

AFTER FOUR OF WILD AND WOOLY, LEW TENDLER WILL GO ABROAD FOR BOUTS IN ENGLAND

TENDLER LEAVES FOR RING BOUTS IN WEST

Philadelphia Contender for Lightweight Title to Remain in the Wild and Woolly for Two Months

BOOKED IN ENGLAND

By LOUIS H. JAFFE
HORACE GREELY'S dope finally has gotten a "full nelson" on Lew Tandler, Philadelphia's leading light-weight, most persistent and logical contender for Benny Leonard's crown and the only successful southpaw boxer of the day.

In Six Other Cities
While Glasman is unable to name other opponents for Tandler in the West, he is assured of matches in six other cities, where promoters have been anxious to show the Philadelphia star.

HOT OFF THE GRIDIRON

Bucknell's preparation for the Penn game on Saturday continues with increased vigor. Reynolds worked his squad for two hours yesterday, making the line-up of the several kickers and ends through a long drill.

Qualities have begun to appear among the football squad following the introduction of scrimmage work. Harry Rote, a newly-candidate as quarterback, has a wreathed shoulder, and Harry Logue, a backfield candidate, is an inveterate punter.

Due to a slipper ball the work of the football men yesterday was retarded. There was much slipping of punts and the handling of the punts in the forward pass drill was poorer.

The Naval Academy football coach has made an important move in the line by transferring Denfield back to center. Denfield has played guard for two seasons, but as there are a number of men for the position it was decided that Denfield's experience and strength should show to more advantage at center.

A big gap was left in the Rutgers' line today when Duff, left guard, from left tackle, and Storck, left end, were all injured in yesterday's scrimmage. The injuries were not serious, however, and the men probably will be back in the line-up for a time for the Rutgers game on Saturday.

On a field wet and treacherous after heavy rains the football men yesterday went through their practice with a dash and vim which was credit to mid-season. Coach Wood and Leathers put the men through a stiff scrimmage in spite of the fact that this squad has been at systematic work a little over a week.

Prospects are brightening at the Heights by the addition of veterans to the N. Y. U. football squad. The six eleven men of 1918 and Baker, 1917 end and fullback, made their first appearance on Oct. 10, yesterday. Both were put through a hard workout on a muddy field and were well pleased.

The big squad of Tiger football candidates celebrated the official opening of the university yesterday by splashing through a rain-soaked field in a practice run. Sixteen men were present, and the number up to eighty. This is one of the largest turnouts in the history of the team.

THOUSANDS AT FAIR

Allentown on Racing Card at Allentown, Pa., Sept. 24.—Heavy rains rendered the track at the fair grounds fetlock deep in mud yesterday, preventing the opening day's racing card at the Allentown Fair. In spite of the southerly rains thousands of people visited the fair grounds this afternoon. This was children's day, and they attended in large numbers.

BEAUCOUP TENNIS IF COURTS PERMIT

Second Rounds in Both Men's and Women's to Be Played Today

MARYLAND NEXT WEEK

A red sun sinking in the gloaming today will cast a favorable eye, it is hoped, on the attempt to stage the second round for the men's tennis championship of Philadelphia.

If the courts are dry enough play will commence this afternoon for the doubles championship also. Bill Tilden, present champion, and Wallace Johnson, semifinalist in the national, are the two bright and particular stars of the tournament, and will draw a flock of huzzards for their matches on the championship court at twilight today.

Another player who is expected to draw a ringside crowd is Arnold Jones, fifteen-year old pellet swatter, who won the boys' national title and is entered against his grown-ups for the local title. The kid won a great match Monday after thirty-nine hot games in the region.

Some very fast women players continue today in the bouting, though Miss Mollie Thayer, who won the Philadelphia title last week in a flurry of the club, did not enter her own club tournament. A week of serious play at the Country Club won her a respite, she feels.

Many experts here for the women's Maryland tennis championship, which goes to the courts on Monday next week. It was one of the feature events of the main days before the war, but has been abandoned for two years.

In the old days most of the stars of Philadelphia, Wilmington, Richmond and Washington entered, and a big list is looked for there.

SCRAPS ABOUT SCRAPPERS

BILL, THE HARD, gained much fame with his pound of flesh after he had scribbled "616" following the final period of his "Merchant of Venice," and now Benny Leonard and Lew Tandler are becoming defamed more or less in the minds of fight fans because of their squabble over a couple of pounds.

Apparently the boxes of today care little about a matter of weight, as Bobby Reynolds, retired, would have it. Harketh to Sir Robert: "In Jersey City Tuesday night Frankie Burns, bantam, was stopped by J. Kilbane, featherweight champion, and not so long ago Johnny was handed a sock on the chin by B. Leonard, lightweight kink. A few weeks ago here at the Philadelphia Park this same Benny flung fists at Soldier Hartfield, whose weight is a little less than and almost that of the Soldier in his time has mingled with Harry Greb, who has been introduced to Bar Levinsky in the ring, and the latter admits that Jack Dempsey knows how to cure one suffering from insomnia. So there you have it. There must be something or another wrong in the construction of our boxing weights. 'Est se pas? (That, out, Bobby was in France.) Take the two extremes in the foregoing problem. Can you imagine it? For Benny trying to sock J. Dempsey on the beaver?"

Joe Burman, the best pug from Phila. will arrive in town Sunday for his melee with Tommy Jamieson and Alertoen Bruders in the ring at the Atlantic City Sporting Club, Monday night, when he will fight with Brown pugna pugna in the general draw, as well as with Alertoen Bruders, who is eight rounds. Both of these rounds will be between Willie Calton and Walter Henry, while the opener, Jack Jamieson vs. Frankie Leonard, will be six rounds.

Joe Borrell, of Kensington is to make his boxing debut in the 1919-20 season Friday night, when he will be in the ring with Billy Kramer at the Cambria. Borrell has a lot more uncomfortable than Joe believes, as he will be in the ring with Alertoen Bruders, who is eight rounds. Both of these rounds will be between Willie Calton and Walter Henry, while the opener, Jack Jamieson vs. Frankie Leonard, will be six rounds.

Johny Dundee was one of the American boxers signed up by Redmond Barry for a series of bouts in England. Before leaving for the land of John Bull, however, the top will appear in several bouts in Philadelphia. Dundee is a very good worker in a two-round bout, and he will be in the ring with Alertoen Bruders, who is eight rounds. Both of these rounds will be between Willie Calton and Walter Henry, while the opener, Jack Jamieson vs. Frankie Leonard, will be six rounds.

Adam Ryan has secured his armistice at 2835 and Vine streets. He has a down house setting into phase for the 1919-20 campaign now under way.

Willie Meekhan's manager on the coast is said to be a man named Tom Gray. This man is a very good worker in a two-round bout, and he will be in the ring with Alertoen Bruders, who is eight rounds. Both of these rounds will be between Willie Calton and Walter Henry, while the opener, Jack Jamieson vs. Frankie Leonard, will be six rounds.

Jack Dempsey's theatrical venture having been cancelled it seems to indicate that the same class with Sullivan, Corbett, Ellis et al.

Wise truck buyers today are more interested in facilities for rendering prompt and economical service than in the location of the sales room. We could secure more pretentious quarters on "the row," but this would compel us to give service in a dark basement or elevate the trucks to the second or third floors—to say nothing of the increased rent. These extra expenses could only be met by slighting our service or charging more for it.

Our Philadelphia service station and stock of parts are equal to the best in the city, and we maintain competent mechanics and complete equipment to forge, rivet, weld or machine any truck part.

G-B Trucks need no more attention than others—they just get it more promptly and at more reasonable cost.
