EVENING SCHOOLS ENROLLMENT HIGH

Opening Next Monday Will Show Record Since War Began, Says Nussbaum

SALARY INCREASE HELPS

Evening public schools will open in Philadelphia next Monday night with the largest enrollment since the beginning of the war. This is the estimate of Louis Nussbaum, superintendent in charge of evening schools.
"Conditions seem favorable for an increase this year," he said. "But we do not expect any unusual growth in the evening schools to vie with pre-war days till immigration begins again in 1920. Last year a grant per cent of our students are foreign-born men and women or girls and boys, who want to learn the language, history and customs of America. During the war, of course, immigration ceased, and the foreign-born already in the country seem to feel they are already Americanized."
"The Board of Education has increased the salaries of evening school teachers and that is helping us wonderfully. We have had more than 100 additional applicants because of the increase and I believe we shall have enough teachers to supply the demand. The evening school system is in a way a fixed institution and there are certain courses offered each year. But the Board of Education aims to offer instruction along any line demanded. The only thing required is that the group making the demand guarantee good attendance. Then the board will give any instruction at any time at any place, free of charge."

War Caused Falling Off

Enrollment in evening schools fell considerably during the war. There were only 11,588 registered at the close of last year, as compared with 24,655 at the close of the term in 1916.

Evening high school will be conducted in ten buildings. Evening trade school for girls will be held at the Ramsey School, Quince and Pine streets, and there will be elementary school classes in eight buildings.
Languages, mathematics, chemistry, mechanical drawing, bookkeeping, stenography, plumbing, carpentry, electrical wiring and construction, sheet metal work, sewing, dressmaking, cooking, millinery and many other subjects are included in the courses. There are also two special classes in lip reading for the deaf at the William Penn High School and one class for both deaf and dumb at the Kearny school. The Kinzie method of lip reading is taught and the teachers are selected by directors of the Kinzie School of Speech Reading.

Special Course for Gardening

An evening teacher-training course for playgrounds and gardens is to be offered at the West Philadelphia High School for Girls, Forty-seventh and Walnut streets. William Stecher is principal in charge. The sessions will begin October 15 and will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock Wednesday evenings.

Evening high school will be conducted at the following schools:

Central (men and women), Broad and Green streets; Annex No. 1, southeast corner Broad and Green streets; Annex No. 2, Seventeenth and Wood streets; Annex No. 3, Seventeenth and Pine streets; Annex No. 4, Howard below Girard avenue; William F. Gray, principal, Frankford (men and women), Oakland and Harrison streets, John G. Kirk, principal, Northeast (men and women), Eighth and Lehigh avenues, Irvin Robb, principal; Pine Street Philadelphia (men and women), Broad and Jackson streets, Frank C. Nieweg, principal, West Philadelphia (men and women), Forty-seventh and Walnut streets, John Loman, principal, William Penn (women), Fifteenth and Wallace streets, Jonathan T. Rorer, principal.

Free instruction in power machine sewing, dressmaking and millinery will be offered at the Ramsey Building, Quince and Pine streets.

Free instruction in common school branches, citizenship and in English for foreigners will be given in the following schools: Miller, Forty-third and Ogden streets, Frank B. Kline, principal; Durham, Sixteenth and Lombard streets, Clarence R. Whyte, principal; Southwark, Ninth and Milford streets, J. Thornton Emrey, principal; Washington, Fifth street below Washington avenue, Carl W. Arets, principal; Martin, Richmond and Ontario streets, Charles E. Simpson, principal; Meade, Eighteenth and Oxford streets, Annie E. Ring, principal; Columbus, Ninth and Carpenter streets, Walter G. McMullin, principal; Kearny, Sixth and Fairmount avenue, Henry G. Deininger, principal.
Sessions in high, trades and elementary schools will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., beginning next Monday.

Deaths of a Day

G. H. STOUT, TEACHER, DIES

Long Identified With Educational Activities in This City
George H. Stout, for fifty years a teacher and principal in the public schools of Philadelphia, died Tuesday night at his home, 3740 Powelton avenue. He was eighty-five years old.
Mr. Stout was born in Moreland township, Montgomery, eighty years ago, and before he attained his majority taught in the country school there. A few years later he began teaching in the city schools at Fox Chase. He was made a supervising principal, one of the first, when this position was created by Dr. McAllister, then superintendent of schools. From Fox Chase Mr. Stout went successively to Bridsburg, the old Monroe School, the Southwest Grammar School at Seventeenth and Chestnut streets and the Newton School, Thirty-sixth and Chestnut streets, of which he was principal when he retired three years ago, on account of advancing years.

His educational activities were in all directions. For years he organized excursions of teachers to the summer conventions of the National Education Association. He was chairman of the relief committee of the Teachers' Institute and a member of the board of managers of the Educational Club. Forty-three years ago he and the late Edward Grammer led the movement which resulted in the organization of the Teachers' Beneficial Association.

Mr. Stout was one of the city's most expert chess players and this game was his favorite diversion. He was a member of the board of managers of the Mercantile Library and president of the Mercantile Library Chess Club. He was the holder of the club's silver cup, having won the championship three successive years.

Besides a widow and brother, Mr. Stout is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Samuel D. Cornell, of Newtown, Pa.; Mrs. J. Monroe Willard and Mrs. Frank H. Wood, of Huntingdon Valley.

