SHORTLY after the beginning of the war the good housewives of the thriving suburban village decided that they had reached the limit of their patience with the farmers in the surrounding counties. These good men forgot that the housewife in the small community likes farm produce as well as her sister in the large cities - hence they shipped their crops directly to the commission merchants and entirely ignored their neighbors in the small villages

The women of this community proudly acknowledged that they could raise sufficient greens and produce to make it unnecessary to buy these commodities in the open market

When one of the members of the Garden Club was asked how the idea originated, she explained to me that the farmers in the vicinity were attracted by the city prices and very grudgingly allowed them only a very small portion of the produce. This was endured for one season only and then they started their gardens and

Dear Cynthia-May I say a few ords to some of your girl readers who think that a man can trust women after one fooled him? I am r peliceman and I, too, was fooled once by a girl whom I thought some day to make my wife. This was five years ago. I loved this girl more than life; she was very pretty and a good little girl. I am a young girl and have several boy friends. They do not even attempt advances because there is something in my attitude which wards them off. I am not a prude and like to be sociable and have good times, but in the proper and conventional way. I am considered very attractive and pretty, so there would be every reason for a boy to want to kiss me—yet they do not try. I am not devoid of feeling but I am saving it all up for the one I will some day love. Cleaning Velvet

To the Editor of Woman's Page: Dear Madam—Could you kindly advise me through your valuable paper how I could wash a little girl's white panne velvet hat and also how to wash and dry one of those silk baby quilts? I believe it is made in China or Japanese silk. They come in pink and blue. MRS. K.

Try sponging the hat with a weak solution of borax and water. It is very difficult to clean velvet when it is made up into a hat, for there is no way of getting under it to steam it. The borax will freshen it up, but if it does not clean it satisfactorily spread a thick layer of chalk or magnesia over the velvet and allow it to remain over night. Brush it out thoroughly next day.

WHATEVER impressions the mind of the young college boy may register at the word "football." to the young girl those words at this time of the year have a significance that has very largely to do with her wardrobe. For the thing that the young girl must do at a football game is to look well. Understanding the game is to look well. Understanding the game is on the 31st, on Friday of this week. I am sending a list of costumes that your friends could wear that night. Some costumes that boys could wear are Uncle Sam, soldier, sailor, clown, Arab, Indian, cowboy, pirate, bandit and scarecrow.
