

LEGION TO FIGHT POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Move in State Cantonment to Prevent Public Officials Ruling Heroes' Body

TO BEAT OUT BOLSHEVISM

By a Staff Correspondent
 Harrisburg, Oct. 3.—"Politics not politics" is the slogan of the state cantonment of the American Legion now in session here. The delegates on all sides express their determination that the organization must pull nobody's political cart.

In fact, sentiment at the convention is expected to crystallize into resolutions providing that any officer of the legion who is a candidate for public office and is elected should at once resign his office in the legion.

Headquarters in the Hotel Penn Harris buzzed with activity all morning while this and other important matters were being discussed in committee, in preparation for the big meeting this afternoon and tomorrow.

Delegations have come from various parts throughout the state, bringing with them resolutions covering a wide range of subjects. These are now in the hands of the committee on resolutions, of which George Wentworth Carr, of Philadelphia, is chairman.

Because the resolutions to be adopted by the convention, when presented tomorrow morning, will sound the keynote of the organization, this committee easily is the most important here. The various suggestions received are being listed, and all the resolutions will be presented to the convention when it re-assembles in the morning.

To Fight Bolshevism
 Among those presented it is known there are anti-Bolshevik ones, anti-syndicalist ones and resolutions condemning the Industrial Workers of the World. Others denounce any attempt at political activity upon the part of the organization, while another covers the suggestion that no member of the legion shall be an officer of the organization and hold public office of any kind at the same time.

Other resolutions call for remedial measures upon various matters affecting men and women in the service, or who have served. For instance, it is at present necessary for yeomanettes to take a stiff civil service examination before they can be permanently reappointed to the service after having been demobilized following their temporary appointments.

The yeomanettes feel that their long and successful apprenticeship should entitle them to reappointment, other things being equal, without this examination.

Any resolution calling for extravagant state bonuses to discharged soldiers and sailors, it is said, will be frowned upon. For instance, there are hints of one resolution calling for a year's pay for demobilized fighters. This would amount to a tremendous sum in a state where more than 340,000 men were in the service. No doubt exists that this and similar suggestions will be voted down. Any action upon this subject, it is said, will be most conservative.

Oppose Blue Cornflower
 Yeomanette Post No. 150, of Philadelphia, of which Miss Margaret C. Thomas is chairman, will present a resolution, it is said, making unlawful the wearing of the blue cornflower, now known to have been a symbol of the enemy alien during the war.

There have been no disputes concerning credentials. Every delegate so far has presented papers that were in perfect order.

A well defined boom for Major Robert Livingston Denig, United States marine corps, of Philadelphia, for state chairman, has developed. His campaign is being managed by R. R. Hogan, formerly a marine major. The present temporary state chairman, George F. Tyler, of Philadelphia, it is understood, however, will stand for re-election.

Colonel Franklin D'Olier, now on the national executive committee, was at one time looked upon as a strong candidate, but it is said his work upon the national committee has been so valuable he will probably be retained there.

Williamsport wants the next convention, and the members of Post No. 1, which has 1100 members, is putting up a strong bid for the meeting. Carl A. Schug, of Hughesville, is chairman of Post 1.

Block Convention Control
 Upon each of the nine committees that have been appointed are twenty-seven members. Each of the nine territorial districts has elected three men to each committee. The representation is uniform, and this makes it impossible for a big city like Philadelphia with its large delegation to control the convention. The Philadelphia delegates, in fact, declare this is the one thing they want to prevent—control by any one section.

The Philadelphia delegation, however, is well organized. Their "steering committee," to handle matters in which the Philadelphians are interested follows:

ELLIS COLLEGE TO OPEN
 Exercises to Be Held Tomorrow at Institution for Fatherless
 Formal opening of the Ellis College for Fatherless Girls, located on a 100-acre farm about four miles from Chestnut Hill, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. In connection with the opening exercises there will be an exhibition of articles made by the students in the manual training class.

The nineteen students and the invited guests will be addressed by Dr. Cheesman A. Herrick, president of Girard College; Dinner Becher, president of the Commonwealth Title Insurance and Trust Company; Malcolm Lloyd, president of the board of trustees of the institution; Samuel Fleisher and Thomas G. Parris, superintendent of the college. Music will be a feature.

The college was made possible through provisions in the will of Charles E. Ellis, who died several years ago. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Richardson, the house matron, said today that about thirty girls are expected to enroll during the fall. The first student was received at the college July 1 last.

Publicity Man
 Is there a manufacturing concern or other organization in Philadelphia that is big enough to see the advantage of having a wide-awake advertising and publicity man on its staff?
 I can show the advantages in an interview.
 The concern must be big and warrant the publicity. A 329 Ledger Office.

Golden Special To-morrow

Two Hundred Fine Trimmed Autumn HATS

Wonderful Value At $8.50

The Golden Special sign will be found in the Millinery Store to-morrow—and seldom indeed has it glowed upon a more exceptional value. The average regular price would be, conservatively, ONE-HALF MORE than this special price. They are of excellent velvet, in black and colors. The shapes are smart, ultra-fashionable—including the new hand-made effects in shirring and draping. The brims are clever adaptations of the newest French styles. These lovely Hats have just come from our own workrooms—trimmed with catrich feather bands, plumes and fancies, in many cases combined with fur, metallic ribbons, flowers or ornaments. The entire lot should be sold to-morrow, at $8.50 each.

The display throughout the Millinery Store is at its best for Saturday—a wonderfully varied collection of Hats for Women, Misses and Children. This is Headquarters for Velour Hats.

Just Arrived 2400 Neckties to Sell at 65c

One of our regular suppliers, who secured a large yardage of fine Neckwear fabrics at a price-concession, shared his good fortune with us. Ordinarily the price of these Neckties would be considerably more. They are faultlessly made, and in an excellent selection of tastefully chosen patterns. Your own judgment can tell the remarkable value presented by this collection, better than we—so see them yourself, and as early as possible.
