

PATTERSON VOTES FIRST IN DIVISION

Judge Casts Ballot at Fifteenth and Wharton Streets—Gets Woman's Prayers

"HOPE YOU WIN," SHE SAYS

Judge Patterson was the first voter to cast his ballot today in the election division in which he lives—the Fifteenth division of the Twenty-sixth ward.

He reached the polling place, Fifteenth and Wharton streets, at 7:11 this morning.

Election officers greeted him cordially. He remained in the booth a short time and when he emerged and deposited his ballot in the box he complained of the lighting facilities in the polling booth.

As he left the polling place an aged Italian woman rushed up to him and clasped his hand.

"Judge, I hope you win," she said. "I am going to church and pray for you."

After expressing his thanks, Judge Patterson said he hoped the weather would remain fair so that the big registered vote could get to the polls. He said he was more confident of success than ever.

Then he came uptown to his headquarters, Thirteenth and Chestnut streets.

Women Work for Him
"Women 'manned' the polling places today for Judge Patterson in the Forty-sixth ward, the banner independent ward in West Philadelphia.

Five women were assigned to each of the fifty-six polling places in the ward under the direction of the Patterson women's campaign committee, of which Mrs. Archibald R. Harmon is chairman.

Backers of Judge Patterson continue to assert that the majority of the Organization candidate for the mayoralty nomination will run 50,000 and upwards. Thomas Robins, chairman of the committee of one thousand; Harry C. Ransley, chairman of the Republican city committee; and Senator Yare all place the Patterson majority high.

While the Independents have centered their efforts on making inroads in the former organization strongholds, especially among the downtown wards and in the northeast, the Organization has countered by conducting a frontal assault on the big Independent wards.

Organization leaders are counting on getting out a big vote for Judge Patterson in the Thirty-fourth, Forty-second and Forty-sixth wards, three of the Independent strongholds.

Hope to Split Ward
They even hold high hopes of getting either an even break or of actually carrying these wards, which are counted on by the Independents to give the big majorities for Congressman Moore and the rest of the ticket which he leads.

Never before in a previous campaign has the Organization carried the fight into Independent wards on such a big scale as in this contest.

In the Forty-sixth ward several committees are making the regular ward Republican committee in the interest of Judge Patterson.

There is a women's committee of almost 100 members at work, a "dough-boys" committee of 250 members and a citizens' committee of more than 500 members. Each of these committees has been working for weeks trying to convert the Independent voter to the regular Republican fold.

She was carried into her home by the crew of the car and attended by the family physician, who pronounced her condition not serious.

Helen had walked from the front of her home, and in crossing the street the car struck the side of her body and threw her to the ground.

MRS. PATTERSON THRILLED AS "HUBBY" GOES TO VOTE

Wife of Organization Candidate, Busy at Home, Just Sure the Judge Will Win

While her husband's name was sounded on the lips of thousands of men and women throughout the city today, and her husband's picture looked from thousands of windows upon voters and campaigners, Mrs. John M. Patterson, wife of the Republican organization's candidate for Mayor, pursued her daily task as a housewife.

It was not without an underlying thrill of excitement, however, that she directed the work of an Italian boy sweeping the living-room floor, she read letters from some of the judge's admirers and constituents.

"Naturally, I am thrilled," she said smilingly. "I have never before been so intimately concerned with election affairs in Philadelphia, and I admit it is rather exciting. I'm not expecting to sleep much tonight, for I shall wait up with the rest of the family to hear returns."

"I am quite confident Mr. Patterson is going to win the nomination. This morning I sharply had to devote to my house, but I shall visit the woman's organization headquarters late this afternoon and expect to be in the Lincoln Building or in the judge's office at City Hall tonight when returns come in."

There was a jolly white morning cap on her head that allowed only a glimpse of blond hair, and she wore a simple house dress of dark blue and white figured voile. She was sitting on a divan in the long living room of their apartment, 1326 South Broad street, as she talked.

