

DE VALERA INVITED TO CITY BY MAYOR

Visit Scheduled for October 1. Societies to Welcome Irish "President"

WELSH OPPOSES VISIT

Eamon De Valera, "president of the Irish republic," has been invited to visit Philadelphia and assured of a hearty reception by Mayor Smith.

Mr. De Valera is scheduled to visit Philadelphia on October 1. Irish societies and sympathizers in this city and vicinity are preparing to tender him a reception corresponding with the position he holds in the "republic."

Francis Ralston Welsh, of Devon, protested to Mayor Smith before the invitation was dispatched because, he said, the Irish "president" allied his influence with Germany and against Great Britain, ally of the United States, during the war.

The protest was passed by without action by the Mayor, who said he did not propose to notice such criticisms.

The letter of invitation sent by the Mayor follows:

"Sir—As Mayor of the city of Philadelphia, and speaking, I am sure, for its liberty-loving citizens, I have the honor to invite you to visit Philadelphia.

"The kinship of Ireland and Philadelphia is so close and intimate and so many of the citizens, of whom I am an official head, trace their ancestry to your land, that I am sure your welcome here will be most enthusiastic and cordial.

"May I remind you that William Penn, the great founder of our Commonwealth, spent some of the formative years of his life in Ireland and that Thomas Holmes, his advance agent and first surveyor, by whom our city was planned and laid out, was a native of Ireland?"

"Among our chief distinctions is that in Philadelphia were adopted and promulgated the Declaration of Independence and the constitution of the United States.

"May I recall that as to the first of these, although drafted by a committee of which the great Thomas Jefferson was chairman, the instrument itself, as preserved in Washington, is in the handwriting of a native of Ireland, Charles Thomson; and it was first read to the people of Philadelphia by the son of an Irishman, John Nixon, and first printed and distributed to the citizens of the thirteen colonies by another native Irishman, James Dunlap.

"Among the illustrious signers of the constitution of the United States and particularly the representatives of Philadelphia, was Thomas Fitzsimons, a native of Ireland. He has the distinction of first proposing and securing the enactment into law as a member of the first Congress of the United States, that principle of legislation to which America owes so much of its greatness, the imposition of tariffs, not for revenue only, but for the protection and upbuilding of American industries.

"Hoping that your stay with us will be crowded with happiness, I remain, very truly yours,
THOMAS B. SMITH,
Mayor."

LEON ZELENKA LERANDO

CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN TO TEACH AT U. OF P.

Dr. Leon Zelenka Lerando to Conduct Research in Slavonic Immigration History

Prepared to begin research in the history of the Slavonic immigration to the United States, Dr. Leon Zelenka Lerando, a former pupil of President Masaryk, the executive head of Czecho-Slovakia, is at the University of Pennsylvania.

Doctor Lerando was awarded the Benjamin Harrison fellowship. He is secretary of the Society for the Advancement of Slavonic Study which is encouraging the introduction of the study of the Slavonic languages in American universities and colleges and the exchange of American and Slavonic students.

Doctor Lerando next spring will teach several courses in the Czecho-Slavic languages at Penn.

"The period of the Slavonic immigration to the United States is one containing a vast knowledge of American developments," said Doctor Lerando today. My duty shall be to tell about Czecho-Slovakia, to inform Americans of our country and people and to strengthen our international relations.

"The Czechs who were in America during the war fought with the Allies. They fought for justice, peace and liberty."

Doctor Lerando attended the University of Prague in the Austrian nation. He has been at several American universities including the University of Chicago, Northwestern University and Ohio State College. Last year he taught Spanish, French and German in the modern languages department at Swarthmore.

In his research work at Pennsylvania this Czecho-Slovakian will begin with the arrival of the first Czech in this country, Augustine Herrmann, from Prague, who arrived in 1633 and settled at New Amsterdam. The work will continue through the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. He has in his room in the Graduate House, University of Pennsylvania dormitories, a library of several hundred volumes.

WHARTON SCHOOL BREAKS RECORD

U. of P. Has Largest Matriculation on Record—More Entered Today

BIG SEASON AT UNIVERSITY

Hundreds of would-be students eager to enter the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania have been unable to register because of the great matriculation rush.

Many of the men, hearing that the quota of first-year students that the school will be able to accommodate was almost made up yesterday, were on hand early today awaiting the arrival of the registration clerks. Several hundred entered their names today.

Registration is taking place in Logan Hall. The number of freshmen students in the school will be limited to 750. This number was fixed at a special meeting of the faculty on Monday night. It is a bigger quota than ever accommodated before at the school.

Due to the overflow from the Wharton School, the college is fast filling to capacity. In this department, the faculty was forced to limit the number of freshmen premedical students to 130. The rejected Wharton candidates either elected the college courses or decided to go elsewhere to take their chances another year.

In the medical school the limit on the freshman class has been placed at 100 and, although the only one registration day has passed, already 100 applicants have been refused admittance. In the departments of chemistry and chemical engineering, the faculty shut down on applicants last week, and only those whose applications were considered a week ago are being permitted to register.

