GLOOM CLOUDS HANG OVER A FEW OF OUR BIG COLLEGE TEAMS

Dartmouth Causes Cornell Moments of Suffering, Colgate is Certain to Annoy Princeton and Georgia Tech Is Expected to Worry Pittsburgh

> By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

TWO dense clouds of gloom are hanging over a pair of our very best colleges today. A Green gloom threatens to make it an imperfect day for Cornell and a gloom of deep Maroon hue has Princeton on the verge of hysterics. In addition, a rearing, raging Tornado tingled with Gold is on its way to sweep the dreaded Panther off the may.

That's the dope on the football barometer today. Dartmouth, with its big Green team, meets Cornell in New York; Colgate, after scoring victories over Brown and Cornell, meets the Orange and Black at Princeton, and Georgia Tech, still smarting from the walloping received last year, has invaded Pittsburgh for purposes of revenge only.

There are other important conflicts on the card, but the grandoldepe should run true to form. Syracuse will have a hard tussle with Washington and Jefferson, and Pennsylvania stacks up against Lafayette. Yale and Harvard should be nervous about their games today. The Blue meets Virginia, a team which has been defeated by the Maryland Aggies, and Harvard meets Tuftstwo ideal games for so late in the season,

The Princeton-Colgate battle overshadows everything else in the East. The Hamiltonians have a strong eleven, which has been proved on two occasions. Princeton is uncertain. The loyal sons of Old Nassau are hoping the team is of high caliber, and today will tell the tale. Some predict a victory, while others hope the score will not be large. Colgate is full of confidence, expects to win and is the favorite in the little betting that has been done. It is the supreme test for Princeton, and if she gets away with it, Bill

Roper need not worry about the remaining battles. But the question is, will she get away with it? It looks dubious, but you never can tell in football. Colgate handed Cornell a terrible trimming last Saturday and uncovered nothing for the benefit of the Princeton scouts. During the game the Marcon used only a forward pass attack, not once rushing the ball from straight formation. The aerial attack, however, was successful, eighteen being worked without a single miss. It stands to reason that this will be tried again today, but some new running plays also will be sprung.

COLGATE has a flock of stars like West, the big tackle; Anderson, a braing quarterback who is a wonder at throwing the forward pass and running in an open field; Gillo, one of the best line plungers in the country; Woodman, a great center, and Laird and Watkins, two very good halfbacks. As yet, Princeton has uncovered but one star -- Strubing. The Tigers must harry or block those forward passes if they

Ithacans Appear to Be Outclassed

CORNELL should not offer much opposition to Dartmouth on the Polo Grounds. Looking over the dope, as Hughie Fullerton says, the Ithacans seem to be hopelessly outclassed. They have shown nothing this year but Shiverick, and Fritz isn't strong enough to play the whole game by his lonesome. Those who saw Cornell beaten by Colgate say the team is very weak and nothing can strengthen it. Maybe Speedy Rush put something over in the last week and meybe he didn't.

Durtmouth is strong in every position; her team play works smoothly, the attack it swift and powerful and the defense is all that could be desired. The team a so has the proper spirit, for in the Penn State game last week it came from behind and won, after Bezdek's men had scored two touchdowns on

Pennsylvania has one of the best teams in history, but should have some trouble with Lafayette. The Eastonians threw a big scare into Princeton two weeks ago and really outplayed the Tigers. They missed a touchdown which would have won the game by the scant margin of one inch, and that's pretty

Dr. Jock Sutherland, the all-American guard, of Pittsburgh, is coaching the team and as been very successful. Johnny Weldon, in the backfield, is a team in bosself, and will cause lots of trouble. Segal, the quarterback, and Lehecka and Hauser, halfbacks, are good ground galners. In addition, Suther-

THIS will be the hardest game Penn has played thus far, and we will be able to get a line on the strength of the team. . The Red and Blue, however, looks good, for it has a fast charging, aggressive line, a pair of excellent ends, a great captain and quarterback in Bert Bell and a dozen good backfield men.

Eyes of South Turned Pittward

THE entire South is all het up over the Georgia Tech-Pitt battle in Pittsburgh. That 32-to-o trimming administered last year was a bitter pill to swallow, and it seems that every one below the Mason and Dixon line took it as a personal affront. When the Tech team returned home after the disaster, plans immediately were laid for the game this year, and the only thing they talked about was beating Pitt. Last winter, Charley Outlaw, Morgan Blake and a few others organized the "Revenge Club," which soon had a large membership. At every meeting the members would growl at each other and howl for Panther meat. Down in Atlanta baseball almost was forgotten last summer, and the fans talked football and the coming battle in the North.

Tech has a good team. All of the games have been won, and while the scores have been smaller than in previous years, Heisman's eleven has delivered the goods. It is a common idea up here that the famous shift play is the only offense used by the Southerners. Don't you believe it. A couple of weeks ago Clemson College used a defense against the shift which almost ruined it in the first half and kept Tech away from the goal line. Then in the second half, the Georgians ran plays from a straight formation and scored an easy victory, Tech is ready for business today and will be hard to beat.

As for Pittsburgh, that walloping handed them by Syracuse should be the best thing in the world for them. Warner's men have been winning so long that they took each additional victory as a matter of course. Last Saturday the players were not at all nervous before the game and seemed surprised when they failed to gain, and the Orange kicked a goal from the field. They did not recover from their surprise during the afternoon, and the result was that one-

Warner has been working hard with the team this week, and it's a cinch Pitt will play a better game of football. The line should show some improve ment, and if such is the case, the backfield will be able to make some gains.