"You see why I have to stay home most of the day," Mrs. Patterson, the housewife, exclaimed as she designated the appearance of the room. "The house was to have been papered two weeks ago and thoroughly cleaned, I came in last night to find it in utter chaos. The children and I spent the summer in Atlantic City and my baby was sick last week so I couldn't come into town sooner. But I think I shall just let things go, as soon as I get the worst cleaned up, till after the election. I just can't stay indoors much longer."

"Helen India, our thirteen-year-old daughter, who is really quite grown-up, is much excited over the election. She went to the dentist's this morning so she isn't in a very happy frame of mind. But she is a great booster for her father, Marie Louise, just four years old, is sure daddy's to be Mayor. She wears a string of buttons down her dress and when any one asks her what they are for she says: "Why, don't you know my daddy's going to be Mayor?"

Several representatives of the Patterson women's campaign committee will be with Mrs. Patterson when she hears returns this evening, and Mrs. James M. Hazlett, wife of the recorder of deeds, and Mrs. Wilmer Krusen, wife of the director of public health and charities, will be in the party.

"We got Mr. Patterson off early this morning, as he wanted to be the first man to vote in his ward," Mrs. Patterson said, "and I suppose I won't have another glimpse of him for many hours."

Mrs. Harmon Makes Prediction
Pitting her political judgment against that of Judge Patterson's campaign managers, Mrs. Archibald Harmon, chairman of the Patterson women's committee, said today the judge would win by 16,000 majority only. "The men think I am wrong," she said, "but we will see. We have more than 500 women workers at the polls."

RALLY SOLDIERS TO MOORE

Service Men Urged to Go 'Over Top' for Congressman

"Over the top at the zero hour—7 o'clock this morning"—was the order given former service men by Captain E. J. Dresper, head of the soldiers' committee of the Moore campaigners. The order reads:

"We find the enemy weakening and already willing to ask for quarter. At last the time has come for you to show your own people the rolling the service men have for any traitor or syndicate of men who try to run a government by 'gang rule' and 'Frog Hollow tactics.' When you go 'over the top' today use no mean tactics, but fight cleanly as you fought in France."

"Your objective is definitely outlined. You are better equipped than any Philadelphia army ever was. You have right on your side and 'right is might.' Do not forget the zero hour is 7 o'clock this morning and do not let up for a minute all day. Remember the satisfaction we all had last November after the armistice. Experience the same on Tuesday night."

MOORE TO CARRY 38TH WARD

So Says A. Lincoln Acker, Predicting Victory

Congressman Moore will have a majority of 3,500 votes in the Thirty-eighth ward, A. Lincoln Acker, former sheriff, predicted today.

"And I feel confident of Mr. Moore's nomination," he added. Mr. Acker is leader of the Thirty-eighth ward.

The Vice leader of the same ward, William J. Benham, deputy recorder of deeds, contented himself with the assertion that Judge Patterson would have a "good run" in the ballwick, but he was confident the Vane standard bearer would be nominated.

Moore will carry the Thirty-eighth ward, asserted Oscar E. Noll, Republican alliance leader. "The ward will give 1,000 majority and more for Moore," he said.

ROTAN ON THE JOB
Warns "Draft Dodgers" Not to Vote Today
District Attorney Rotan today repeated a previous warning that "draft dodgers" who attempted to vote at the primaries would be arrested and prosecuted.

He declared there were upward of 75,000 men here who "dodged" the draft by registering as aliens. His detectives know these men, he said, and would be on the lookout for them at the polls.

WOMAN IS ISSUE AT BALA

Lower Merion Primary Centers Around Ousting of School Principal

The feature of the primary election in Lower Merion township will be the drive of Bala and Criswald voters to nominate Mrs. Mary Stewart Gibbons, secretary of the Woman's Club of Criswald, for school director.

This is an effort of the "lower end" to get back at the school board for the removal of Miss Sara Pitt last spring as supervising principal of the Bala Public School, where she had served for ten years.

Members of the Neighborhood Club of Bala and Criswald, a men's organization, are also back of Mrs. Gibbons' candidacy.