Miss Alle Rutter

Miss Alle Rutter, for many years superintendent of the New Century Club, at 124 South Twelfth street, died in the Rush Hospital on Tuesday after a long illness. Miss Rutter's family were among the early settlers of Montgomery county, and were well-known throughout the state. Two brothers, Henry Potts Rutter and Edward M. Rutter, survive her. Funeral services will be held from a Chestnut street undertaking establishment at 1:30 p. m., today. Interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

William C. Young

William C. Young, a native of Philadelphia and a member of many prominent fraternal organizations, died Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in his home, 6130 Jefferson street. He leaves a wife and a married daughter, Mrs. Ethel Collier.
Mr. Young was the son of William P. Young, an old settler in Philadelphia. The father managed a slaughter house many years, and the son operated a butcher shop in the market at Twenty-second and Spring Garden streets.
Last spring Mr. Young became ill with Spanish influenza, and never fully recovered. He was fifty-seven years old.

Edwin Wilkinson

Edwin Wilkinson, of the firm of E. Wilkinson & Son, textile manufacturers, Kensington, died Tuesday night at the Northwestern Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis. He was forty-four years old.
Mr. Wilkinson was born in Philadelphia January 28, 1875. He became a member of the firm bearing his name about twenty years ago and was active in its management until the death of his father, when he assumed entire charge of the business.
He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, in which he had attained the thirty-second degree; the Union League, the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, the Atlantic City Country Club, the Philadelphia Wool Trade Golf Association and the Manufacturers' Club, in which he was also a member of the board of directors. He was treasurer of the Northwestern Hospital.

SPROUL STUDIES TENANT CHARGES

Governor and Attorney General Will Prosecute Profiteers if Evidence Warrants

LEASES CALLED DISHONEST

Governor Sproul and Attorney General Schaffer are examining the evidence against building and loan associations and profiteering landlords presented by the Tenants' Protective Association of Philadelphia.
Governor Sproul has promised to take immediate action against any association or person criminally liable under the charges of gouging preferred by the tenants.
The evidence now being examined was presented by Isaac L. S. Smirk, representing the Forty-eighth Ward Tenants' Protective Association.
"There is not an honest leasing or rental contract in effect in Philadelphia," declared Governor D. Evans, secretary of the United Tenants' Protective Association.
"Under all the contracts in force today the tenant must waive all rights he is guaranteed under the law," said Mr. Evans. "And there is not one of those contracts that will stand up in the courts, and we dare the landlords to submit to a test case."
Lawyers who harass and intimidate tenants by the bidding of the rent gougers were denounced by Mr. Evans, who declared they would be exposed.
"An endless chain of rent profiteering is being pursued by landlords here, said Mr. Evans. "Conscienceless speculators, operating on a shoe-string, have created entirely fictitious property values and are kiting rents up to meet these bogus values," declared Mr. Evans. "Here is how it works," he said. "The gouger takes up a little money and takes an option on an entire row of rent houses at a figure far in excess of the actual value of the property. He then advances rents on every house in that row $2 a month, basing his demand on the fictitious value he has created on the property."
The tenant is then harassed and hounded and intimidated until he agrees to pay the increase or else moves out under threat of eviction. He seeks another house and runs into another number of the rent pirates. In the end he has to pay a higher rent and has the added expense of moving.

Shyster Lawyers' Work

"Here is where the shyster lawyer comes in. At the rent gouger's behest he adopts every despicable and intimidating trick within the law, and sometimes beyond, to frighten the tenant into paying the increase or to move out. It makes little difference to the pirates which course he adopts."

Gougers Are Defied

Every member of the United Tenants' Protective Association when confronted with a demand for increased rent and a threat of eviction is advised by the association to refuse to pay the increased rent and to laugh at threats of eviction. Mr. Evans declares not one member of the association has been evicted under these circumstances, because, he says, the rent gougers do not dare to go into court.

M'KENTY DEPOSES PRISON CLUB HEADS

Complaints by 200 Convicts to Grand Jury Against Officers Followed by Action

OTHER CHARGES ARE MADE

There has been a shakeup among prisoners at the Eastern Penitentiary. Following a protest by 200 convicts to the September Grand Jury at the Eastern Penitentiary, Robert J. McKenty, warden, has deposed every officer and delegate of the Honor and Friendship Club, a prisoners' organization, which has long been under fire. The protest was made in the yard of the prison when the grand jurors were on their way through the penitentiary. Two hundred convicts in the presence of the warden voiced their protest against conditions at the prison to the jurors.
The Honor and Friendship Club has long been the subject of complaint on the part of the prisoners.
Charges were made it was a one-man club, dominated by Reuben McKenty, the warden's son.
Two delegates to the club were appointed from each block in the prison and these men, it is said, had the run of the prison. In return for these privileges they were asserted to have obeyed the bidding of the president.
When the grand jurors first made their way into the penitentiary the news of their coming spread throughout the institution. The prisoners in the yard quickly mapped out a plan of action. A spokesman was designated and when the grand jurors were led through the penitentiary yard he addressed them. Another prisoner spoke of the discontent with the food at the prison. Warden McKenty at this point rejoined that he had removed one of the men connected with the kitchen, and the men shouted the back of the man in question had resigned voluntarily because of the conditions. Another told of the medical department shortcomings.
Two hours later all the officials and delegates of the Honor and Friendship Club were notified they had been deposed.