DE HART, Hastings, Marrow and Davies are about the best in this U section, but what good are they if the opposing linemen break through and stop them before they get started? That's what happened

London, Oct. 25.—(By A. P.)—Sir Thomas Lipton, challenger for the America's cup, will sail for New York on the liner Carmania today. Sir Thomas plans to remain in the United States for ten or twelve days for the purpose of making an inspection of his yacht. Shamrock IV, with which he hopes to lift the cup.

On his last visit to America, in the spring of this year, the Irish yachtsman inspected the Shamrock IV at Erie Basin, where she still lies, and pronounced her fit for racing.

The present flying trip of Sir Thomas indicates not only that he fully expects to have his challenge accepted, but also that he intends to make every effort to land the international trouby, orginally denated by Queen Vicoria, for which has perfected his dangerous headlock, an improvised strangle hold, and he feels equally confident he can beat the beat in the land with it. Win for Speedboys Over Interscholastic League Northeast Gives Berry's Bearcats Fighting Chance

While Welch's playing in the Frans-sford fray was somewhat of a disappointment to Coach Berry, this young ster will be a corking good understudy for Witherow. Just before the end of a yesterday's game Welch heaved a perfect forward pass, which was gobbied up by Boswell, who placed the ball on the 1-yard line. It was a long heave and timed beautifully.

Schofield Crippled

Captain Schofield, who really was the only experienced man Coach Harry Snyder had when he made his call for grid candidates, deserved a lot of credit for his plucky game against the winning West Philadelphians. Despite a badly wrenched kneecap "Les" insisted on starting the game, and it was not until near the end of the contest that he was relieved by Shane.

O'Brien also played a gritty game. After being knocked out at the end of the third period, being relieved by Weinberg, "O'Bie" gamely returned to the already lost contest in the latter

ONLY AN OCTOBER UPSET WILL SAVE TIGER CLAN TODAY

On Form Colgate Has Decisive Margin, for Roper's Green Material Has Regular Task to Check Such Veterans as Anderson, West and Others

IN THE SPORTLIGHT-BY GRANTLAND RICE

Twas ever thus since I was seven, Gee whiz—how passing time has flown— Each Saturday some Big Eleven Receives it on the Ulna Bone.

TODAY'S football test will carry a number of important engagements, both East and West.

To begin with, Princeton finds herself in the way of Colgate, and unless the Tiger team has an October upset concealed about its person, Princeton by tonight will join Brown and Cornell,

WHICH means there will be a Tiger pelt on the outside of Colgate's door.

O Tempora, Etc. THE gay and giddy times have certainly changed. Imagine one of the old Big Three depending upon a big upset to come safely through an October game! For on form Colgate looks to have a decisive margin. Larry Bankart has one of the great elevens of the year, and unless a big reversal hits in it is hard to see how Princeton's green machine is going to check such veterans as West, Gillo, Anderson and others who are well-proved Yale has already got hers from an eleven not supposed to be nearly as strong as Colgate. But losing to Colgate is no part of a disgrace,

QUITE a number of elevens are likely to have this habit before the last game is played.

The Western Feature

THE main western feature today will be the affair between Michigan and Ohio State. Yost has put a smooth machine into the field, but he will need a sturdy defense to hold back Ohio State's fast and crushing attack. No eleven in the land has a finer backfield than O. S. U., with Crick Harley flanked by two star mates. This contest may easily decide the western championship, as the winner isn't in line to be beaten by another team. Ohio State has never won a game from Michigan out of fifteen attempts. It may be that force of habit will pull Yost through,

 $m{B}^{UT}$ unless his cleven is on edge the present odds appear to be the other way.

Penn's Test

TARVARD and Yale both drift along today upon a fairly placid time. But HARVARD and Yale both draft along that in Lafayette, an eleven that had Princeton spinning around in dizzy circles for a big part of the game. Penn is now rated as one of the strongest elevens of the year. If the Red and Blue can win decisively from Lafayette there will be no question as to Pitt vs. Georgia Tech IN THE interim Coach J. W. Heisman brings his Georgia Tech cleven to Pittsburgh on Saturday for one of her first intersectional forays.

Heisman was teaching football in 1803. He has devised as many unique shifts and formations as any coach living.

We recall one of his elevens from sixteen years ago that was using the lateral pass freely long before Frank Hinkey ever handed it to Yale. Heisman sed to make his backfield tear around the track in the forenoon at off hours, passing the ball back and forth while running at top speed.

of it three or four years ago. PITT is due for a much better game today than she offered Syracuse last week, so this contest should be one of the best. THE Army eleven was earlier accused of having a weak schedule. West Point drew Syracuse ten days ago and she gets Boston College today. If these elevens are weak, neither Babe Ruth nor Dempsey can hit a lick.

The result was a better use of the lateral passing game than Yale made

WE HAVE never yet been able to see why a college football player who muffs a punt or misses a tackle or gives the wrong signal should be panned in the press as if he were a yeggman or a child killer. Football is quite a game, but it hasn't yet reached any such serious state.

A NY time you figure that you are up against a tough break, think of the daily life of the tackling dummy and give three ringing cheers.
