

HUNTING TOO TAME; BOYS KILL TURKEYS

Youthful Sportsmen Lead Haverford Police Merry Chase After "Bagging" Three Gobblers

CAUGHT HERE, FINED $30

Turkeys in Haverford are breathing easier today. The blackbirds and other feathered inhabitants have also recovered from their melancholy mood and are indulging in happy autumnal harmonies.

This wave of happiness among the feathered flock is due to the fact that two wild and youthful hunters, who threatened for a time to clean the game out of Montgomery county, have been captured.

The two little "Daniel Boones" are Eugene and Albert Graver, twelve and sixteen years old, respectively, of Sixty-second street and Washington avenue.

They shot down no end of game from blackbirds to turkeys, according to the police, and started home with their spoils in a pony cart.

Before the youngsters reached home, however, word was flashed to the Haverford police and the Llanerch constables of the invasion.

Six law enforcers jumped into a heavily armored auto. They managed to strike a trail of feathers, which grew thicker as they rode, and finally came up with the little hunters at Sixty-ninth street.

The boys were taken back to Llanerch, while they spent five hours in a cell, the police argued regarding what county the prisoners belonged to.

Meanwhile word was flashed to Magistrate Carson, who lives near the judge got busy with a few county leaders, a couple chiefs of police, a half dozen lawyers, and after spending most of Sunday on the phone, managed to obtain the release of the little hunters.

While there were evidences of other birds in their cart, it could only be proved that they shot the three turkeys for these they were fined $30 and costs.

"We were shooting other birds for a while," said Albert Graver, "but that sport was too tame. A kid came along and pointed out the turkeys—so we brought three of them down."

It is said that two of the law enforcers who chased the boys each took a turkey apiece—and they let Albert have one for his trouble.

DR. GARLAND DECLINED BISHOPRIC TO BE HERE

Sees Wider Opportunity for Service and Usefulness in His Present Capacity

A wider opportunity for usefulness and service in his present capacity inspired the Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Garland, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania to decline appointment as bishop of Utah.

Dr. Garland made clear this point today. He was asked why he had not accepted the election to the western diocese conferred upon him by the Episcopal convention in Detroit last week.

"I have been asked that question several times," said Doctor Garland, "and I have only one answer. While I appreciate the honor, I do not feel that I ought to accept. My life in Philadelphia has been a busy one and its duties are many and important. I do not feel that I should give it up for the easier post of bishop of Utah. I believe that I can be of greater service here where there is a wider field of activity and a greater demand. I think my opinion coincides with the views of the members of the clergy here who sent me a letter asking me to decline the appointment of the convention."

Bishop Garland returned to his home, 7020 Chew street, Mount Airy, Saturday night. He represented the diocese of Pennsylvania at the Detroit convention. In some circles there is talk of the possibility of Bishop Garland being appointed to the vacancy in the Delaware diocese caused by the resignation of Bishop Ainsman. Doctor Garland made no comment on this report.

UNINVITED GUESTS HELD

Four Youths Accused of Thefts of Jewelry and Money

Four youths, said to have been uninvited guests at a party given Saturday night by James J. Schylek in his apartments at 1725 North Forty-second street, were each held in $400 bail by Magistrate Harris today for a further hearing. The youths are accused of stealing money and jewelry from an apartment above Selvitch's, occupied by Mrs. Robert J. Kruse.

The prisoners said they were Nathan Yusem, thirty-eight and Cambridge streets; John Steinberg, thirty-eight and Poplar streets; John Mahonagh, fifty-seventh street and Girard avenue, and John Phillips, Fortieth and Poplar streets. All are eighteen years old.

Citizens' Association Arranges for Study by Experts

Arrangements have been made by the Main Line Citizens' Association to have Frederick L. Olmstead, of Brookline, Mass., and Arthur C. Comey make a study of the housing conditions in the sections occupied by renters at Brun Mawr, Ardmore, Berwyn and Narberth. This is the result of a tour of inspection made by Major Alfred M. Collins, president of the association, and a number of influential residents of Main Line suburbs.

