

Bugbee and Edwards Nominated in Jersey

Counted From Face One wards, who piled up 2000 majority. The vote was fairly close. In Essex county, Nugent beat Edwards by 10,000 majority.

Fourteen hundred and forty election districts in the state, by a tabulated vote today, gave Republican candidates these votes:

Bugbee, 45,772; Runyon, 38,242; Raymond, 22,770.

In the same election districts the two leading Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination polled votes as follows:

The Republican assembly ticket nominated in Trenton includes William S. Moore, farmer in the 311th United States Infantry, who as a draftee won a lieutenant's rank for valorous services.

William H. Blackwell, of Titusville, and George Guthrie, of Trenton, are the other two successful nominees for assembly on the Republican ticket in the Trenton district. Moore's vote was 7005, Blackwell's, 5608, and Guthrie's, 6219.

The three Democratic nominees are Charles H. English, of Trenton, who got 2806 votes; Richard Stockton, of Princeton, a world war veteran, who polled 3097 votes; and Israel Howell, who received 2537 votes.

Early returns from the polling places in Trenton showed the Democratic vote to be light and the Republican vote heavy in nearly all sections of the city. There were few Democratic contests. This is believed to have resulted in a snip.

Many Republican Fights The Republicans fought bitterly over nominations for every office. Feeling among partisans ran high throughout Trenton and contiguous counties, and wagers were freely made during the day.

Strangely enough, no contests were waged by the battling hosts of Republicanism for the posts of state commissioner and even the Democrats refused to hoist banners of rival candidates.

Among the Republican county-ants for the superintendency at $10000 a year much coveted, Lloyd Grover, of Princeton, was the winner, with a total vote of 5247. Walter Firth, Sr., and Robert Fielder, both of Trenton, received 4994 and 729 votes respectively.

The lone Democratic candidate, Walter Maddox, had no competitor. He will oppose Grover in November.

John E. Gill, of Trenton, is in charge of the Republican senatorial banner. He is an assemblyman and won over his rival, George W. Adams, of Trenton. The vote stands: Gill, 7659; Adams, 3960. The Democratic senatorial candidate, who ran without opposition is Roy Heath, of Trenton.

Assembly Contest Keen interest centered in the fight for the Republican nomination for assembly in Trenton. Henry Stoddard Moore, Trenton, assemblyman, and William H. Blackwell, an assemblyman, were candidates for re-election, so were William H. Moore, George Guthrie and the Rev. James E. Divercy, a well-known lay preacher of Trenton.

Moore received 7005 votes, Blackwell 5608, and Guthrie 6219, and all were elected. The Republican nominees for the Assembly, having received the highest votes of the five who contested for the three places.

The Democratic contestants for the Assembly nomination besides Israel Howell, were Richard Stockton, of Princeton; Charles H. English, former assistant public prosecutor of Mercer county, and Dr. Lawrence Rogers.

The candidate for Democratic state committee is Joseph S. Huff, of Princeton. He stood alone in the field.

The Republican candidate for state committee, A. Dayton Olliphant, of Trenton, public prosecutor of Mercer county, of which Trenton, besides being the state capital, is the county seat, had no opponent. He will succeed Bugbee, of Trenton.

State Controller Bugbee swept Mercer county like a tidal wave, defeating Runyon, his next nearest opponent by 5807 votes. Bugbee's vote was 7880, Runyon's, 2163.

Thomas L. Raymond, city commissioner, of Newark, received only 1028 votes, and he and Warren C. King, president of the Manufacturers' Council, Bound Brook, were literally snowed under by the avalanche of ballots cast for Bugbee. King polled only 298 votes.

Strong in Country In the rural districts Bugbee had another walkaway, polling 2386, as against 818 for Runyon. The others finished a poor third and fourth and were never in danger.

The state controller was given a fine vote by his own township in every ward, especially his own ward, the Second, which was recorded in the Bugbee column with a substantial margin.

On the Democratic ticket "Tim" Nugent carried the county by a

BURLINGTON COUNTY Burlington, N. J., Sept. 24.—Burlington county's fight for the small board of freeholders apparently has resulted in the election of Charles Stout, of Florence, and George Rogers, of Palmyra, for the three-year term, Fred Lipinoff, of Moorestown, and Howard Rasmussen, of Delanco, for the two-year term, and Maxwell for the one-year term. Governor Runyon received 3254 votes to 2033 for Bugbee, based on returns from fifty-three districts out of sixty-seven. William H. Reeves, of New Lisbon, leads Lawrence Mingin, of Medford, for county clerk, 3955 to 2720. The vote for the State Senate now stands: vote for state senator stands: Blanchard White, 2042; Samuel A. Atkinson, 2091, and Captain Wintersteen, 1535.

