DR. J. A. HEARST DIES

Specialist Was Youngest Student to Take Medical Course at U. of P.

Dr. John A. Hearst, for many years prominent in medical circles in this city, died at his home, at Germantown avenue and Walnut lane, shortly before 9 o'clock on Saturday night of heart disease. His health had not been good for some months and three weeks ago his condition became serious, when he contracted a severe cold.

Doctor Hearst, who was born on April 18, 1871, attended the Germantown Grammar School and was the youngest student to enter Central High School. He was also the youngest member of the University of Pennsylvania who ever took up the study of medicine there.

For a year after obtaining the degree of M. D. he was resident physician in the Germantown Hospital. In 1894 he became connected with the Polyclinic Hospital and remained an active member of the staff until a month ago.

Doctor Hearst specialized on diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, and wrote much on those subjects.

He is survived by his father, a sister and two brothers. He was a member of the American Medical Society and the city and county medical societies.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the undertaking establishment of Kirt & Niece, Germantown avenue and Washington lane.

Mrs. Thomas F. Kelly
Mrs. Thomas F. Kelly, of 2401 North Broad street, died Saturday at her cottage on Beach avenue, Cape May, after an illness of several years. She was the widow of Thomas F. Kelly who amassed a fortune in the thirty years he owned and conducted the National Theatre, at Tenth and Callowhill streets. He also owned the Forepaugh Theatre, which is still under the management of his estate, although the National Theatre was sold a few years ago to the American Ice Company.

Mrs. Kelly, who was seventy-six years old, was active in the affairs of the Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church, Broad street and Susquehanna avenue, where a solemn mass of requiem will be celebrated on Wednesday, at 9:30 a. m.

A son Howard I. Kelly, who was manager of Forepaugh's Theatre, died in Cape May on August 2 last. The surviving children are: Mrs. John I. Monroe, Joseph J. Kelly and Thomas F. Kelly, Jr., who spent nearly two years with the 115th Regiment, U. S. Engineers, in France.

Dr. George W. Parker
Dr. George W. Parker, a retired physician, eighty years old, died yesterday morning in his home, 5030 Market street, after suffering a stroke Friday morning. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Doctor Parker served during the Civil War in the Eighteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers and was a member and past commander of George B. Meade Post No. 1, G. A. R. He was graduated at Hahnemann College and was a member of the first graduating class of that institution. He was a native of Philadelphia.

Ambrose Pownall
Ambrose Pownall, a retired hay merchant, who for years was a partner in the firm of Orhat & Pownall, died yesterday at the home of his son-in-law, Howard L. Townsend, at 4912 Walton avenue, after a long illness. Mr. Pownall was in his ninety-fifth year and was the oldest voter in the Forty-sixth ward. He cast his last vote for Governor William C. Sprout and the last letter he wrote was to the state's chief executive, of whom he was a great admirer. Mr. Pownall was born in Lancaster county. He is survived by five children, thirteen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. The funeral services will be held on Wednesday and interment will be at Christiansa, Pa.

James Dunn
James Dunn, a retired merchant, died suddenly yesterday in his home, 2209 South Sixty-third street. He was seventy-five years old and death was caused by heart disease. Mr. Dunn had been on a three months' visit to relatives in West Chester and returned to this city yesterday.

SEEKS ARMY HERE TO AVERT MURDER

General Torcom Wants Force for Armenia to Replace British Troops

WARNS OF IMPENDING CRIME

After taking steps for recruiting here among Armenian workmen for an army of 5000 or 10,000 to go to Armenia when the British soldiers are withdrawn, General Torcom, official representative of the Republic of Ararat will leave Philadelphia today for Washington, to appear before the Senate foreign relations committee. He has appeared before the committee before.

He explained his plan to raise troops for Armenia, at a meeting last night in the Parkway Building. Nearly half of Philadelphia's 4000 Armenians crowded the hall to hear him. It was his first address in his recruiting campaign and the beginning of a tour of America to arouse Armenians in this country to the danger of new massacres when the British army is withdrawn from Armenia.

General Torcom is also asking America to send troops and provisions to Armenia until he can raise his troops here. "The British are gradually withdrawing the 60,000 men they have in my country," he said, "and unless the troops are replaced by others, we may expect a repetition of the wholesale murders of our men, women and children we had during the war. We lost 1,200,000 people through the massacres and starvation and we cannot afford to lose more or we will be exterminated."

"The Peace Conference has completely deceived the Armenians. On more, during a period of forty years, the politicians of the old world remain immovable before the terrible tragedy of our unfortunate country. Not only the largest part of our territory, in which are the graves of thousands of our martyrs, but the very existence of our new country, is in danger."

