

The Testing of Julia Grant

By HAZEL DEVO BATCHELOR

In This Chapter Dan Wins the Sympathy of Julia's Sister

READ THIS FIRST

Dan Carson confesses to Julia Grant three weeks before their marriage that he is in love with another woman and Julia releases him.

THEN START THE STORY

DAN CARSON'S first feeling after his experience with Nancy Cromwell had been one of intense anger.

But it was characteristic of him that all during this time he thought of himself first and never of Julia.

One morning Dan met Lucy Grant in the street. He had gone out for lunch early and Lucy was evidently shopping.

Lucy wavered and then stopped. She was uncertain as to what to say, and Dan was uncertain as to what attitude to take.

Lucy's eyes widened. "What do you mean? Aren't you going to marry the other girl?"

"Dan, you didn't change your mind after it was too late?" Lucy's tone was thrilled.

"Dan, you look awful; what is the matter?" she began.

"For a moment Dan was natural and spoke as he felt.

"Dan, you didn't change your mind after it was too late?" Lucy's tone was thrilled.

Accidents will occur, but infection need not.

You never know just when it is going to happen. Generally without warning a slip is made—a deep cut—a broken and bruised skin is the result.

Against the wound and bandage—it heals twice as fast this way.

Resinol Face Powder Wins

Be careful always to select the right shade. If you are blonde, get flesh color; blended if you are of medium coloring; brunette, if you are dark; cream, if you have an olive complexion.

not let Julia believe that this was the truth; for Lucy would be sure to tell her sister. It would put him in a better light with every one and the Grant girls would not be likely to ever meet Nancy Cromwell.

"I said I'd been a fool, Lucy," he said, "and I meant it. If I'm unhappy it's my own fault. But a man often ruins his whole life by doing something on the spur of the moment that he may regret for the end of his days."

(Tomorrow, Lucy tells the family about meeting Dan on the street.)

WAR WORKERS HOME; TO BE MARRIED HERE

Sister of Thomas Raeburn White to Be Bride of New Zealander

With the marriage of Miss Esther White, sister of Thomas Raeburn White, on Wednesday afternoon, to Theodore Rigg, of Wellington, New Zealand, comes the climax of a war-time romance which started two years ago, when the couple met in the interior of Russia.

At that time Miss White was in Russia with the Friends' unit, helping to establish hospitals for the war sufferers. Mr. Rigg was engaged in the same work and for several months their work was so identical as to keep them together most of the time.

The ceremony will be held at the Friends' Meeting House, Coulter and Greene streets, Germantown.

DEAF SCHOOL TO OPEN

Speech-Reading Club Has Made Many Changes for Students

Students in speech-reading are beginning to arrive today and all the activities of the Speech-Reading Club of Philadelphia, 1006 Locust street, will start this week.

The Tulip Tearoom opened this morning with additional space and new furnishings. The Women's Exchange, with exquisite hand work done by deafened women and placed on sale for their benefit, is ready for visitors.

Sunday school for deaf men, women and children will be conducted at the club at 4 o'clock each Sunday afternoon, beginning October 12.

Miss Cora Elsie Kinzie, director of the club, has announced many new attractions for this season, including lectures, plays, entertainments and classes for deaf persons.

To Urge Ridge Avenue Alumni Amos Chamberlain, principal of the Darby schools, will ask the school board at its meeting tonight to sanction a plan of an old pupils' organization among those who formerly attended the old Ridge Avenue School.

WOMAN MAJOR WEARY OF PARADING; WILL QUIT

Mrs. John J. O'Brien Announces She Will Retire From Staff of Governor of Florida in April

Mrs. John J. O'Brien is tired of parading and will retire as major on the staff of the governor of Florida next April.

Mrs. O'Brien was formerly Mrs. George Quintard Horvitz and prominent as a vice president of the Emergency Aid before the duties of the office of mayor of Moore Haven, Florida, and tomato and potato farming.

Mrs. O'Brien refused renomination as mayor of Moore Haven when her term expired June 1.

"I was made a major on the Governor's staff as a war measure," said Mrs. O'Brien today. "I was to represent all the organizations interested in food stuffs in the state."

Mrs. O'Brien refused renomination as mayor of Moore Haven when her term expired June 1.

"I was made a major on the Governor's staff as a war measure," said Mrs. O'Brien today.

"Being mayor is very interesting, all except the court work," says Mrs. O'Brien.

"I'm on vacation, now, the first one I have had in two years. But both Mr. O'Brien and I are here on business, too. We hardly have time for a vacation. I have come to put my ten-year-old son, Orville, into school."

Mrs. O'Brien is enthusiastic about the climate, soil and crops of Florida

CONFER ON TUBERCULOSIS

Experts Will Open North Atlantic Meeting Here Thursday

Methods of combating the white plague will be discussed by health and sanitation authorities of national renown this week during the sixth annual North Atlantic Tuberculosis Conference to be held in the Bellevue Stratford Hotel on Thursday and Friday.

Among those who will take part in the conference are Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, whose work in matters of health reform already has attracted nationwide attention; Homer Folks, head of the Red Cross Tuberculosis Commission of Europe during the war; Walter D. Turber, secretary of the Illinois Tuberculosis Association; and Dr. Harriet B. Jones, who carried the work of health education to the more inaccessible mountainous sections of West Virginia.

MISS WHITE TO BE BRIDE

Sister of Thomas Raeburn White to Marry Theodore Rigg

Miss Esther White, sister of Thomas Raeburn White, 151 West Coulter street, Germantown, will be married to Theodore Rigg, of Wellington, N. J., Wednesday afternoon.

Miss White spent several months with the Friends' unit in Russia, where she helped establish hospitals during the war. The marriage will take place in the Friends' Meeting House at Coulter and Greene streets, Germantown.
