It was, in short, a steel session in the sense that the stock market has not been for some time back.

News dispatches from the strike districts were very cheering, indicating as they did that workmen were returning in substantial numbers, and that serious rifts had taken place in the ranks of those who had walked out.

Fitzpatrick, its stated his willingness to arbitrate. Whether this attitude might be intersected erenters was conjectural. At any rate, Judge Gary, speaking for himself in and the interests under his care, was not willing to arbitrate. Nevertheless, the financial community looked for one of two things to happen in the near future—either the strike movement would selected the strike movement when the strike movement would selected the strike movement would selected the strike movement when the the Senate as to the causes of labor would collapse or the government would feel constrained to take a hand. Mean-while, developments seemed to justify a hopeful view since emphasis was placed on reports that workmen were return-ing to the mills. Whether these were striking workmen who had become disstrising workmen who had become dis-illusioned or workmen who had stayed away to avoid trouble or even strikers who sought to aid the cause from within was a question. Thus the true situa-tion could not be clearly defined, and such uncertainty as there was had to be carried over into next week.

President Not a Factor
The Uresident's entoreed abandonment of his western trip because of strain on his health was not, strictly spenking, a factor in Wall street affairs. It did not appear that his condition called for anxiety, but that he capital suggested a more concentrated effort on such problems of the hour as the steel strike.
But this, soo, would have to go over until next week at least, as it remained to be seen how soon Mr. Wilson would be able to give attention to public affairs. Judge Gary is not scheduled to testify before the Nenate committee until Wednesday next, and his testimony is anticipated with the greatest interest. SURPRISED AT STRIKE

That the authorities of the country are aware of the real situation has been indicated several times during the week. The attacks and charges made against W. Z. Foster, who is handling the strike in the Pittsburgh district by Representative Cooper, of Ohio, was only one instance. It was shown that even the religious brown that the strike of the religious brown that the strike representative cooper, of Ohio, was only one instance. It was shown that Below Estimate Made by Radical Labor Leaders

That the fight in the steel industry is the most momentous in the history of this country is admitted on all sides. The radical element, which apparently has gained control of the American Federation of Labor in this situation, is making every effort to inculcate their beliefs to the working classes, and it is believed that the steel industry was series believed for its first attempts from that source in the future.

est while the labor situation was disturbing other avenues for funds at investors' disposal was a subject for conjecture. That tax considerations played a part was scarcely to be gainsaid. Buying by the government on account of the sinking fund was a factor in the rise also. It was estimated that close to $1.000,000,000 of the bonds had been retired to date. The extent of these purchases augured well for the government's nbility along the same line in the future and at the same time behooved those who were attracted by the existing yields, as well as be too. workers quit, leaving 60 per cent in the plants to carry on the activities.

FINANCIAL BRIEFS

The backbone of the strike appears The backbone of the strike appears to have been broken, although in the West, where the activities of the union organizers were prenounced during the ten days before the walkout, there is still room for much improvement in many sections, but it is certain that with the collapse of the strike in other sections there will be desertions from the western ranks. the western ranks.

It is known that the steel authorities have felt right along that the strike would have to be fought to a finish and there is no doubt that many of them expected a harder struggle than actually developed. The point is made that it would have been better to have the entire steel industry destroyed and defeat the nims of the agitators than to make any compromise agreement, be-cause it was felt that the radical ele-ment in control of the strike would have been given an upper hand and would have aimed its next darts directly at the government itself. The records of many of the organiz-ers who worked in the steel industry are said to be most interesting. They show that only recently these men nected directly with the Industria Workers of the World, which made its only attack against the copper industry and which was defented in its aims