"Ten months ago I appealed to my countrymen in Europe and America for aid in this crisis. I did not permit myself to be deceived by promises of allied politicians," he continued. "I knew they had deceived us. Now we must help from the Armenians in America and America itself."

General Torcom will carry his campaign in every part of the country. There is a settlement of 100,000 Armenians in America.

LEGION OFFENDS IRISHMEN

Attack on De Valera Brings Denunciation by Three Bodies

Resentment was strong yesterday among Irish-American citizens of Philadelphia at the attitude of the men of the American Legion who assailed Eamon De Valera as a traitor at their convention in Harrisburg last week. In some quarters they were called British sympathizers and swivel-chair warriors.

Three of the Irish-American organizations of the city formally expressed disapproval of the action of the Legion and adopted resolutions to that effect. They are the United Irish Societies, meeting at 1422 Chestnut street; the O'Hanly branch of the Sons of Irish Freedom, who met in the parish school of St. Francis de Sales' Roman Catholic Church, Forty-seventh street and Springfield avenue, and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, conducting their biennial county convention at 1606 North Broad street.

MISS KATHERINE CRAIG BIDDLE

BIDDLE FUNERAL TOMORROW

Services to Be Held in Torresdale for Mrs. Katherine Craig Biddle

The funeral of Miss Katherine Craig Biddle, who died Saturday in the Laennau Hospital, will be held tomorrow morning in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Torresdale. Miss Biddle's home was in State road, Torresdale. Her death was caused by pneumonia.

Miss Biddle was forty-six years old. She was a daughter of the late Colonel Charles J. Biddle, a distinguished officer of the Mexican and Civil Wars.

Her mother, who before her marriage was Miss Emma Mather, died December 8, 1918, at her home, 2110 De Lancey place, in her eighty-eighth year. The late Judge Craig Biddle, one of Philadelphia's most eminent jurists, was an uncle of Miss Biddle.

Major Charles J. Biddle, one of America's most successful aviators in the war, who thrice was awarded the Croix de Guerre and was commended by General Pershing, is a nephew of Miss Biddle.

SUIT ON CITY LOAN COMES UP TODAY

$8,000,000 of Contracts Ready to Award When Court Decides Validity

ARGUMENTS IN PITTSBURGH

Eight million dollars' worth of work in city contracts is ready for awarding as soon as the Supreme Court announces the result of the taxpayer's suit attacking the validity of the $12,070,000 councilman loan. Argument begins on the case in Pittsburgh today.

In anticipation of a verdict in favor of the city, Director Datesman, of the Department of Public Works, has perfected plans for letting the contracts immediately so there may be no more delay in the construction of bridges, sewers and street work to be covered by appropriations in the loan.

The $42,000,000 general loan, authorized in 1916, and the $67,100,000 transit and port loan, are attacked in the same suit. All will be upheld, it is believed.

Besides this $8,000,000 worth of work, for which preparations are virtually complete, other public improvements entailing an additional expenditure of nearly $8,000,000 depend on the outcome of the suit. These comprise the elimination of grade crossings, new bridges and the development of the city's sewage disposal system.

The work on which bids have been received or are about to be received and for which contracts are ready for award is: Branch sewers, 100 in number, costing about $1,000,000; bridges, two in number, costing $125,000; main sewers, $250,000; sewage disposal, $250,000; street repairs, $1,000,000; repaving of streets, $550,000; paving of streets, $300,000; grading of streets, $150,000; construction of country roads, $200,000.

Contracts are ready to be awarded on all of the street work and 75 per cent of the sewer and bridge construction. The remaining 25 per cent now is being advertised and bids will be opened within a few days.

In the preparation of plans for street improvements and sewers the Department of Public Works has been careful to include streets about to be developed for housing purposes. Many of the branch sewers to be constructed will for the first time introduce modern sanitation in a number of old sections of the city.

Only 182 "Up the River"

Since July 1 the number of male inmates at the House of Correction, Holmesburg, has dropped from 600 to 182. H. I. Davenport, master warden, said today this decrease may be attributed directly to prohibition.

"I never believed you could get such a good-looking Suit in Ready-Made Clothes!"

You see it was his first visit to us.

He was brought in by a friend, at that.

He was a dyed-in-the-wool custom-tailor man who had thought it necessary to have a lot of measuring done, following by a lot of try-ons and revampings.

Today he knows better.

Knows he can get a Suit that will fit him to a nicety.

Knows he can put on a dozen or a score of them one after another and see the finished picture before committing himself.

And has discovered also that there's real snap and go to the lines of the coat surpassed by none and equaled by few.

Besides costing him less money than clothes of equal character cost the tedious way.

It's worth investigating anyway.
