The fire had gained considerable headway in front, when Mrs. Joseph Vannotti, occupant of the third floor, bare of feet and scantily clad, burst through a front window to the tin awning over the sidewalk with her niece, Josephine Paresa, five years, in her arms.

The cause of the fire is not known. River front fires caused heavy damage to property and caused the injury of one man on Sunday.

The plant of the Atlantic Refining Company, 3144 Passunk avenue, was menaced by fire, which destroyed a portion of a pier near a large tank in which 120,000 gallons of oil were stored.

Three holies boats, two tugs of the refining company, six engines and thirty hand trucks of the corporation were called out by two alarms, a quarter of an hour apart. Patrick Flynn, thirty-two, Magazine lane and Thirty-second street, an overseer at the refining company, was burned.

Another fire almost destroyed the Weymouth, a newly commissioned boat of the Howers Southern Dredging Company. The craft was moored off Pier 6, Greenwield Point. Five hours' hard work by two police crews and the men of four engine companies were needed to save the boat.

Fire late yesterday damaged the waste mill of Charles DeVin & Co., at Kensington avenue and Hilton street, and destroyed more than 100 tons and other waste in piles. The total loss is placed at $10,000.

STUDENTS SEEK HOMES

Housing Problem Confronts Penn Men for Ensuing Term Not the intricacies of the binomial theorem, nor yet the vagaries of the temperamental Greek enclitic; not Caesar's fondness for indirect discourse, nor the sleep-inducing properties of the differential calculus are troubling the verdant brains of the freshmen at Penn this year.

These are vexatious problems, but they're nothing at all compared to the housing problem which confronts the college boys.

HEIRESS SOLD HAIR TO PURCHASE FOOD

Constance Minnich, Missing Girl, Sacrificed Locks to Get Money

WEDS A PHILADELPHIAN

Constance Crowell Minnich, sixteen-year-old daughter of a wealthy New York man, whose disappearance caused a nation-wide search, was forced to sell her chestnut hair for $5 in Atlantic City that she might have food, according to Detective Brown, of this city.

The girl is the bride of a Philadelphia. She was married on Saturday to Joseph La Grossa, twenty-five, of 907 Christian street, a member of the real estate firm of Langner & La Grossa, 501 Liberty Building, Broad and Chestnut streets.

B. E. Minnich, vice president of the Sand Mixing Company of New York, father of the girl, had offered a reward of $500 in his efforts to find the girl. During her absence from home, according to Detective Brown, she was reduced to straits in Atlantic City.

Following her disappearance from her home in Westchester county, New York, according to Brown, the girl admitted to him that she had made her way to Atlantic City and there had run out of funds. "La Grossa also told me," said Brown, "that he found her wandering the Boardwalk, hungry and penniless. He said he found a room for her at a hotel and left her there. Later he met her in Philadelphia and married her."

The girl confessed to me that she had been forced to have her hair bobbed. She sold her beautiful chestnut locks to a hairdresser for $5 with which to buy food. She told me she had left home because her parents had been too strict.

The marriage license was obtained Saturday, after the Marriage License Bureau in City Hall had closed, from the clerk of the bureau, at his home. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alvin L. Cooper, 1932 North Twenty-second street, where the bride had lived since she motored to this city with La Grossa from Atlantic City.

Although but sixteen years old, the girl gave the date of her birth as March 5, 1898, at the time she and her intended husband applied for the marriage license.

Father Here Saturday Mr. and Mrs. La Grossa now live at the house where the ceremony took place. Today the youthful bride, wearing a vivid green tulle sash and a gown of dark blue serge covered with a dark blue cape lined with a figured gray silk, accompanied her husband to his real estate office. There they were frayed by newspaper reporters and photographers and willingly consented to pose for their photographs.

"Papa was over here Saturday night," said the bride, "and I am going home for a visit Wednesday. Joe," she added, looking at her husband, and blushing with pride, "will come over for the week-end."

"Papa came over on the 8 o'clock train and left on the 10:38 Saturday night."

"Yes," broke in Mr. La Grossa, "and my wife talked with her mother over the telephone from Broad street station."

"Oh Joe, there's no use telling that," pouted the bride.

"We are very happy and wish the newspapers would let us alone now," the bride continued, in answer to questions.

Here's the Round-Up Clearance Sale of $30, $35, $38 and $40 Overcoats and Suits at One Uniform Price $25

You can't make any mistake in buying one or two of these Suits. You couldn't make any mistake in them at their original prices of $30 to $40. They were good values at those prices. They would be good values at $30, $35, $38, $40 today!

We are clearing them out because they are just one, two, three, four of a lot. We don't want broken stocks. But—all you are interested in is just one Suit. If you get your size in this Sale, you'll have some suit!

And Overcoats! Medium weights and heavy weights. Conservative styles and snappy styles.

And all for the modest sum of $25 each!

Fall Styles are Here! Hundreds are buying them. If you want to know what's what, come in and look them over.

PERRY & CO. "N. B. T." 16th & Chestnut Sts.

Advertisement for HATS that are definitely appropriate to your individual type and taste. JACOB REED'S SONS 1424-1426 Chestnut Street