

NEW YORK VS. QUAKER GOLF TEST SUGGESTED

Mixed Teams of Ten in a Two-Day Tourney Is the Idea. Shawnee, Advertisers, Atlantic City and Other Golf Tilts on the Boards

AMIDST the friendly rivalry between the golfers of Philadelphia and New York there now arises the proposition of a tournament between the two cities. The proposition is now mostly in the form of suggestions and depends on the definite challenge by either the local golf association or the Metropolitan.

It has been suggested that five of the best men golfers and five of the best women golfers of this city engage in a links tilt with a like team of New York, the men to play the men in singles, the women to play each other likewise, and then on the second day for each city to pair up in mixed foursomes.

It has been suggested to make it a week-end affair; for instance, the angles to be played in New York and the mixed foursomes in Philadelphia on successive Saturdays; or to make it a two-day affair, singles and doubles in New York and the following week here.

The discussion is partly the outcome of the two national tournaments, Oakland and Shawnee, and partly the result of the Griscom and Lesley cup matches. There has always been rivalry between New York and Philadelphia in nearly every branch of sport, which is a great thing for sport, incidentally, and it is felt that a tournament such as the one suggested would boost golf if it were carried out all over in cities within easy reach of each other as New York and Philadelphia.

Highly Favorable
Miss Marion Hollins, metropolitan women's champion, is highly in favor of the idea.

"We can easily get up a team among the New York women," she said at Huntington Valley, where she is playing today in the Berthelmy cup, "and I know we could get five of our men interested, too."

She did not know whether a challenge would come through the Metropolitan Golf Association or not, but did not think that too essential, just so both teams got together and played it out.

Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, local women's champion, was also very enthusiastic.

"It would be a great thing for golf in both cities," she said, and expressed the hope that it could be arranged. Mrs. Vanderbeck was of the same accord, and so was Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, who represents the locals in women's national golf matters.

Would Arise
It is felt by all enthusiasts for the plan that the men golfers would play the occasion in defense of the golf of their local cities.

With Pat Grant, Woody Platt, George Hoffer, Norman Maxwell, Max Marston, Paul Tewksbury, Sidney Sharwood, Francis Kemble, Walter Reynolds and many others in line, there would be little trouble to raise a strong five of the masculine players from here. Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Vanderbeck, Miss Caverly, Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Stetson, with others to choose from, would also represent the feminine half of the team. Oswald Kirkby, Jerry Travers, Johnny Anderson, Gardner White, D. E. Sawyer and many others, with Mrs. W. A. Gavin, Miss Marion Hollins, Miss Beatrice Lounsbury, Mrs. Quentin Feitner, et al., would make a strong team for the opposition.

No big championships have been played in either city this year and a match such as this would do much to bolster up a waning season and give the fans a chance to see some very fine golf.

Shawnee Today
Shawnee's annual fall tournament for men begins today and adds one more fine chance for golf to the locals.

This is always one of the big affairs, even though it isn't held at a strictly home links.

Any one who is ever fortunate enough to play Shawnee is always properly entranced and seldom misses a chance thereafter. There is something about a Shawnee tourney that differs decidedly from other events, and that is the clubby after-the-play, get-together meetings possible.

Every one lives at the courses during the days of play and many a lasting golf friendship has been made at the mountain course.

The tournament scheduled for October 23 at the Country Club of Atlantic City offers some of the same possibilities, the rugged course, plenty of fine golf, and this tournament, though in the twilight of the season, forces a large gathering of the locals to gather in their clubs once and bid them thither.

The Lumbermen play at Huntington Valley on the 15th of this month and about forty are expected to get in the going. The entry list is small, but the

WOMEN STARS WIN AT GOLF

All Favorites Come Through, With Fine Matches Booked for Today

PEACOCK-CAVERLY FEATURE

Eight of the women who qualified in the recent national golf championship at Shawnee survived the first round of match play in the eighth annual invitation tournament for the Berthelmy Cup over the Noble course yesterday. There were no upsets and all the favorites came through as expected.

Only one of the national qualifiers fell by the wayside, and that was Mrs. Thurston Wright, of the Allegheny Country Club, who was beaten by Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, of the Merion Cricket Club, twice winner of the cup. In her match with Mrs. Wright Mrs. Barlow assumed the lead in the first hole and was never headed. After two halved holes Mrs. Barlow increased her advantage to 4 by winning the next three holes. Then came three holes every one of which was won by the Pittsburgh player, and at the turn she was only 1 down. Mrs. Barlow added another to her total by winning the tenth, and then came two halved holes. By this time Mrs. Barlow had things completely under control, the three succeeding holes going to her, the match ending on the fifteenth green, with Mrs. Barlow the winner by a margin of 3 and 3.

