

MAURER ANSWERS SPROUL'S CRITICISM

Labor Leader Reiterates Charges Against State Constabulary

INCLOSURES MANY AFFIDAVITS

Criticized by Governor Sprout for statements made in a speech September 20 in Chicago, John H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, has replied to the governor by letter in which he repeats charges against state troopers for their alleged actions in twelve cities and towns here.

Governor Sprout wrote Mr. Maurer he was sorry the labor leader had conveyed "a wrong impression of conditions as they exist in Pennsylvania."

In his letter to the Governor, received in Harrisburg today, Mr. Maurer incloses affidavits to support his charges that state troopers broke up "a peaceful assembly" at Clairton, Pa., "insulting and beating up innocent women and children, tearing down the American flag and trampling upon it with horses."

Other affidavits were forwarded to the Governor to support charges of illegal arrests by state troopers in Clairton, September 21 and 22.

At Homestead, Pa., the labor leader charges more illegal arrests. "Peaceful and respectable homes were broken into," Mr. Maurer wrote, "property was destroyed without cause; men and women were taken out of their beds, beaten and kicked and not even permitted to dress, and dragged to jail."

Men who attended a meeting in McKeesport, Pa., were said to have been arrested and fined excessively, without cause. The affidavits forwarded to back these charges were not signed, in view of the fact, Mr. Maurer wrote, that the notaries were not permitted to continue work.

Another charge is that state troopers appeared at Braddock, Pa., "where there was no disturbance," and where they were not invited. At Braddock, the state constabulary is charged with clubbing men on the streets, making arrests without cause, and "co-operating with the mill bosses to terrorize and try to incite the foreigners by teasing them."

Men and women are said to have been "attacked as they were coming out of church, and little children driven upon by horses as they were standing in the school yard."

Other affidavits were forwarded to support charges made against the state troopers for their alleged actions in New Castle, Woodlawn, Donora, Monessen and Butler.

MAN SUED BY GIRL TO WED

Breach of Promise Defendant Won't Marry Plaintiff, However

The alleged author of the "Dear Little Pearl" letters, James Wilson, 34, of this city, is to be married, but not to the St. Louis actress who sued him for breach of promise.

While Wilson was away in the army last February the actress, Miss Pearl Elliott, member of a burlesque company, obtained a $3250 verdict for damages for breach of promise to marry in Judge Finletter's court.

Wilson was not in court, but there was a batch of ardent letters which the jury believed were written by him. The former soldier, who lived on Rittenhouse street near Seventeenth, yesterday was adjudged a voluntary bankrupt in the United States District Court here.

Then it was learned that he received a marriage license to wed Miss Florence Sailer, 617 Olney avenue.

COLLINGSWOOD HOUSEWIVES FIGHT BAN ON DELIVERIES

Woman's Club Leads in War Against Storekeepers Who Refuse to Send Goods Unless They Get Higher Prices for Their Wares

The Collingswood (N. J.) Woman's Club has started something, and they expect results.

These women, as well as hundreds of other housewives, are tired of lugging their grocery, meat and produce orders home in baskets, boxes or even carts from the stores, which they have been doing since the storekeepers put a ban on deliveries early in the war period.

The storekeepers refuse to lift the ban and insist that buyers must carry their goods home themselves, or pay some one to do it, or guarantee the dealers higher prices for their goods, so they can finance the delivery proposition above their present profits.

The woman's club held a meeting yesterday afternoon and members spoke their minds freely to representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, who were there on request to explain why storekeepers would not deliver their orders now the same as before the war.

Dealers tried to show the women that they could not deliver unless they received higher prices for their goods. In reply the women gave a decided "No," with real emphasis against higher prices. The meeting concluded without an agreement being reached.

The president of the club, Mrs. R. F. Rider; first and second vice-presidents, Mrs. H. W. Leister and Mrs. Charles J. Langell; secretaries, Mrs. James Walls and Mrs. F. S. Knight, and treasurer, Mrs. George Franklin, supported by other members, were securing considerable data to assist them in their campaign to force dealers to deliver their orders without increased prices or to abide by the future decision of the club.

U. S. CURB MARKETS FOR ARMY GOODS

Food to Be Loaded on Trucks and Sent to All Points in the City

CITIES GET CHANCE TO BUY

Federal curb markets for the sale of surplus army foodstuffs are planned by Major Charles E. Jones, zone surplus officer, to dispose of the oversupply in this district.

The curb markets will be movable. Major Jones plans to have the sales take place from army motortrucks at points where buyers congregate. When sales diminish at one point the trucks will be moved to the next gathering spot.

Major Jones announced a schedule of prices at which the government is ready to sell surplus lots to any municipality in Pennsylvania. The municipalities to guarantee that the products be sold without profit at a price not more than 10 per cent above cost.

The prices quoted, on carload lots of 30,000 pounds, mixed goods, are beef, 10 1/2 cents; mutton, 12 cents; pork shoulders, 22 cents; pork loins, 25 cents; poultry, 30 cents; and bacon (cured strips) 20 cents.

WRECK DELAYS TRAFFIC

Freight Car Jumps Track at Washington Avenue Near 22d Street

Derailment of a freight car which jumped the track at Washington avenue near Twenty-second street last night tied up traffic for a time and caused the parting of a long string of cars to which two engines were coupled.

Both men were in the crowd of strikers which attacked a truck of the American Stores Company yesterday at Cornerstown and Girard avenues. The men denied taking any part in the demonstration, but discovery of the truck led to McHenry being held in $400 bail. Tobin was released.

MOVIES IN CHURCH WORK

Haddonfield Church Plans to Adopt Pictures at Services

To demonstrate the feasibility of the use of motion pictures for religious services in churches and Sunday schools, a "movie" demonstration will be given free in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Haddonfield, N. J., tonight.

Six reels of pictures will be shown. Admission will be limited to 500. The church officials and pastor, the Rev. Alfonso Dare, are considering using moving pictures occasionally in the church services, and this demonstration will probably result in a decision of the officials for or against the project.
