

CHRISTIAN UNITY NOW VITAL ISSUE

Philadelphia Clergyman Puts Matter Squarely Before Episcopal Convention

TO VOTE ON DIVORCE TODAY

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger

Detroit, Oct. 17.—A Philadelphia clergyman, Dr. George C. Foley, of the Division of the School, has placed squarely before the general convention of the Episcopal Church the need for more definite action leading toward Christian unity.

Dr. Foley made his step yesterday just before the house of bishops was thrown into a lively discussion on the same matter over an effort to achieve the proposed concordat between the Episcopal Church and the Congregationalists.

It was Bishop Brent, the former chief chaplain of the A. E. F., and now bishop of western New York, who saved the movement among the bishops where it was tending yesterday toward an innocuous resolution which would virtually have dodged the issue so far as this convention is concerned.

Bishop Brent's resolution, however, prevailed and a committee of seven bishops is to report next Monday morning definitely on what the church should do in going on with the movement for church unity.

The present plan is based on an agreement between certain ministers of the Congregational Church and representatives of the Episcopal Church who have agreed that the church may, as an expedient even now for bishops of the Episcopal Church to obtain Congregational ministers for special work in the church. This is but a step forward and the discussion in the house of bishops arose as to what should be the next step.

Laymen May Save Prayer Book. The Rev. Dr. Lloyd W. Tompkins, who vigorously opposes any change in the book of common prayer, believes that the laymen will save the prayer book from the efforts now being made to simplify it and change it.

The laymen were shown late yesterday when a large majority of laymen felt an effort to allow the use of shortened forms of the Te Deum after a clerical vote had approved it.

When another move to change the prayer for those in authority in the prayer book came up a resolution was proposed for the house to omit the prayer for the President of the United States now in the morning prayers.

The action of the House of Deputies immediately following this was unanimous for a continuance of the prayer for the President and all in authority in the morning prayer.
