

Please Tell Me What to Do

By CYNTHIA

Would Be Plain

Dear Cynthia—You seem to be helping everybody out now, perhaps you can help me. Reading the letter of Romance several weeks ago interested me very much. Now here is my case: An twenty-two years of age and have been told ever since I can remember that I am very good looking; do not have to use cosmetics as my complexion is very good. I have had numerous admirers, but here is the part that puzzles me: everywhere I go the best looking fellow in the room after me and usually he dances like Vernon Castle, and of course the so-called plain fellows stay far away from me and they go pick some nice, plain little girl and marry her, while all the time my heart is just longing for what the plain girls get out of life. I have a womanly position, and if my fellow-workers ever knew I wrote this they wouldn't believe it, but the time I am here I am wishing that I was out pushing a baby cart for some honest-to-goodness plain man, not a dressed-up dummy. PERPLEXED.

Marrying for Money

Dear Cynthia—In answer to "A Live Wire" I am going to talk strong right from the beginning and say that I believe the person—man or woman—who marries for money alone is a fool and what is the result, as a rule, of this kind of marriage? Most cases, generally speaking, a divorce in the end. Why? In the beginning there is no love. Only the big dollar mark foremost in the mind. And after the novelty of marriage wears off, then comes the burning desire to try a new venture.

There are one or two theories of plenty of money, a large, stylish house, several large, beautiful automobiles and plenty of clothes, always in the latest style. If a man cannot or will not supply all these, then she goes elsewhere, where she can get them.

But I have yet to find the case where money and love which is the best and only love in the world. The love that

To expect real, true love we must, above all other things, be true to ourselves and to the one we love. But do you think for a moment that one can expect the truth from one who marries for money alone and has not love for her husband? Do you think that you will be truthful concerning the disposal of the husband's money, which is often hard earned? Do you think that if a girl really loved a man instead of simply loving the money he owned that the man would think for a moment of a divorce? Don't we have enough trouble in the world today with the large enormous questions that confront the country without having to bother with the ever-increasing court fees in divorce cases? I agree with what "A Live Wire" says on this also. I am not much of a writer nor good on debating, but these are just a few of my opinions. ADAM.

The Woman's Exchange

Wants to Get Thinner

To the Editor of Woman's Page:

Madam—I am a girl sixteen years of age and weigh 124 pounds and am very much. I swim, play ball, dance, but nothing helps me. I would like to reduce very much, as I am going to take up fancy dancing. I eat an awful amount of fruit. Do you think this is the cause of it? I have an awful appetite and am always eating. Can you give me anything that will do good by cutting all the time and some recipes that will make me lose weight rapidly? Is vinegar any good for reducing weight? GOGGLES.

I doubt whether the fruit makes you fat, but I am perfectly sure that the

FUR AT THE BACK AND NOT IN FRONT

A Daily Fashion Talk by Florence Rose EVERY year the evening wrap assumes new importance. In fact, the making and designing of beautiful and sumptuous evening wraps is quite an art in itself, and there are brocades and silks and rich trimmings, the sole object of their existence being to make beautiful some evening wrap. In no type of garment, by the way, is it possible to show off rich brocades and tapestries to better advantage. For one thing, there is a larger expanse, a straighter line and a larger unbroken surface than on the evening frock, and the fact that it is a garment to be worn in the evening means that the brilliance of the color and gorgeousness of the fabric are going to be revealed under the enhancing lights of evening. Of exquisite and striking brocaded silk is the evening wrap here shown, and the collar is of the sort that marks it unmistakably as a recent production. It is made of taupe-colored wool, which is again used for the large cuffs and for the band at the lower edge of the back. And there is another earmark, the new thing of the autumn of 1919—this use of the fur at the back and not at the front of the wrap.

'awful appetite' and the fact that you are always eating are making you fat and will make you fatter if you don't do something about it. That sounds very discouraging, but if you really want to get thin, I am sure your mind is eating a little less at each meal. Don't try to stop overeating too suddenly. Just stop eating when you feel satisfied, and eat less or nothing between meals. The only thing that will do away with eating all the time is will power. Every time you have that desire to eat something more after you have had plenty at a meal, just say to yourself, 'There goes another pound of weight,' and pretty soon you will have yourself trained. The dancing ought to make you lose, too, when you start that. Avoid rich, sweet food, but don't let your regular diet without consulting a doctor. Vinegar is said to be good for reducing, but ask a physician about that, too. I know you will lose weight if you try my suggestion, and think just what an effect everything you eat will have upon you.

WANAMAKER'S DOWN STAIRS STORE

For Any Man Who Wants a Thoroughly Good Suit or Overcoat

and doesn't want to spend a mint of money for it, there is one safe place for him to shop—the Gallery Store for Men. Here he can't make an error in quality, for every suit and every overcoat is all-wool, through and through. The tailoring is carefully and painstakingly done—no slipshod work and no glossing over with a pressing iron where the work should have been put in with good, honest stitches.

Suit styles are this season's best—close shoulders and high waists for young men and straight sack suits for men who prefer them. Prices start at $27.50 for some special suits and go to $36.50. The Same High Standard Is Set for Overcoats and the overcoats shown here are worth boasting about. The fine, thick materials, the interesting variety of patterns and the good lines put them in a class by themselves. They're splendid coats from collar to hem. $25 to $10.

