

U. S. RETAIL STORE TO BE OPENED HERE

Government Shop Will Start
Week From Today and Handle
All Merchandise

PLAN CHAIN OF PLACES

One week from tomorrow, Uncle Sam will set up in business here as a retailer of merchandise.

If you need any wool underwear for cold weather use, he'll sell it to you.
Maybe you need only halbriggans. Your Uncle will sell you those.

Socks, bath towels, shaving brushes,
garbage cans, hats, brooms, gloves,
lariats—in fact almost anything salable will be handled at the nation's retail store. And you won't have to carry home your purchases, either. The parcel post system will bring them to your door.

Keep Accurate Record of Your Food Costs This Week

Prove for Yourself How You Can Smash Old "High Cost of Living" With

Freihofer's

Big Tosty Bread

Just Right

The High Cost of Living has become a serious thing. It must be reduced. It can be. We, as a nation, have been eating too much of the more expensive foods and too little of the good, old-fashioned, and more nourishing food—Bread. We want every housewife in and near Philadelphia to take part in this two weeks' test to answer the question,—

How Much Can We Lower the High Cost of Living?

For this week keep an accurate record of your expenditures for food. Eat the same things you have eaten during previous weeks—same quantities of meats, eggs, and just the same quantity of Bread you have been using. No more—no less. This daily record, or the record of the entire week, will determine what your food is now costing you.

Now for next week! Begin with your purchase of food for Sunday, September 21st. DOUBLE your quantity of Bread. Naturally, you will correspondingly decrease your purchase of other foods, for the reason that you will need less.

Throughout next week, continue to eat two slices of Bread where you ate one slice before. Again, keep an accurate record of your expenditures for food. Compare it with your food costs for this week. The difference will show you how much you can cut the cost of living with Bread.

We know that an increased consumption of Bread will materially lower the cost of living. We know that the fine quality of BIG TOSTY BREAD—its pure ingredients, perfect baking and delicious flavor—will invite you to eat more Bread (and enjoy it) than you ever ate before.

We want to give the result of this test the widest publicity, and for this purpose invite housewives to write to us reporting their success in this great economic demonstration.
