

Nation's Belgian Guests : Repatriating German Prisoners : Darby Fair : Airplane Tricycle

KING ALBERT of the Belgians and Rodman Wanamaker, chairman of the mayor of New York's reception committee, arriving at the Battery for the elaborate official welcome tendered the visiting warrior-king by New York city.

THE AMERICAN ARMY abroad has repatriated 37,000 German prisoners to their homeland without waiting for the ratification of the peace treaty. Is-sur-Telle, France, is the clearing house for Germans captured by Americans. The prisoners on arrival are deloused, fitted out with clean clothing, paid for all their extra work at the official rate of four cents a day and re-embarked for Germany.

CROWN PRINCE LEOPOLD, Duke of Brabant, heir apparent to the throne of Belgium, who is accompanying his soldier father and queen mother on their visit to the United States.

AIRPLANE TRICYCLE, popular in London at present. The tricycle was designed by an English army aviator for his little daughter. Of course it doesn't fly, but it gets over the ground in fast time.
