

MACLAUGHLIN NOW HAS NO FREE PHONE

City Service Cut From Former Home of Director of Supplies

ORDERED BY SAFETY HEAD

At 10 o'clock today Joseph S. MacLaughlin, nominee of the Charter party for Mayor, had telephone service in his home at 912 North Forty-eighth street. Half an hour later the operator reported it had been disconnected.

It was learned that Mr. MacLaughlin, who resigned as director of supplies October 15 to conduct his campaign for Mayor, was using an electrical bureau phone in his home for which the city paid. While director Mr. MacLaughlin was entitled to the use of the service free.

At 10:03 o'clock Chief James F. MacLaughlin, of the electrical bureau, was asked about the MacLaughlin service. He explained Mr. MacLaughlin had convinced him that he was entitled to the free phone because the former director of supplies was still head of the market commission appointed by Mayor Smith. Chief MacLaughlin said he would remove the phone on orders from Director of Public Safety Wilson. Chief MacLaughlin explained "a few days" were usually allowed before phones in city officials' homes are cut off.

From 10:05 until 10:25 attempts to question Director Wilson failed. He was in conference with Chief MacLaughlin. At 10:25 Director Wilson said the phone would be removed.

Five minutes later the electrical bureau operator reported "MacLaughlin's telephone has been disconnected."

MOTOR KILLS BOY OF SEVEN

Gloucester Youngster Run Down by Pennsylvania Car in Front of Home

Nicholas Candel, seven years old, 118 North King street, Gloucester city, was killed today when struck by an automobile in front of the Broadway Public School at that place. The driver of the machine, Harry G. Creek, of North Glenside, Pa., took the child to Cooper Hospital, Camden, where he died. A fracture of the skull caused the death.

Creek surrendered to the Camden police, who turned him over to Gloucester City authorities. He will be arraigned before Mayor Anderson, Coroner Pratt, of Camden county, is investigating. Witnesses say Creek was driving at moderate speed when the child ran in front of the car.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HOTEL

Stephen L. Showden, New York Horticulturist, Succumb at Ritz

Stephen Logan Showden, of New York, a horticulturist, died suddenly at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel last night. It was reported to the coroner that Mr. Showden's death was due to heart disease.

He was forty-five years old. It is understood that he was on his way back to New York after a visit to Pittsburgh. Medicine found in his room had been purchased in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Showden will be here from New York this afternoon to accompany the body back to that city.

FUGITIVE SHOT; GIVES UP

Man Policeman Hit Goes to Hospital Twelve Hours Later

Weak from loss of blood because he waited twelve hours after he was shot by a policeman before seeking treatment, John Dill, of North Marshall street near Callowhill, in St. Mary's Hospital today.

Policeman Richard Jefferies, of the Third street and Fairmount avenue station, says he saw Dill and George Fiel, of North Orianna street near Callowhill, trying doors, and when they saw him they ran. He fired several shots. Fiel was arrested and held under $1000 bail. Dill was not found until he appeared at the hospital with a bullet wound in his back.

BERRY SEES CHURCH UNION

Bishop Bases Belief on Action in London of Methodist Branches

A movement toward a union of Protestant churches is seen today by Bishop P. Berry.

He bases this belief upon the conference in London of the three Methodist church bodies of Great Britain, the Wesleyan, the Primitive Methodists and the United Methodists.

"It was the most important Methodist conference, perhaps, since the death of Wesley, 1791," said Bishop Berry.

A recent editorial in one of Philadelphia's dailies deprecates the fact that "good workmanship is rarer than it ever was before," and that "the normal enthusiasm for work and healthy effort and achievement is at its lowest ebb." If such really be the case, it should give Philadelphians a sense of satisfaction to know that the proprietors of the Chestnut Street Shops are maintaining the same standards of quality and efficiency upon which they have built their reputations.

SOMETHING delicious and appetizing for luncheon is chicken salad, with fried oysters, as served at the Cheri Restaurants, 124 South Thirteenth street and 132 South Fifteenth Street. When I say it is delicious and appetizing, I choose the adjectives advisedly, for none but the most crisp and tender lettuce and the freshest of chicken is used in the chicken salad, and the oysters are fried to perfection—golden brown and crisp. Everything is so daintily served at the Cheri Restaurants that it is a real pleasure to eat there. Do not forget, when ordering your chicken salad and fried oysters, to include an order of Cheri's delicious French pastry. It is just the right dessert with which to conclude one of Cheri's dainty luncheons.

THE quaintest of the quaint in the line of evening dresses is one of emerald green velvet at the store of Oppenheim, Collins & Co., Chestnut and Twelfth Streets. It has a pointed bodice with round neck, which is V shaped and extends almost to the waistline in the back. An afternoon gown of Pompeian red duvetyne has embroidery in self-color on the front of the bodice and the side panels of the skirt, as well as on the sleeves, which reach to the elbow. A gorgeous evening gown of gold brocade has a pointed train. A bow of black maline, fastened at one side, veils the train with its long end. Its only trimming is a girdele of jet beads. Another beautiful evening gown of black net, over silver cloth, is elaborately trimmed with sequins.

IF YOU are planning to make Christmas day merry for some one by the gift of a New Edison Phonograph, now is the very best time to order it. You can make no better choice than the New Edison, for the quality of its tone is unequalled. If you have any doubts in this regard, ask to hear the New Edison at the store of N. Stetson & Co., 1111 Chestnut Street. You will be convinced of the power of this instrument to actually re-create sound. They will gladly send you a beautiful booklet, with halftone reproductions of the photographs of such celebrated artists as Frieda Hempel, Jacques Urlius, Ferrar Fontana and many others whose recreations you may hear on the New Edison. This book also contains short biographies of famous composers.

A DETROIT man, in his will, left his bathrobe to his wife, with the wish that, since she had worn it so often during his lifetime, he hoped that she might enjoy it now unmolesied. If the bathrobe was as attractive and comfortable as those at MacDonald & Campbell's, 1334 Chestnut St., it was small wonder that she wore it so often. There are bath and lounging robes of satins and silks and brocades in the most unusual colorings—gorgeous purples and woody shades of green and brown. The wool robes, thick and soft, are just the thing to slip into on cold winter mornings, when a chill nor'wester is blowing in through the window. They make dandy Christmas gifts, and there is no time like the present to begin your Christmas shopping.

These are the Walking Boots that Fashion demands---and the price means a saving of Three Dollars Today

The boot illustrated is one of several thousand pairs of very smart and effective walking boots that we have grouped at a price that is at least Three Dollars less than their actual value.

This particular model is made in a very fine grade of soft, pliable Koko calf, in the rich shade of brown so fashionable this Fall.

It has a Goodyear welt sole and a 1 1/2-inch Cuban heel, and is made on a long, slenderizing last that gives perfect comfort and yet makes the foot look smaller. And it has all of those little niceties of finish usually found only in custom boots. It is worth at least Eleven Fifty today.

Sizes 1 to 8
Widths AA to D $8.50

Included in the group at this same price are seven other straight tip and wing tip styles with Louis or Cuban heels, in gun-metal calf, black kid and patent leather.
