

MAYORS TO ASSIST DISABLED SOLDIERS

Will Supply Information to War Veterans Who Are in Need of Vocational Training

COUNTRYWIDE CAMPAIGN ON

Mayors throughout the country are co-operating with the Federal Board for Vocational Education to locate veterans of the war in need of vocational training who have failed to connect with an agent of the board.

Literature, giving instructions how to reach the nearest district office of the board, and other information calculated to supply the need of the handicapped men, is now being placed in the hands of every mayor in the country.

Men in need of training in this city will be able to get information they need from the Mayor's office in City Hall.

Legislation provides that the Federal Board for Vocational Education cannot begin education and retraining of disabled men until they are discharged from the army hospitals.

"In a great majority of such cases, the man entitled to re-education was not in a position to hear of the board, or if he did hear of it he was too busy trying to make a living to give the subject consideration. The result was inevitable.

"The veteran found he could not successfully hold his job. Often he became discouraged, lost hope and developed a spirit of a chronic kicker. His friends and acquaintances, not being informed, could not help him and were inclined to place the blame upon the Federal Board for Vocational Education."

A record of which the board is proud has been established by placing in training 1623 disabled soldiers, sailors and marines in six days during the week of October 13. Between September 18 and October 18 more than 3000 men were placed in training.

SMITH ACCUSES HEARST

Governor Says Attack Resulted From His Independence

New York, Oct. 30.—After William Randolph Hearst, publisher and declined a challenge from Governor Smith to engage in public debate, the governor appeared last night in Carnegie Hall and charged that the publisher's papers had attacked him because he had refused to let Mr. Hearst tell him what to do as chief executive of this state.

Reviewing his political record, Mr. Smith defied Mr. Hearst "to mention a crooked act that I ever performed, in public or private life." Asserting facts in Hearst's paper attacks on him had been "gravelly distorted," Governor Smith charged these papers were adding to the nation's difficulty in suppressing the "spirit of unrest" and were making it difficult for the government to handle the situation.

STRIKE BENEFITS PORT

Business of New York Now Being Diverted to This City

That Philadelphia will benefit commercially from the longshoremen's strike in New York, was the expressed opinion today of Director Webster, of the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries.

According to Director Webster, while there are no definite statistics to give out showing actual companies that have diverted freight to this port, nevertheless many New York firms have had representatives here to look over the ground and he is optimistic that an actual gain to the port can be counted on within a few days.

According to advices from New York the firm of L. E. Foulrod & Co., foreign and domestic freight forwarders, are urging diverting shipments to Philadelphia and Boston.

SPOOK AND GNOME FAVORS FOR HALLOWEEN PARTY

STATE'S COST IN WAR TOPS UNION'S '61 TO '65

Records Show Loans and Taxes Exceeded North's Bills of Rebellion by $600,000,000

Pennsylvania's war loans and war taxes in the two years of America's participation in the world war were greater by about $600,000,000 than the total cost to the North of financing the entire four years of the Civil War.

The Pennsylvania War History Commission made this announcement today. The comparison between the gigantic financial contributions of this commonwealth to the nation at war and the cost in dollars and cents of the American Civil War is made as a stimulant to the interest of Pennsylvanians in state history week, November 9 to 15, when the people of Pennsylvania are asked to fortify the state records of the future by contributing the civilian and service achievements of 1917 and 1918 to the commission's files.

The Keystone commonwealth, the figures on hand at present show, subscribed to $2,700,947,800 worth of Liberty and Victory bonds. The North, from 1861 to 1865, floated loans totaling $2,021,916,786. In other words, Pennsylvania in two years raised $88,025,931.014 more in bonds than the entire North did in four years.

The Union, between 1861 and 1865, paid into the United States Treasury taxes totaling $96,145,247. Pennsylvania, for 1917 alone, paid $589,056,143.20. The 1918 taxes, which are being paid in four installments, the last one this December, will reach the $600,000,000 mark. The combined Pennsylvania taxes for 1917 and 1918 will exceed the Civil War taxes of the Union by approximately $312,000,000, which added to the $88,000,000 increase in war loans, makes a $600,000,000 total.

BEWARE OF THE SPOOKS! TOMORROW IS HALLOWEEN

Winds'll Howl and Ghosts'll Float and Cats'll Squall and Scowl—Maybe You Will Find Your Future Life Mate

A SHIVERY night, tomorrow! The wind'll howl and ghosts'll float on wings of air.