Memorial Subscriptions Mark Anniversary of Birth of Former President

EULOGIZED IN SCHOOLS

Today, the sixty-first anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, President and patriot, and the first anniversary of his birth since his death, is being commemorated by Philadelphians in a reverent and practical manner.

In every school in the city the character of Theodore Roosevelt was made the subject of short memorial services before the beginning of the regular morning sessions. In the high schools the services were particularly impressive. Anecdotes revealing the characteristics of Mr. Roosevelt were told. Not the least interesting were those relating to the patriotism of the former President.

Collections Large

Banks, trust companies and other places where contributions for the memorial are being taken reported a big early morning collection. This is the last official day of the campaign and the many admirers of the late president are taking advantage of the last chance to participate in the national memorial.

The life and ambitions and accomplishments of Mr. Roosevelt were discussed by other speakers in churches in many sections of the city yesterday, and substantial contributions to the fund were recorded from the churches.

Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry service during President Roosevelt's administration, spoke in strong terms of admiration of his former chief in old St. Stephen's Church, Tenth street near Market. He characterized the former President as "the most dynamic man the English race has ever known."

Dr. W. D. Lewis Speaks

Dr. William Deper Lewis, close friend and admirer of Mr. Roosevelt, and chairman of the Roosevelt Memorial Association in the Philadelphia district, spoke in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Broad and Vernon streets, Park avenue and Norris street, and Dr. Russell Conwell at the Baptist Temple, Broad and Berks streets.

Membership in the Roosevelt Memorial Association is gained by a contribution of not less than one dollar.

WOMAN HELD AS FUGITIVE

Charged With Account Shortage by Richmond Firm

Charged with being a fugitive cashier from Richmond, Va., Mrs. M. L. Williams was arrested today in a boarding house at Nineteenth and Mt. Vernon streets.

When she had a hearing before Magistrate Meclary in the Central Police Court, Russ Scott, employment manager for the Kauffman Co., of Richmond, testified that Mrs. Williams was formerly a cashier in the Kauffman store. A week ago she left Richmond, he said, and when her accounts were examined it was found that she was short $100.

The magistrate held her to await the arrival of officers from Richmond.

G. W. ELKINS ESTATE MAY BE $50,000,000

Probating of Will Looked for This Week—Abington Hospital Bequest Expected

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

The will of George W. Elkins, financier and philanthropist, probably will be offered for probate in the Montgomery county courts the latter part of this week.

The document is expected to dispose of an estate valued at from $40,000,000 to more than $50,000,000, although it is considered probable that it will give little indication of the aggregate holdings of Mr. Elkins.

Mr. Elkins, who was sixty-one years old, died late Thursday night at the Philadelphia Country Club from apoplexy, with which he was stricken Wednesday. His funeral was held today.

William L. Elkins, his father and founder of the Elkins fortune, died in November, 1903. His will disposed of an estate worth $31,778,208.44. The fortune went directly to the family, with the exception of a few thousand dollars left servants and employes and $250,000 and a plot of ground for the erection of the Elkins Masonic Orphanage for Girls, Broad and Cayuga streets.

Although George W. Elkins was distinctly a Philadelphian, the fact that he maintained a residence in Montgomery county with country estates at Elkins Park and Abington, will cause his will to be probated there.

May Remember Hospital

It is expected Mr. Elkins will leave a large amount to Abington Memorial Hospital.

When the institution was projected some years ago Mr. Elkins assumed the responsibility financially, and the hospital was formally dedicated as a memorial to his first wife, Stella McIntire Elkins. Later, Mr. Elkins caused the erection of the Abington Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses. The entire plant represents a value of between $750,000 and $1,000,000. An endowment for maintenance purposes.

understood to have been an additional $1,000,000, also was made by Mr. Elkins.