Mrs. A. K. Billstein won the first hole from Miss Mildred Caverly, national finalist in 1918, but the Philadelphia Cricket Club girl squared the match on the next hole, took the lead on the third and was never headed. Miss Caverly was twisting and bracing in fine style, and her game throughout was excellent. By the eighth hole she was 4 up, but Mrs. Billstein cut it to 3 by winning the ninth. Miss Caverly needed only four more holes to clinch the match, and she did so by winning the tenth and the other halved, the cricket club representative winning by 6 and 5.

Miss Irene Peacock, of the Thousand Islands, a national semifinalist, defeated Miss Florence McNeely, of Merion, by 4 and 2. After the match the Pittsburgh girl, who has won the Thousand Islands championship six times, said that she was in all the rough around the course and several times found the brook that is a hazard on most of the holes. She was 3 up on the Merion player after five holes had been played, but Miss McNeely reduced this lead to one by winning the sixth and seventh. At the turn Miss Peacock led by two holes. She increased this to three on the eleventh. Miss McNeely won the thirteenth, but it availed her naught, for the match ended on the fifteenth, for the match ended on the fifteenth. Mrs. Caleb F. Fox obtained the jump on Mrs. J. Wallace Turnbull, of White-mass, right at the start by winning the first three holes. The latter cut his to one by taking the fifth and sixth. The eighth went to Mrs. Fox, and at the turn she was 2 up. Mrs. Turnbull won the tenth, and the next four holes went to Mrs. Fox, the match ending on the fifteenth in her favor by a margin of 4 and 3.

Mrs. T. C. Kinkaid, of the Philadelphia Country Club, gave Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck, the 1915 national champion a harder match than was expected. Mrs. Vanderbeck was out in 45, but the match was all square. On the second hole Mrs. Vanderbeck's game proved too strong for her opponent, and at the fifteenth she was down 4. The fifteenth went to Mrs. Kinkaid, but a half on the sixteenth gave Mrs. Vanderbeck the match by 3 and 2.

Mrs. G. Henry Stetson and Miss Eleanor T. Chandler, both of Huntington Valley, played on equal terms for the nine holes, being even at that point. The first four holes coming in were won by Mrs. Stetson and the Mrs. Vanderbeck's game proved too strong for her opponent, and at the fifteenth she was down 4. The fifteenth went to Mrs. Kinkaid, but a half on the sixteenth gave Mrs. Vanderbeck the match by 3 and 2.

Mrs. Liveright, of Philadelphia, started in fine fashion in her match with Marion Hollins, of Westbrook, the Metropolitan champion, but the New York girl squared the match on the fourth hole. Miss Hollins took the lead on the fifth but lost it on the sixth. At the turn she was 1 up, and by the time the twelfth hole was reached she had increased her advantage to three. Mrs. Liveright won the thirteenth and the match ended on the fifteenth. Everything considered, the local player made an excellent showing against the former national finalist.

MARRIED MEN—READ THIS

IT MIGHT be just as well if married women read this also, for, after all, it's really in their future interests.

Mr. Married Man, how are you training your wife to become a successful widow as she is a wife?

Of course, you realize that you'll die some day, and the odds are in favor of your wife surviving you. Now, so as to be nice and cheery and friendly, just imagine you are dead.

Your widow now has to do things for herself that she used to leave to you when you were alive. Is she able to do them? Did you train her to do them?

As you are dead, she has to handle all the finances of the family. She's received your insurance money, but does she know what to do with it?

How would you like her to follow the advice of the minister as to investments? Widows frequently do it. Ministers advise sincerely, but do you think their training and experience fit them to become financial advisers to your wife?

She has to handle the bank account. Between you and me, can she make out a check? Can she keep a home expenditure book that will show her where the money has gone?

I know of a widow who had no idea of keeping track of expenses. She drew money from the bank and charged it to expenditures. Then, when she spent that money she charged it to expenditure books again. At the end of the month she found she had apparently spent twice as much as she received.

It would be funny if the little lady were not so lovely and unhappy and helpless. As it is it is a near-tragedy.

Now here's something you can do to help your wife become a capable widow. (If you are already doing this, tell your club friends how well it works.)

Give your wife a check on the 1st of every month and let her handle her own bank account. Give her an al-

Visitor to City Seriously Wounded by Fleeing Man—Assailant Held

James Flynn, a visitor to this city from Harrisburg, is expected to die in St. Joseph's Hospital as the result of a bullet wound inflicted by Thomas Dolan, Norris street near Fourth.

Dolan, who is known throughout the northeast as "Tommy," says he shot Flynn because he feared the visitor and four friends were trying to rob him. Dolan was held without bail to await the outcome of Flynn's injuries.

Three of Flynn's friends were arrested and held in $400 bail as material witnesses. It was testified before Magistrate Noff that Flynn had first fired on John Fitzgerald, a member of the party, after they refused to join a crap game with him.

They pursued Dolan, they testified, and then he turned and shot Flynn Fitzgerald, who comes from Berwyn, Tony Gross, also of Berwyn, and Charles Schaeffer, of Harrisburg, were the men held as witnesses.