And cats'll stand tip-toe on the fence and squall and scowl. There'll be no peace for them or you when witches ride their broomsticks through the sky.

But if you watch and wait and watch some more you'll see the spirit of your future mate come visit you at midnight.

Or perhaps you're dead? A sorry wicket deed. The gods decree you are not fit for immortality till first you live another life within the form of beast.

A dog you'll be until you're purged of sin—or else you'll pay your penance as a cat, or cow, or serpent.

Tomorrow's Halloween, the night when spirits leave the flesh and meet the ghosts of other worlds. They go through walls and iron gates. Sometimes they're friendly and sometimes they scare the very life out of you by looking over your shoulder.

But unmarried folks get lots of fun from tales of witches and the south-sayer yaras. Just put three nuts on the bar of the grate of your hearth fire and name each one for a lover that might be. If one of them cracks or jumps, beware! That lover is unfaithful and no happiness will come along that road.

WOMEN JURORS URGE MERCY FOR MOTHER

Find Erring Wife Guilty With Man, and Court Sends Both to Prison

Cleveland, Oct. 30.—Here is the verdict of eight women who sat in judgment on a case of sex triangle because the woman, Mrs. Goldie Drossos, pleaded that men could not understand love matters and women could.

The jury stands seven for the conviction of both defendants and one for acquittal on circumstantial evidence. The majority recommends mercy in the case of Mrs. Drossos because of her infant, who, we advise, should be left in her care, and that the two other children be returned to the Columbus authorities to be placed with the father, Mr. Drossos, to pay for their support until such time as Mrs. Drossos prove herself a fit mother.

Mrs. Drossos left her husband, a Columbus restaurant keeper, and her three children and came to live in Cleveland with John C. Buttery. After their arrest the woman pleaded with Judge Sawicki for a hearing by women.

"The women who have come to sit as an advisory council in this case," Judge Sawicki told them when court opened, "will be of valuable assistance in giving us a woman's viewpoint on the 'eternal triangle.' But, as they are not legally qualified to act as a formal jury, it is to be understood the court will not be unduly swayed by their verdict."

Every phase of the moral viewpoint was taken into account by the jury of women, and after an hour's deliberation, they returned the verdict. Judge Sawicki thanked them for their services, and called the two defendants before him, also Mr. Drossos, the husband. He pronounced sentence, giving each of the defendants a fine of $200 and to serve three months in the workhouse.

AMBLER CASE UP TOMORROW

Former Official's Indictment in Bills for Bank Wreck to Be Asked

Bills for the indictment on six counts against Charles A. Ambler, former state insurance commissioner, on charges growing out of the wrecking of the North Penn Bank will be presented to the Grand Jury tomorrow.

That announcement is made by Joseph H. Taulane, assistant district attorney in charge of the bank case prosecution. If the Ambler case does not take too much time, indictment of Daniel F. Lafan, former state banking commissioner, will also be asked and testimony submitted to the Grand Jury this week.

DALLAS "BOY" MAYOR SEEKS POINTERS HERE

Attending Sessions of American Civic Association in City. Is 26 Years Old

At an age when most young lawyers are trying hard to look busy, Frank W. Wozencraft is mayor of Dallas, Texas, and is making the municipal wheels hum in that Lone Star city.

The youthful mayor—he is twenty-six years old—is in this city today attending the sessions of the American Civic Association in the Bellevue-Stratford. He wants to obtain more pointers that will help his city.

Said to be the youngest city executive in the United States, Mr. Wozencraft is elected on a reform platform against two other candidates, after the hardest kind of a battle against machine politics.

He ran on a fusion ticket as the candidate of the Democratic party and the Citizens' Association after he had returned from service in France as a captain of infantry. He graduated from law school when twenty-two years old.

The "boy" mayor wears large loosed spectacles and has his moustache close-cropped. Local delegates to the convention saw in him traces of a resemblance to Congressman Moore.

City Gets $380,090, Spends $682,779

City Treasurer Shoyer's weekly statement issued today shows $380,000.17 paid into the city treasury last week, and expenditures made of $682,779.00. This leaves a balance on hand, not including the sinking fund account, of $17,997,014.30.