The second marriage of Mr. Elkins to Mrs. Althea Laidlow Cummer took place two years ago. With the widow there are four children by his first marriage who will figure in the division of the estate.

The funeral services were held at noon today in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Ogontz. The Rev. Philip Steinmetz officiated. Interment was private, only the pall-bearers and immediate relatives attending the body to the Elkins mausoleum in Laurel Hill Cemetery.

The honorary pall-bearers were: Jas. G. Lindsay, Samuel P. Stinson, Thomas J. Jeffries, Dr. Joseph S. Neff, District Attorney Samuel P. Rotan, Assistant District Attorney William Findlay Brown, Frank Pearson, J. S. W. Holton, Ellis Jackson, Samuel Carstairs, Joseph Cooper, E. E. Smith, Fred Dillon, of Pittsburgh, Miss., and Frank G. Jones of Memphis, Tenn.

Memorial services in honor of the late Mr. Elkins were held yesterday at the William L. Elkins Home for Orphan Girls and the William L. Elkins Home for the Widows and Orphans of Masons, at Broad and Cayuga streets.

Phonetics

Suppose you had a chance today to name your product Kodak—would you? Or Crisco—or Victrola, Yuban, Jello or Uneda?

Does not each name bring to your mind a sharp definitive picture of just one particular article without thought of its other connotations?

The men who wrote, edited and illustrated the Stars and Stripes for our army in France are to "carry on" the same spirit in this country with a publication for the new civilian, called The Home Sector.

What does Sector—The Home Sector—mean to you today? What does it mean today to the nearly five million of our men who formed "the last reserve army of civilization"?

And what will The Home Sector mean twenty years from now to these millions of the A. E. F.?

A great name comes from great accomplishment, and the measure of its value is the measure of the service it identifies.

PERSONALITY Clothes, as well as men, have personality—usually that of the man who wears them. In preparing our Fall and Winter assortments, we provided for the individual and specific requirements of men of varying taste, age and build. Each man who buys here is a separate proposition to us. It is our pleasurable duty to study his particular requirements and to outfit him with clothing which is exactly suited to him in fabric, model and style. This is what we mean by clothes personality—clothes that accurately reflect the personality of the wearer. Fall and Winter Suits are priced $90 to $80 Full-weight Overcoats, $20 to $60 Winter Overcoats, $30 to $80

Here Are Two Floors Full of Splendid Assortments of Winter Suits and Winter Overcoats showing all the New Fabrics, Colors, Patterns, Models and Style Interpretations of this Season that surpasses all previous years in Smartness of Lines! Take the Overcoats, for example. Single-breasted models of new slenderness made sharper by waist seams, high shoulders, long up-reaching lapels. Some set off with velvet collars that add a touch of richness and warmth. Double-breasted models that fit close to the form without any circumference seam. Some are moderately conservative, but have the distinct individuality of the same workmanship. Big Ulster Models with muff pockets for cold and blustery days; deep convertible collars that roll up softly and comfortably under your chin. Some have belts all around; some have half belts; some are without belts. And then, Chesterfield models that are the backbone of Overcoatdom. They are designed and cut and tailored for substantial service. Ulsterettes that are shorter in length than the Ulster, less weighty, less ample, but no less warm. Just the Overcoat for street and town wear. Fur Overcoats, of course. Either with collars only of fur, or fur-collared and fur-lined, or all fur outside. The fabrics in the shells of the fur-lined Overcoats are Ox-fords; grays with slight plaid effects; or greenish mixtures. Leather and Cloth Reversible Coats, leather-lined Coats, in every length from 30 to 46 inches. Fall and Winter Suits in assortments that cannot be even enumerated here. And separate Trousers. Very fine values in Corduroy Trousers at $6 to $8. Suit prices are $35, $40, $45 upward. Overcoats for $25, $28 and up to $75.