Of the nine heads of departments, there is only one change. Dr. Emory R. Johnson is the new dean of the Wharton School, succeeding Dr. William McClellan, who resigned last year.

In the Toussaint Scientific School, Dr. John Frazier, who received a leave of absence to accept a captaincy in the chemical warfare service in France, replaces Dr. H. R. Evans, who occupied this position last year. Dr. William Pepper, who received a major's commission in the medical corps, resumes his work in the medical school, and Major Louis A. Klein likewise resumes his place as dean of the veterinary school.

"WAITING AT THE JAIL"

Bride Sits in Station House While Hubby is in Prison

"At home, after 8 p. m., on September 23 in the Thirty-first district station house."

Such a card might have been contained in the wedding announcements of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Marks, because young Marks, a marine and a husband of twenty-four hours, spent part of last night in the Twenty-sixth and York streets station, with his loyal bride of sixteen years waiting in the hearing room.

Marks, who lives on Tenth street near Casuga, was married to Miss Mary Winneberger, Cumberland street near Twenty-sixth, on Monday night, and last night he visited the home of his father-in-law, and after an argument was arrested for trespassing.

He was finally released because of the efforts of his wife.

LESSONS OF WAR PROMPT MANY TO RETURN TO PENN

Men Out of School for Years Rush to Enroll, Seeking Education to Enable Them to "Get Somewhere" in the World

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLDS are a minus quantity at the University of Pennsylvania this year.

The long lines of students before the registration windows today have in them many prospective students whose ages are in the late twenties, and some in the early thirties. The registration will continue until Friday, when the University will formally begin its 1919-20 session with the opening exercises. It is expected to be the largest registration in the history of the institution.

Men who have been out of school for several years were back in the lines today, eager to get signed up for their classes. And the professors who are advising the registering students are finding it an easier task this year, for the men know what they want. They are going to college with a new idea of education. They know exactly what they want, and they want to absorb it as fast as possible and get down to solid work.

The army taught many of them the lesson of application and work, and one can read it on their faces as they line up for registration. The classrooms will present a different variety of attitudes hereafter.

Wharton School of Commerce and Finance is overcrowded. Dean E. R. Johnson, of the school, announced this morning that about 750 freshmen will be registered and the other diverted to college registration. From all parts of the world and every state in the Union, young and old, have come to study the fundamentals of business. They are seeking a chance to assist in the reconstruction of world business and commerce.

Work has a new meaning for University students, and the employment bureau of the Christian Association is swamped with applications for jobs. The war drove home its lesson of work to thousands of Penn men, many of whom labored for Uncle Sam in the grime and dirt of battlefields overseas.

Unable to study for many months, these men "sat on," as they say, in many cases, because of their lack of education, have rushed to the University with a broad yet firm determination to "get somewhere." And they have come to Pennsylvania short of funds, with few clothes, but with any amount of determination, grit and energy.

Yesterday and today found long waiting lines outside the employment office in Houston Hall.

E. H. E. Shaffer, employment director, has sent out a call to Philadelphia businessmen, housewives and corporations. He offers several hundred of the University's brightest and most capable men to fill positions. There already has been a fair response.

In the world, it's a sort of artistic rummage sale and the members of the club have been asked to contribute anything that "they have enjoyed and are willing to pass on to others."

There are to be stalls for the sale of jewelry, books and prints, flowers, sketches and pictures, pottery, glass, arts and crafts, easels and studio accessories, toys, costumes, dresses and draperies, and a great variety of side-shows including fortune telling, sketching, exhibition dancing and a cafeteria.

The proceeds of the sale will go to the building fund for the repairs that were made this summer. Miss Emma F. Sachse is in charge of the arrangements.

Teeth Do Not Stain

It is Film that Clouds Their Whiteness

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Free

A Ten-Day Tube of Pepsodent to show you its effects. See coupon.

Learn the Cause of Decay

Dental science has now traced most tooth troubles to a film. To that slimy film which you can feel.

That is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

The film is clinging. It enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste can dissolve it. A soapy tooth paste makes it more viscous.

So, despite your brushing, much film stays. Night and day it does its damage. It is the great tooth wrecker.

Science now has found a way to combat that film. The fact has been proved by many clinical tests. The method is now advocated by leading dentists everywhere.

For daily use it is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And we are mailing 10-Day Tubes so that every home may try it.

Do This and See

We urge you for your own sake to write for this 10-Day Tube. See the results for yourself.

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

Pepsin must be activated, and science has discovered a harmless activating method. The usual method is an acid, harmful to the teeth, so pepsin long seemed impossible. Now everyone may apply it, morning, noon and night. And the evidence is that this invention brings a new dental era.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Compare results with the methods you use now. Then judge for yourself what is best. Cut out the coupon now.

Look in 10 Days

Note how the teeth glisten. You can see that the film is gone.
