

NEW BRITAIN SEEN BY LLOYD GEORGE

Really Free Land, Without Tyranny and Without Poverty, Foreseen

LEAGUE IS HOPE OF WORLD

By the Associated Press
London, Sept. 18.—Premier Lloyd George spoke before the International Brotherhood congress last evening, but—as was expected—did not touch on many of the important questions in which the nation is deeply concerned. The premier, after an enthusiastic reception, began by saying that a political platform was not involved at the meeting. "If I made a political pronouncement," he added, "I should feel that I was outraging the hospitality of the brotherhood. He dwelt on the passing of the old order through the war and alluded to General Smuts as having employed the most penetrating phrase of the war in reference to the league of nations—"Humanity has struck its tents and once more is on the march." He expressed the hope that all armaments would disappear and that the long-drawn misunderstandings between Ireland and the rest of the kingdom also would pass.

Words Evolve Demonstration
"I am looking forward," he continued, "to seeing waste in all forms disappear and a new Britain springing up—a really free land, free from poverty, from the tyranny of monopolized ownership. Some persons seem to think that I have accepted the position of leading counsel for the old order. Rather than that, I would throw up my brief tomorrow."

This statement provoked a great demonstration, the audience rising and cheering. "Only the spirit of comradeship and co-operation can effect the desired changes, a spirit of deep sympathy with suffering and of the brotherhood of valor exhibited during the war. Having overcome gigantic obstacles, don't let us quake or quaver before smaller obstacles."

Alluding to the league of nations as an organized attempt to substitute fair play for force, the premier was backed about Russia and Ireland, to which he replied: "We must have fair play in each case on both sides."

He added that at the time of the armistice he had not foreseen that the league might be required to prevent small nations from devouring each other. "There never was a league of nations more needed," he said. "I fear the writer of warring nations will continue unless there is a strong hand like that of the federated powers to insist on peace. I see no hope for the world except in such a strong league."

Concluding with an appeal for fair play among all classes, he exclaimed: "It is not sufficient to say that we have won the war. We want to redress the wrongs of the world and redress wrongs. That is due to the immortal dead. They died for the redemption of the world."

Lord Robert Cecil Speaks
Lord Robert Cecil's assertion that "It is not the league of nations covering itself, but its underlying spirit, that can save humanity and civilization" was the keynote of a discussion of the league in the brotherhood congress. Lord Robert Cecil was unable to attend and his address was read. Among other things, he said: "If we rely on the provisions of the covenant to preserve peace we shall be living on a fool's paradise. The most any instrument can do is to remove obstacles from the path of peace and allow the better nature of mankind to have its full influence on international relations."

"We Christians think that in the application of the principles of Christianity to international relations lies the only solution of the problem. With reference to the league," he said, "I am not a fanatical supporter of national selfishness. My sympathies are in the United States than in the country."

World Already at Mercy of 'Big Five'
Prof. George Gilbert Murray, of Oxford, explaining and defending the league, said that it does not put the world at the mercy of the "Big Five." "The world is there already. Without the league the 'Big Five' would be many subtle chieftains."

He supported the provision requiring unanimity before action, "adding, 'I am sure that America, for example, would not give, say, to France, Italy, Japan and a couple of smaller nations the power to direct movements of American soldiers.'"

He emphasized that the league, beside preventing wars, would be able to remove those conditions that heretofore could not be reached, owing to the lack of an international instrument, such as the atrocities in the Congo and the ill treatment of Jews, which is occurring now.

Informal discussions are frequent as to the possibility of a working agreement between the younger members of the Unionist party, headed by Lord Robert Cecil, and the parliamentary labor party, according to the political correspondence of the Central News. It adds that Premier Lloyd George has an ambition to lead such a combination and that, now the premier has returned to London, "the whole situation is full of striking possibilities."

AMERICAN TROOPS ESCORT ROYALTY

King Albert Insisted That Soldiers Accompany Him on Voyage to U. S.