ESSEX COUNTY Newark, N. J., Sept. 24.—The first six districts to report in the city of Newark gave Nugent 329 and Edwards 85. There are 292 districts in the city. In six districts out of 159 in Jersey City Edwards had 577, Nugent 37. Seven districts out of thirty-two in Bayonne gave Edwards 439, Nugent, 109; Bugbee, 172; Runyon, 24; Raymond, 25. John T. nation of Edward I. Edwards as governor on the Democratic ticket by about 12,000 plurality, and Newton A. K. Bugbee, Republican, by about 5000. North Jersey was the battlefield for the hottest of the fight, and the smoke had not cleared today when James R. Nugent, defeated Democratic candidate, announced that he would go to Hudson county immediately and demand that the ballot-boxes be sealed awaiting an order for a recount which he intends asking.

Reports made last night to Nugent by 350 soldier watchers he had stationed in Hudson county indicated that there might have been illegal voting in abundance and frauds of all kinds perpetrated in the Hudson county fight to nominate Edwards. The fact that he was defeated by but 1000 votes in Bayonne and 2000 in Hoboken makes the 17,000 plurality of Edward in Jersey City look doubtful to him. Nugent carried several small places in Hudson.

There are many incidents in the Hudson vote that Nugent intends to investigate. In a district in the Third ward of Jersey City where the voters are mostly German and Irish the returns show that he received but one vote as compared to 354 tallies for Edwards. The vote in another district was announced as 391 to 8 when the actual figure, according to Nugent's watchers, was but 01 to 8.

Edwards won the nomination in his home county, Hudson, by piling up an 18,000 plurality. Nugent received but 2000 votes in Hudson, but made a remarkable showing in his home county, Essex, where the vote was approximately 12,000 to 1500 in his favor. Nugent carries Morris, Passaic, Sussex and Union county with small pluralities, not enough to affect the remarkable Edwards vote in Hudson.

Bugbee won the nomination by his big vote in four counties, Atlantic, Hudson, Mercer and Camden. He was defeated in Essex county by Runyon by 5000 votes and Runyon in turn lost the county to Thomas L. Raymond, of Newark, who ran third in the state. Warren, Union, Sussex, Passaic, Morris and Monmouth gave pluralities to Runyon. Union, his home county, gave him 1800 votes more than Bugbee.

Butting on the result of the Edwards-Nugent fight was greater in Newark than at any national election in memory. Mayor Charles P. Gillen, an Edwards hater, personally negotiated bids at 5-4 odds on Edwards in a campaign Newark to the extent of $30,000.

With all but a few districts in Essex county tabulated the "dry" Assembly ticket for the Republican nomination was leading the "wets" by ten votes. The outcome will probably not be known until the official count is made and then it is believed a recount will be asked. Nugent carried his "wet" Assembly ticket through without the least trouble. The Republican organization county ticket was defeated by an independent ticket which was pinned in the field to ride the county of the "fourth house ring," which has been under attack in northern Jersey for a year.

INFLUENZA WARNING SOUNDED BY KRUSEN

Director Tells City to Take Precautions to Prevent Contractions of Disease

While there is nothing to indicate there will be another outbreak of influenza in this city this fall, Director Krusen, of the Department of Health and Charities, urged that all precautions taken last year by individuals to prevent the contraction and spread of the disease be observed this year.

He said that persons who had the influenza last year should not be vaccinated, as they are immune from a second attack. "Such persons should not, therefore, be vaccinated," he said. "We cannot say that such an epidemic will not occur, but if it visits Philadelphia at all it will be of a mild type. This prediction is based on the fact that the scourge of last fall was so terrible and far-reaching that there is reason to believe it cannot be so prevalent this year."

"Then, again," he continued the director, "the country is no longer at war; medical men and students absent at the front one year ago are now home, and there are many more nurses available in general conditions in the city are not as chaotic now, and we have the experience of last fall's epidemic to draw on. All these factors will make it easy to fight an epidemic and prevent its spread, but that there will be cases of influenza this year is a practical certainty."

You can fortify yourself now against this terrible plague by daily drinking 8 to 10 glasses of Eye Talks No. 186 By Joseph C. Ferguson, Jr. Our Next Talk Wed., Oct. 8 HE eye is sometimes just as much an index of one's physical condition as is the pulse. It frequently interprets the workings or failings of the stomach, kidneys or other organs. The oculist is the physician who specializes in correcting troubles that affect the eye. The oculist, because of his dual training—his knowledge of optics plus his thorough medical training—is qualified above all others to correct such troubles. He has no reason to prescribe glasses if other treatment should be resorted to. When glasses are necessary—have them made by a prescription oculist. J. C.
