

MUSICAL FESTIVAL TO GREET CARDINAL

Palestrina Choir and Philadelphia Orchestra Will Furnish Belgian Program

RECEIVING PARTY IS NAMED

The Palestrina Choir and members of the Philadelphia Orchestra will unite in producing a Belgian musical festival in honor of Cardinal Mercier...

Nicola A. Montani, founder of the choir, will direct it. The organization is five years old and already has achieved a reputation that is more than local in the music world.

Mayor Smith has announced the personnel of the general committee to assist in receiving the cardinal in the North Philadelphia station at noon on Friday.

Following the reception a procession will be formed. It will go south on Broad street to Spring Garden, to the Parkway, to Broad, round City Hall to the Bellevue-Stratford, where luncheon will be served.

After the luncheon the cardinal will be escorted to the Belgian relief committee headquarters at 1524 Walnut street, and then to the archbishop's residence, Eighteenth and Race streets.

PERSONNEL OF RECEPTION COMMITTEE

- Men of prominence in all walks of life will compose the reception committee named to greet the cardinal. The bench of the bar, the pulpit, the educational, mercantile and industrial world are well represented as well as nearly all religious denominations. The committee follows: Rev. J. J. Adamak, Rev. J. J. Adams, Rev. J. J. Adams, Rev. J. J. Adams...

TENANTS PRESENT GOUGING EVIDENCE

Protective Association Appeals to Attorney General Schaffer in Harrisburg

WANT IMMEDIATE ACTION

Immediate steps to combat rent gouging, real estate profiteering and illegal manipulation of certain building and loan associations will be asked by representatives of the United Tenants' Protective Association, who are in Harrisburg today to present their evidence of such actions to Attorney General Schaffer.

The conference is the outcome of Governor Spruiell's desire to help tenants and the work referred to was under way when he was in office. If I remember rightly all of the Jersey plants were bought for about $87,000. There was no such price as $1000 an acre paid for land on which Jersey plants were built.

Law Forbids Such Loans

I shall give Mr. Schaffer proof that the state laws are being placed at the disposal of real-estate speculators. The state gives to building and loan associations the right to lend money only to bona-fide tenants. As a result they are able to violate the law and sacrifice the right to tax exemption, which they now enjoy because their purpose is to help poor people to buy homes.

BOK LAYS DOWN PEN FOR "PLAY"

Gives Up Editorship of Ladies' Home Journal After Thirty Years

Edward Bok has resigned the editorship of the Ladies' Home Journal. His resignation, sent to the board of directors of the Curtis Publishing Company last December, has been accepted, to take effect January 1, 1920.

In the meantime, Mr. Bok has been granted a conditional leave of absence, H. O. Davis, who has been managing editor for the last six months, taking over his duties. Mr. Davis comes from Los Angeles, Calif.

SEEKS WIDER LEISURE

Mr. Bok has been editor of the monthly magazine for thirty years. During that time he has done nothing but work, he explained, and he resigns to take advantage of the fruits of his labors and play.

The reasons for the resignation are expressed in the following letter to Cyrus H. K. Curtis: September 18, 1919.

My dear Mr. Curtis: May I through you, express my sincere thanks to my fellow members of our board of directors for the magnificent manner in which, at the meeting yesterday, they accepted my resignation, tendered last December, as editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, to take effect January 1, 1920.

No one knows better than you how sincere has been my desire that at the close of my thirty years' editorship of the magazine I should be allowed to retire from the insistent demands of the position, so that I might have more leisure to enjoy the fruits of my labor while I still have the full health and capacity to enjoy them.

With renewed appreciation of the generous action of the board, believe me, Always faithfully yours, (Signed) EDWARD BOK. "I Am Going to Play," Says Mr. Bok

URGES "CITY-MAKING" ALONG HUMANE LINES

Albert Kelsey Launches Campaign to "Open Up" Congested Central District

A campaign for more humane "city-making" was launched today at the luncheon of the Engineers' Club by Albert Kelsey, widely known Philadelphia architect.

Mr. Kelsey urged the engineers to "help form a public sentiment both to check the present lawless building riot and to start a type of reconstruction and broadening out and opening up that will fill the present dreadful lack in the lives of most of our people."

The speaker described the congested part of the city which lies between the two rivers and for a mile north and south of Market street. "Is there," he said, "within that area a single church that is not either overcrowded or overtopped by private buildings or befouled by industrialism? Is there a single ample green and sunny school yard? Is there a single detached sunny and wholly salubrious market building? Is there a single fine place of public amusement and recreation where the plain people may dance, sing and hear good music? Is there a single well-shaded avenue or park where they may dine in the open air? Is there on either of our long water fronts a single terraced garden or promenade where they may watch the sunset, breathe pure air and rest in peace? Is there, in short, in all that vast and densely populated area a single public joy-giving beauty spot where, through the eye and ear, the plain people may obtain a little whole-hearted pleasure and much-needed inspiration?"

Mr. Kelsey told of the project, conceived a quarter century ago, of building the Parkway, and praised the men at City Hall who had elaborated it and carried it through.

He said the architects of the city wanted the co-operation of the engineers in plans "to provide public means for general social improvement and recreation."

LINEMAN ELECTROCUTED

Rain Believed to Have Caused Man's Death By Creating Short Circuit Joseph Mills, thirty-two years old, of Ninth and Federal streets, Camden, was electrocuted last night while engaged in adjustment of the mechanism of an arc light in front of a moving picture theatre on Fifty-second street above Girard avenue.

He was removed to the West Philadelphia Homeopathic Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. The police, who investigated, expressed the belief that the heavy rain dampened the wires in the arc light and caused a short circuit.