Men's Warm Flannellet Pajamas, $2.50. This low price is possible only because these were carried over from last season—but pajama styles don't change and the material is of good weight. In pink, gray or blue stripes on white ground. Suspenders, 50c. Of heavy elastic webbing with leather ends, flexible and comfortable. Hosiery supporters of good elastic are unusual at 25c nowadays.

Men's Gloves Like These Haven't Been Seen Since Before the War. They're of duplex fabric, but are made exactly like leather gloves, from the English cut of the thumb to out-seam sewing. The material is finely woven and very firm, in gray and buck-color. $2. Pique-sewn duplex gloves in gray are $1.50.

Trench Caps Special at 50c for Boys and Children. Khaki-color trench caps, plain or with pipings, trench caps of shepherd plaid, red trench caps and green trench caps—all kinds are here. They will fit children of all ages. From 3 years to quite tall boys and girls (who will like them for skating this Winter). Many were originally marked three and four times this price.

Good Shoes Built for Boys—$4. And they really are built for boys, active boys who run and climb. These shoes are built for that kind of wear and will give as much service as any one can reasonably expect of shoes that boys wear. They're of dull black leather, with wide, comfortable toes, and are in sizes 10 to 13 1/2 at $4. A similar shoe in dark tan leather is $4.25. For Big Boys. Very good quality red ripe tomatoes packed in sanitary cans—quality the same—difference in size of can.

Women's Good, Silk-Lined Coats $35 and $39.50. The $35 coats are of silvertone, in taupe, brown and reindeer, cut on simple, straight lines, with wide collars and hand-piped buttonholes. The $39.50 coats are of velour of a soft quality, in navy, brown, green, reindeer and taupe. They are box-pleated across the back and have a wide belt. Both coats are conservative of cut, coats that you can wear day after day and never tire of. They are in sizes 14 to 44.

Interesting Suits for Women $45 and $50. At $45 there are brown (various attractive shades), light and dark blue and gray suits of silvertone and velour, splendidly tailored and with attractive linings of figured silk. The mode of the long, narrow belt prevails, whether the belt crosses in front or is carelessly looped over. Tucks and bone buttons are cleverly used as trimming. Distinctive Models at $50. The collars of many of these suits are of soft, deep sealene fur, which also trims some of the pockets and cuffs. Silvertone or velour in shades of gray and brown shows the good tailoring to advantage. Many of the suits are belted; others show inverted pleats and a slight flare over the hips. Most all of the jackets have pockets, either tailored side pockets or large patch pockets. Jackets are beautifully lined.

Cotton Petticoats Special at $1. Light or dark mercerized cotton petticoats, with elastic at the top and ruffled flounces, the everyday sort that women want for the cooler days to wear with dark clothes. There are stripes of white on blue or black grounds; figures on black grounds and plain light or dark green, gray, American Beauty, blue or black. Wash Suits for Little Chaps. Norfolk, button-on and middy suits are in a variety of styles that look well on sturdy little boys. They are chambray or other sturdy cotton materials in white, cadet blue, tan, green and white trimmed with the colors. Some of them have white blouses and colored trousers. For lads of 2 to 6 at $3 to $5. Peg-Top Rompers. For little girls or boys of the same ages are $1.25 and $1.50. They are in striped or checked gingham at the first price and at $1.50 they have white blouses with striped or checked trousers.

Every one is good, sound value, in some cases the prices have been materially lessened, in others the goods were specially bought. In every instance, however, you are getting good, honest worth for every cent expended.

Men's Half Hose. 18c a pair, 3 for 50c, for gray, navy and black cotton hose, "seconds." 25c pair for "seconds" of merzerized black lisle hose or for "firsts" of black, navy, white, gray or cordovan cotton hose. Also some excellent natural merino hose are special at this price. $1 pair, 3 for $1, for fine, mercerized lisle hose in white, cordovan, navy and gray. 50c pair for silk-plated hose in gray, navy, cordovan and black. 60c pair for artificial silk hose in black, gray, cordovan, navy and white. $1 pair for silk hose in a full range of colors. $1.25 and $1.50 pair for black silk hose. $1.75 pair for "seconds" of very fine black, navy, gray, white and purple silk hose.

Men's Underwear. $1.25 garment for medium weight, fine white cotton undergarments—ankle-length drawers and shirts with long sleeves. $2 for merino shirts or drawers that are one-third wool. $1.65 for five styles in white cotton union suits—short sleeves, ankle length—short sleeves, knee length—short sleeves, 3/4 length—long sleeves, ankle length—no sleeves, knee length.

Tailored Cotton Flannel Blouses—$2.50. They are warmer than the ordinary cotton blouse and quite good looking in their blue or black stripes on creamy white. The collars can be worn high or low and there are turn-back cuffs.

Skirts for Girls and Young Women at $5.75. Neat black serge skirts, with deep hip yokes and lacing in back, are just right for middies or tailored blouses. The serge is a durable wool fabric and the tailoring is reliable.

A Royal Worcester Corset at $2. It is an excellent corset for average figures, as it has a low bustline and a long skirt, which allows free hip movement. The corset is well made, of figured pink poplin, with double boning in the front.

Neat and Pretty Is This House Dress at $3. Of chambray in blue, green or pink, it is a straight-line style, smocked in front beneath the yoke. The collar, cuffs and pocket trimmings are snowy-white pique.

Heavyweight Comfortables, $4. Good Winter comfortables are these covered with figured material and filled with cotton. They are scroll stitched and have plain color borders of pink, blue, lavender or yellow.