REFUSED TO LEAVE YANKS

By the Associated Press
Brussels, Sept. 18.—When King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Crown Prince Leopold, accompanied by a numerous party, board the steamship George Washington at Ostend for their voyage to the United States they will have as an escort a regiment of American troops who went aboard the transport at Brest yesterday. The taking aboard of the troops was due to the urgent request of King Albert, who refused to take passage on the George Washington if by doing so it would interfere in any way with the return of American soldiers homeward. In fact, the king made that one of the conditions of his visit to the United States, and the American military authorities finally acquiesced. The presence of the soldiers on the George Washington is expected to lighten the voyage, as there is to be a complete program of boxing and other sports in which the king and the royal party are interested. Moving picture shows also will be put on, as is done on every American transport. King Albert has let it be known that he is going to the United States for three things—first, to repay the visit of President Wilson to Belgium; second, to thank the Americans for what they have done for Belgium and all the Allies; and, third, "to learn something." The king is enthusiastic over the prospects of having a good time, but says he hopes the banquets to be given in his honor will be kept to the smallest possible number, as he does not like functions of that kind. In that connection he quoted Herbert Hoover as saying that Europe needed the food and that therefore, the king said, food should not be wasted.

ZIONISTS END SESSIONS

Lay Foundation for a Jewish Commonwealth in Palestine
Chicago, Sept. 18.—The Zionist Organization of America ended its convention last night after laying the foundation for a Jewish commonwealth in Palestine, a homeland for the scattered Jewish people of the world. The delegates rejected a resolution to abolish all parties within the Zionist movement, but adopted a resolution of confidence in the organization's administration and pledged "complete and whole-hearted support to the re-establishment of a Jewish homeland." Restoration of the Jewish language as the mother tongue of the reconstituted Palestine was voted as part of the program. A motion to devote 25 per cent of all funds raised for Palestine work to the Hebrew and Zionist education of American Jewish children and adults was passed enthusiastically.

The Women of New Jersey Appeal for Fair Play

The Woman Suffrage Amendment to the U. S. Constitution passed Congress last spring by more than a two-thirds vote. Both New Jersey Senators voted for it. Nine of the twelve Congressmen either voted or were paired for it. The National Committees of both the Republican and Democratic parties endorse it.

The New Jersey Republican Convention of 1918 endorsed ratification of it. President Wilson favors it. The Constitution provides that the Legislature shall act upon the ratification of amendments. The other eighteen amendments were ratified in this way. Why not the Nineteenth? Opponents of woman suffrage are trying to dodge the issue and evade definite constitutional action by advocating a so-called "referendum," which would cost the State a great deal of money and be constitutionally binding upon no one. The women have played the game according to the rules laid down by the law of the land, and they appeal to the voters to see that men are elected who will not try to unfairly change the rules while the game is on!

Are They Picking On You?

WHEN you get through reading about Shantung, mandatories, shop committees, reservations, fair prices, Yap, the Plumb Plan, two-seventy-five, psycho-analysis and Omsk, don't you sometimes feel a bit low in your mind?

You'll say you do? Then a word in your ear. There's one magazine published in these United States that hasn't printed a line about such weighty matters and won't, unless you demand it.

This magazine is like an unexpected holiday. It comes along once a month and takes you away from a world of alarms into a place full of the jolliest sort of folks who have a ready welcome for you any old time.

This magazine shows you the men and women of the screen working before the camera and playing behind it. It tells you what your favorite is really like, how she does her hair in that fetching way, or why he doesn't read mash-notes.

This magazine is Photoplay, and the next time that you feel like old Josiah F. Atlas, with all the world on your shoulders, ask your dealer for the current issue of Photoplay.

You Would Like to Own a Farm, Would You Not? Why, Certainly, if for no Other Reason Than That of Economy!

Sometime or other, in the life of most every man and woman, this thought has flashed across the mind. Perfectly natural—because everyone knows, who stops to think, that our life blood—our very existence—depends on the soil, and by getting foods at first hand, would certainly cut down table costs. Good reasoning so far, but every man cannot be a farmer, else what would become of the professions, mechanics and business? We have solved the problem by bringing the products of the farm, in one form or other, directly to your table.

Let us prove to you the reality of our Producer-to-Consumer plan, as a Money-Saving possibility.
